DAVID BELASCO, STAGE GENIUS, DIES AGED 77

Heart Attack Ends His Career.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—David Belasco, dean of theatrical producers and an outstanding figure in the stage world, died late this afternoon in his rooms at the Hotel Gladstone of a heart attack. He was in his 77th year.

His death was unexpected. Mr. Belasco had apparently entirely recovered from the illness which prevented his attending the New York opening of his most recent success, "Tonight or Never," last November. It did not seem that play until March, he actively had been active, reading scripts in preparation for next season, going to the theater about once a week, and participating in arrangements for his 78th birthday party, to be held in Atlantic City in July.

Dr. James C. Wagner and Dr. Joel Hayman, his physicians, and his only child, his daughter, were with him when he died.

Ailment Two Days Ago.

Mr. Belasco had a slight recurrence of illness on Tuesday, and on Wednesday he told Dr. Wagner, under the impression that he was suffering from indigestion, Dr. Wagner called Dr. Hayman, consultant in heart and circulation ailments.

That night his condition became serious, and this morning it was reported he was in a serious condition. His death did not seem imminent, however, and it was believed a period of recovery was good until unexpected relapse this afternoon resulted in the stoppage of his heart action.

Theaters to Pay Homage.

Practically every theater in New York arranged to make some display of mourning in Mr. Belasco's honor tonight. The actors whom he developed from obscurity to stardom, stage managers and directors who had come under the influence of his genius and those who had known him as a fellow man, all joined in expressions of sorrow.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Central synagogue.

More than anything else David Belasco, "the wizard of the American theater," was known for his application to the art of stagecraft. He wrote and produced more than 200 plays, many of them great successes, which he developed and managed a long list of stars from Mrs. Leslie Carter to Lenore Ulric, yet his greatest fame is derived from his work with natural lighting effects.

Active Half Century.

Belasco's adventures in the theater spanned a half century. When he first came to New York the theatrical district was centered in the fashionable segment of Broadway. His plays new American drama evolve from the melodrama of the day to a flowering in more subtle form. Yet Belasco, who made his great successes with melodramas, was that form of stage entertain ment to the last, and with Willard Mack to write them for him he achieved several successes late in his career.

Of Mr. Belasco Arthur Wing Pinero, Belgian of Portuguese origin. His parents were forced to quit their homeland when the Moors swarmed over it. They sought a haven in England, whence the immediate forbears of Belasco set out for Vancouver, B. C. Hence "the father of the future master of the American theater" was a Canadian lumberjack.

Born in San Francisco.

Family accounts of the father, Humphrey Abraham Belasco, have it that he prospered for a time quite well to do. Success came, however, and the family moved southward to San Francisco in 1853. This move was made at the height of the gold rush fever, and it was in the wild, sprawling, and lively San Francisco of those days that the prospective genius was born on July 25, 1854. He saw the light of day in a cellar. Poverty early in life he showed a fondness for the theater. When his father moved to Victoria, B. C., David played juvenile parts in the Victoria theater. Before his family left Canada for the second time David spent several years in a Roman Catholic monastery on Vancouver Island. He is said to have left the monastery when a circus

IF THIS GAME ENDS IN TIE WHAT WILL JUSTICE DO?

From now on justice will be meted out in the courts of Evanston magistrates not only with due regard to the weight of the evidence but also with a punctilious observance of tape line distances.

Heretofore when cases appearing before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter have been given a change of venue they have gone to the court of Justice of the Peace James Corcoran, which is 249 feet from the Porter courtroom. As the law provides that the venue shall be changed to the nearest J. P., Justice of the Peace Max Borchardt, who was more than that distance from Magistrate Porter, got no changed venue cases and no fees that go with them.

But he moved his office and a tape line measurement yesterday showed that from Porter to Borchardt is only 237 feet. The next move is up to Corcoran.

Mobilize 672 War Planes; to Visit Chicago

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—The army air maneuvers on a scale never before planned will begin to take definite shape tomorrow, when 672 fighting planes gather at Dayton, O. Winging their way out of the north, east, and west, the greatest number of military airplanes in the history of aviation will be stabled in one area, to prove the possibility of safety and rapid concentration of the air forces and the ability of the planes to defend the central states and the eastern seaboard, all in two rounds of the hour hand.

BENJAMIN D. FOULOIS.

Saturday will be spent in drilling the division in the air, for the army planes do their squads right and left just as the doughboy does on the ground. There will be combat competition Sunday morning, and in the afternoon the entire division will participate in an aerial review.

Remain in Chicago Overnight.

Training will continue Monday and Tuesday as the air division will proceed to Chicago, remaining there overnight. A combat demonstration and aerial parade ten miles long over the Chicago lake front is to be staged Wednesday morning, the division returning to Dayton after the show.

Then the air armada will head for the east, where Philadelphia, New York City, New England as far north as Boston and finally Washington will be visited. The maneuvers will be be visited. The maneuvers will close May 30 in Washington.

Statisticians have figured the law of averages decrees that there shall be sixteen accidents during the two weeks of "war." Nevertheless, Benjamin D. Foulois, brigadier general in charge of the aerial maneuvers, expects to get through the mimic warfare without a casualty.

Will Protect Public.

Every possible means of protecting the flyers and the public will be in order. Air traffic rules will be strictly enforced. Private and commercial aircraft not engaged in scheduled air

ONLY $3 BILL EVER ISSUED IS FOUND IN OHIO

Cincinnati, O., May 14.—[Special.]—The world's only three dollar bank note was discovered to be in the possession of Clem Ivey, 410 Locust street, Elmwood place, Cincinnati, as a result of world-wide search carried on many years by the U. S. treasury department.

It was issued in 1841 by a Lebanon, O., bank under authority of the state of Ohio. It was dated June 21, 1841. It is printed on only one side, on paper far more delicate than that used by the U. S. government now.

The U. S. treasury has offered Ivey 1,000 per cent profit but he refuses to sell. The bill is numbered 708 and signed by G. P. Williamson, bank treasurer. Ivey got it as a keepsake from a civil war veteran 35 years ago. The soldier had received it during the war.

LEAPS 2 FLOORS IN FLIGHT FROM FIGHTING SUITORS

The rivalry of two suitors, Clyde Morris, 26 years old, and Aristonle Malavese, 39, for the hand of Irene Higgs, 25 years old, caused the critical injury of an innocent bystander last night. He is Fred Handsome, 61 years old.

All live at 1749 Maypole avenue. In a quarrel over which should claim Miss Higgs, Malavese, it is charged, chased Morris with a knife. Morris fled to the third floor room of Handsome. Malavese started to smash down the door and Handsome, terrified, leaped out the window. His skull was fractured. He was taken to the county hospital. The suitors and Miss Higgs were held by Warren avenue police.

A Woman with Diamonds in Her Nose Chicago Bound

Vancouver, B. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The fashion of wearing diamonds in the nose will be displayed in Chicago when an Indian woman, Mrs. V. T. Chetty, arrives there on a tour of the world with her husband, who is director of the Imperial Bank of India, Madras. The diamonds, which are small stones, are buried in the skin at either side of Mrs. Chetty's nose, which is small and shapely. She says it is a fashion of the cultured women of her country.

Finds 100 Year Old Deed Signed by Andrew Jackson

Pana, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—I. E. Firey of Edinburg, Christian county, today discovered in his papers owned many years a land deed executed Dec. 1, 1830, signed by President Andrew Jackson. The deed was for eighty acres at that time located in Sangamon county, Illinois, made to John Twist and issued under the district land acts of congress April 24, 1820.

JUBILEE PUTS $10,000,000 IN CHICAGO TILLS

Seen as Beginning of Better Times.

The Chicago Jubilee already has stimulated local business activity so effectively that conservative leaders in trade and commerce yesterday were viewing it as the starting signal for a march to better times.

A survey to determine the success of the Jubilee as a business tonic furnished a substantial basis for optimism. From the spokesmen for a score of major business enterprises, including the department stores, hotels, restaurants, railroads, and transit lines, came reports of a distinct improvement during the first four days of the celebration.

$10,000,000 to Be Spent.

"More than a million extra dollars a day has poured into the cash registers of Chicago merchants since Monday," declared B. C. Getsinger, domestic commerce secretary of the Chicago Association of Commerce, after scanning the reports. He added that such an estimate is "moderate." At this rate approximately ten million dollars will have been spent before the end of the Jubilee, May 20.

But those watching the Jubilee from the standpoint of dollars and cents were more interested in the permanent than the temporary results. These observers emphasized the psychological value of crowding downtown and outlying stores with people in a cheerful, buying mood, many of them out of town visitors, who will carry back to their homes the story of Chicago's attractions as a marketing center. A resumption of buying, they pointed out, means a general business revival.

Boon to Loop Stores.

Probably the most significant evidence of the Jubilee as a boon to merchants came from the managers of the larger loop department stores.

William W. Geary, city sales manager of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., described the business of the last four days as "exceptionally good," while Arthur Davis, president of the Davis company, stated that "without question Jubilee week has given the people an impetus to buy." Leon Mandel of Mandel Brothers said that "the Jubilee has been extremely beneficial." Henry Hart, general manager of the Boston store, called the Jubilee "a decided impetus to retail business." Executives of Marshall Field & Co. were similarly optimistic.

All of the downtown stores reported almost unprecedented crowds thronging their aisles and viewing their show windows during the days of the Jubilee.

Other Stores Benefit.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported a large increase in visitors at their mail order house, while the Stop and Shop recorded improvements in several departments. Loren Miller & Co. at 4722 Broadway was one of the outlying stores reporting business better. Wilson Brothers registered a "noticeable increase in business."

The experience of the railroads, which have put into effect special passenger rates to Chicago, has demonstrated the interest awakened by the Jubilee outside of the city.

C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago and North Western, said there has been a noticeable

Gets 50 Years for Murder in Field's Store

Fred Smith, 2623 North Kimball avenue, 47 year old machinist, who turned robber after thirty months of unemployment, went to trial at 10 a. m. yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Philip Finnegan for the murder of Paul Townsend in the Marshall Field & Co. store on April 7.

Before 10 p. m. he had been found guilty and sentenced to fifty years in the penitentiary, Judge Finnegan overruling all the technical motions for a new trial. In the elapsed time of less than twelve hours the jury had been selected, attorneys had made opening and closing statements, the testimony of a dozen witnesses had been heard and the jury had deliberated and formulated its verdict.

Smith himself took the stand and admitted all the facts of the killing, which occurred while he was striving to escape after robbing John Gallaga, a restaurant manager, of $1,067 on the elevated station at Wabash avenue and Randolph street.

Tells Story of Life.

He told the story of his life, how he had gone to work to support his mother when he was 12 years old and how he had been steadily employed at his trade until the end of 1928. Out of work, and with his savings gone, he had been evicted from his home and was hungry and desperate when he decided to become a robber, he said.

Smith's testimony was sufficiently convincing to accomplish all that his attorneys, Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach and Wilbert Crowley, had hoped for—avoidance of the death penalty. His counsel had offered to let him plead guilty if the death penalty was waived, but Prosecutors Harry S. Ditchburne and James Brown declined the offer.

When Smith took the money from Gallaga and started to flee he was fired on by John J. Dewey, a hotel clerk. In an exchange of shots, Casimir Kranzinski, 1227 West Chicago avenue, a florist with a stand on the elevated platform, was killed. Smith then dashed into the Field entrance leading to the store's china department.

Clerk Fatally Wounded.

There Townsend, an adjuster for Field's, who was 19 years old and lived at 1442 East Marquette road, leaped on the robber and tried to throw him down. Smith wrenched free and shot the adjuster, inflicting wounds from which Townsend died a little later. In the midst of a crowd of women shoppers Smith tried to fire again, but his pistol snapped and he was overpowered.

GUARD RESCUES WRONG WOMAN; SHE GETS $7,500

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—(AP)—The "rescue" of the wrong woman in the swimming pool of the Omaha Athletic club pool by a husky guard today cost the club $7,500 when a District court jury ruled in favor of Mrs. Samuel Blackwell, 62, Omaha, who had sued for damages on the ground that she suffered severe back and side injuries in the "rescue."

Mrs. Blackwell had sought $25,000 damages. She testified that she was a good swimmer and had been in the pool with Mrs. Andrew Kopperud, Omaha, when Mrs. Kopperud appealed for aid. She said she started to swim to the floundering woman, at the same time shouting for help.

THRONGS READ FLAMING WORDS OF HOPE IN SKY

'Smile!' Is Tribune Message to City.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Those words, etched in fire against the eastern horizon, were THE TRIBUNE'S message to the half million happy people massed in Grant park last evening for the festivities of the fourth gala night of the Chicago Jubilee.

When the heartening words blazed before them the half million did more than smile. They burst into a roar of cheers that sounded the keynote of far more than ten days of jubilee in Chicago. They seemed to be giving an exultant pledge for a year of jubilee that shall diffuse cheerful thinking, gallant action, and earnest work throughout our Chicagoland.

Tribune Tower Etched in Fire.

Almost simultaneously with that Jubilee message a replica in golden fire of Tribune Tower took shape before the multitude, and alongside it a huge hand of fire pointed to the Gothic glory of the veritable Tribune Tower half a mile away.

Then came the eloquent finale of the evening. The tower itself answered the people on the lake front.

From its heroic parapets rising nearly 600 feet against the southern sky bombs fired from steel mortars carried the light, the color, and the clamor of good will and good cheer another 700 feet above the national banner swaying from the Tower's flagstaff.

That made a greeting to Chicago which leaped and sparkled and burst into red, white, and blue a quarter of a mile aloft.

Greeting to All Chicago.

It was a city-wide greeting.

In a few moments citizens were calling by telephone from as far away as Logan Square—six miles distant—to say that the wonderful picture had been visible from their windows and that its beauty and its forthright eloquence had thrilled them.

More bombs fired on the lake front and immense American flags of fire spoke back to the bombs and the banner on Tribune Tower.

It was exultant conversation in flame and thunder. But the roar of cheers rose above the rumble and rattle of the mutual salutations. Among the thousands massed at the Randolph street boundary of Grant park the cheering began. It rolled to the south, past the Buckingham fountain, past the Field museum and down the outer drive as far as 23d street, which was about the most southerly limit of the throngs of spectators.

Multitudes Packed in Park.

Within Grant park the multitude of people and the miles of automobiles were in close formation. From the Field museum to 23d street along the outer drive there were thousands who enjoyed all the advantages of spaciousness and a good view, and the picture they made proved again what Chicago itself hardly comprehends—that not another city in the world has areas at once so magnificent and so convenient for the putting on of spectacles as we have.

Jubilee shows are good shows when you arrive on time to secure a good place from which to view them. In three nights Chicago learned that lesson, and on the fourth night it came early for the festivities of THE TRIBUNE'S fire spectacle. This show had been announced to begin at 8:40 o'clock, but as early as 6:30 Grant park was filling; two hours and ten minutes later when the spectacle set the night aflame it was full, and police officers estimated that in the sunken area of playing fields alone—which was by way of being the parquette of the open air theater—there were a hundred thousand spectators.

Display Takes 400,000 Square Feet.

The thirty features of the display arranged by the artists of the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks company filled 400,000 square feet of space extending from Monroe street to Jackson boulevard on the north and south and from the water's edge to the playing fields west of the outer drive.

The show began with a crimson vanguard of fire 500 feet long, and for half an hour, to the accompaniment of song and orchestral music, it released bombardments of rockets aimed lakewards. It reproduced Niagara Falls in fire. It sent flaming mastodons racing along the water's edge. It decked the sky with bouquets that broke and scattered like shattered rainbows. It emitted fountains of light, and at one time not one but four Buckingham fountains were shedding glory over Chicago's majestic front dooryard—the original fountain which Miss Kate Buckingham gave—which was in full play, and three replicas of it which the Thearle-Duffield people had designed.

History Written in Fire.

Old Fort Dearborn, with covered wagon drawn by oxen approaching its sally port, rose into the night as at the touch of magicians. And the crew of technicians in charge were truly magicians, working with amazing celerity and skill. They carried you through a century of history in a matter of seconds, but the boldness and beauty of the designs they flung out into the night made the lessons they were teaching unforgettable.

They showed you the humble little TRIBUNE plant of 1847, its brownstone building of 1872, its skyscraper—at Dearborn and Madison streets—of 1902, and its present Tower, which still holds its prestige as the supreme triumph of American architects in touching a business structure with authentic beauty, grace, and dignity.

Huge Flags of Flame.

What the technicians called "tempest pieces" filled 400 square feet with fire and color. American flags measuring 450 square feet were waved. The Niagara Falls picture was 500 feet long. Thus, like all the splendors of the Jubilee, this contribution to them was on a colossal scale, and, as to its exhilarating clamor, that was given stupendous volume because the cliffs of skyscrapers along the avenue caught up the barrage in the park and hurled it back upon the park with quadruple percussion.

The windows, too, of mighty structures mirrored the show and produced a bewildering interplay of light and color from ground to roofs.

Music Accompanies Display.

Music, under the leadership of Gaston du Moulin and relayed from THE TRIBUNE radio studios atop the Drake hotel, was the accompaniment to the display, and in the interludes of bombardment the voices of the Clef Barons, a celebrated quartet of Negro singers, were heard in "O, Look Away," "Invictus," "Deep River," and "That Mighty Day."

The people lingered for the singing many minutes after the pyrotechnics had ended, and it was nearly ten o'clock before Quin Ryan gave them good night.

Still smiling they went their ways. "Keep smiling" had taken hold of them as the Jubilee's best slogan.

TWO BROTHERS GIVE BATTLE TO BANDITS; SHOOT 1

Two robbers attempted to hold up the drug store of Alex Dubinski at 2116 North Leavitt street late last night. But as soon as the first of them shouted the traditional "Stick 'em up," Dubinski, 36 year old veteran of the world war, and his 26 year old Brother William drew pistols and began firing.

Two police dogs, kept in the store for such emergencies, joined the attack on the bandits, as did a clerk, Casimir Koslowski. The first robber shot at the two brothers, but missed. Bullets from the elder Dubinski's pistol struck the bandit in the abdomen, and he fell. The second bandit fled to the curb and leaped into an automobile, where a companion waited at the wheel. They drove away but were later captured at their homes.

The man who was shot said that he was William Barry, 3211 South Springfield avenue. At the Bridewell hospital his condition was said to be critical.

Opera Singer Will Appear at Women's Jubilee Banquet

Cyrena Van Gordon, Chicago Civic Opera star, yesterday was added to the list of celebrities and speakers who will appear on the program for the women's day Jubilee luncheon to be held Monday at the Hotel Sherman. A telegram from the diva announced her acceptance of the invitation of the committee to represent Chicago women in music at the event.

CYRENA VAN GORDON.

Others who have forwarded acceptances to speak are Mayor Cermak, who will give the principal address, and Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, who will welcome the guests.

Two minute speeches will also be made by eight distinguished women, guests of honor, including Miss Van Gordon. Those whose acceptances have been received include Judge Mary Bartelme, representing women in the law; Dr. Maud Slye, women in research; Miss Jane Magan, women in business, and Mrs. Pauline Palmer, women in the art world.

More than 1,200 reservations were reported yesterday by the women's Jubilee committee from their headquarters at the Association of Commerce, 1 La Salle street. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations and also general chairman of the women's activities, issued a warning to those planning to be present to make their reservations immediately.

Miss Jane Filstrup, queen of the blossom festival of southwestern Michigan that closed last Sunday, arrived yesterday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Filstrup of Benton Harbor for the Jubilee festivities. They will remain for several days at the Blackstone hotel.

Today's Program

Deposit First Load of Sand for Park Extension

The first boatload of sand to be used for the $4,000,000 recreation area of made land in the lake off Lincoln Park was deposited on the site yesterday by the Sandmaster, the sand-sucker boat which will be used in the work. The work was accompanied by a ceremony.

IS QUADRANGLE CLUB SOCIAL? IN COURT TODAY

Whether the Quadrangle club of the University of Chicago is a social organization or one "devoted to the promotion of literature, science, art and education" is the issue in a suit to come before Federal Judge George A. Carpenter today.

The club was unsuccessful in its efforts to obtain a refund of $19,511 in federal taxes imposed upon it as a social club. Suit for the refund was filed after the commissioner of internal revenue denied the refund.

Dean Shailer Mathews of the divinity school, Athletic Director A. A. Stagg, and Dr. Frederic Woodward, vice president of the university, are to be witnesses. The club's petition states that it was formed as an integral part of the university, and that its $100,000 building was donated by the university.

LOOP WILL RING WITH JUBILEE SONGS TONIGHT

1,500 Choristers to Give Traveling Concerts.

Twenty-one choruses, comprising 1,500 trained voices, will convert the loop into a vast concert stage tonight as they move in buses and trucks from intersection to intersection serenading the crowds in another major feature of the Chicago Jubilee. The program is sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

At 9 o'clock punctually twenty-one directors will lift their batons. Twenty-one choruses and singing societies will sing. For two hours the downtown district will echo with music, the walls of skyscrapers tossing back the melodies into a beautiful hymn of harmony. The marching climax will be at Wacker drive and Wabash avenue when, at 10:45 p. m., the 1,500 singers gather on the plaza and join in six numbers.

The Choruses Participating.

The groups that will participate in the choral night are:

Advertising Men's Post Glee club.
Allerton Glee club and Chicago Concert company.
Armour Jubilee singers.
T. P. Bryant club.
Byzantine choir.
Chicago and North Western Railroad Choral club.
Cook County Council Legion auxiliary.
Federal Glee club.
First National Bank Choral club.
Hyde Park Legion and auxiliary.
Illinois Central Male chorus.
Illinois Club for Catholic Women.
Metropolitan Church chorus.
Mu Sigma fraternity.
National Jubilee singers.
Olivet Baptist Church chorus.
Pilgrim Baptist chorus.
Tinsley Harmonic Choral society.
Ukranian chorus.
Umbrian Glee club.

The groups will serenade at twelve positions in the loop. Each group will entertain at each of the positions for ten minutes and move ahead, another group succeeding it. The rotary arrangement means virtually continuous singing at each of the locations.

The Serenading Stations.

The serenading stations are announced as follows:

On the east side of Clark street—one group each between Lake and Randolph streets, Randolph and Washington streets, Washington and Madison streets, Madison and Monroe streets, and Monroe and Adams streets.

On the north side of Adams street—one group each between Clark and Dearborn streets, and Dearborn and State streets.

On the west side of State street—one group each between Adams and Monroe streets, Monroe and Madison streets, Madison and Washington streets, Washington and Randolph streets, and Randolph and Lake streets.

Two of the choral groups, one of them colored, will serenade the near north side for a brief period before the loop celebration. They will move in Ohio street, between Michigan avenue and Fairbanks court.

Business Concerns Assist.

Many Chicago business concerns have contributed equipment and service to the choristers. The Chicago Motor Coach company is donating coaches, Sprague Warner & Co., and the Pioneer Paper company are giving trucks, the Commonwealth Edison company is furnishing flood lights, the South Park board is supplying a tower truck equipped with a platform, the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks company is giving flares, and the Riverside Plaza corporation [Pure Oil building] and the D. B. Fisk Millinery company are permitting the use of their edifices for displays.

All the vehicles are decorated by the Chicago Artificial Flower company. They will move under police escort. At 10:30 the twenty-one groups will start for Wacker drive and Wabash avenue. There six directors—William Pohlman, Frank Bennett, James A. Mundy, J. Wesley Jones, Arthur Becker, and Carl Craven—will mount the tower truck, each to guide one of the six finale songs.

The sixth number will be the national anthem. As the 1,500 voices unite in a martial paean a huge American flag will be unfurled from a wire strung between the Pure Oil and Fisk buildings, illuminated by brilliant spotlights.

West Side Parade Tonight.

Other important Jubilee features today and tonight will include luncheons, dinners, parades and other festivities.

One of the largest parades will be staged this evening on the west side under the direction of the West Town chamber of commerce and other west side groups. The start will be at Canal street and Jackson boulevard, according to F. J. Bilek, parade chairman, and will cover a route 20 miles long.

The line of march will pass Mayor Cermak's home. There will be 170 floats, including three TRIBUNE entries. West side aldermen, state senators, state representatives and other officials, headed by M. S. Szymczak, city controller, will lead the parade.

Other parades will be held on the south side under auspices of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and on the northwest side under the sponsorship of Logan Square groups.

A colorful Mardi Gras, featuring a costume contest, will be celebrated in East Ohio street, between Michigan avenue and St. Clair street. It will be directed by the North Central association. Street dancing, & fencing exhibition and other attractions are on the program.

Loot Michigan Avenue Shop of Furs; Escape in Chase

Two burglars early this morning jimmied open iron gates that protect the doors of the fur shop of L. Friedman, Inc., at 305 North Michigan avenue, smashed the two show windows inside the gates and escaped in an automobile with ten fur scarfs believed by the police to have been worth $1,000. Policeman John Walsh pursued the thieves south in Michigan avenue in a car commandeered from Patrick Selph, 3301 Cottage Grove avenue, but they outdistanced him.

JAPANESE FLYING PACIFIC SAVED BY SHIP AFTER CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 14.—The Tokio to San Francisco flight of Seiji Yoshihara, young Japanese airman, was brought to a sudden halt today when a dense fog forced him to land his monoplane in the ocean off Shimushiru island from Shana, Iturup islands, to Shimushiru when he ran into the thick weather.

The plane drifted for four hours before being picked up by the steamer Hakuho Maru. It was badly damaged and extensive repairs must be made before the flight to America is resumed.

Toshihara has made arrangements to return the plane to Nemuro, 400 miles back on his route, for repairs. If adequate facilities are not available there, a new plane will be sent to him from Tokio.

S. SIDE LEADERS PRAISE JUBILEE; TELL BENEFITS

Pick Winners in Three Baby Parades.

North side, west side, south side, all around the town, Chicago's outlying communities held enthusiastic Jubilee demonstrations yesterday.

Praise for the Jubilee was sounded last night at a Jubilee massmeeting in the auditorium of the Bryn Mawr park, 76th street and Jeffery avenue, under the auspices of the South Shore chamber of commerce. More than 1,000 persons attended. The program included singing, dancing and orchestra music. Among the speakers were State's Attorney John A. Swanson, Judge William Brooks, Judge Philip Allen, Ald. C. A. Nance, George A. Cooke, superintendent of the south parks, and John E. Wolfe.

"Business has boomed on the south side," said Mr. Wolfe, former president of the South Shore commerce club. "The Jubilee is a great idea. Merchants swear by it. They report to me that they have experienced the best week in over a year."

Everyone Tells of Benefits.

All the speakers used stimulated business as the keynotes of their talks. State's Attorney Swanson augmented this theme, however, with a new view.

"The Chicago Jubilee has been a mighty force in rousing Chicago," said Mr. Swanson. "It has wakened the city from a torpid attitude, inspired business, encouraged the people, and given a new meaning to our civic consciousness. Events such as this are potent in revealing to us that things are better than they seem. The spirit of the Jubilee is not only immediate. It will be lasting."

Three baby parades were held during the day under the auspices of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. Seventy-seven awards were made, and a grand prize for the best baby, a silver loving cup, a basket of flowers, and gold, went to Smiling Betty Rell Price, daughter of Philip G. and Mrs. Gertrude Price, 7445 Jeffery avenue. The child was adjudged the prettiest and the healthiest.

Three Parades of Babies.

The baby parades were held at 71st street and South Shore drive, 75th street and Tuley avenue, and 79th street and Phillips avenue. First prize winners were the children, respectively, of Mrs. John Swanson, 7040 Merrill avenue; Mrs. Price, and Mrs. Stanley Smith, 8023 Phillips avenue. In addition awards were made for the most decorated carriages in the 71st street and 79th street parades. Winners were, respectively, Mrs. P. R. Nason, 7346 East End avenue, and Mrs. Herman M. Bank, 2538 East 77th street.

Another big south side celebration was held last night under the auspices of the South End Chamber of Commerce. A parade, which started at 79th street and Michigan avenue and ended at Seventy-first street and Cottage Grove avenue, was one of the features. Maj. Albert Dyche was grand marshal. Irving Cobb, fireman hero of the recent forest blazing, rode with him, as did Sheldon W. Govier [9th] and Martin W. Novak, president of the chamber.

Parade Three Miles Long.

The parade was three miles long, included forty-five floats, and lasted three hours. A street dance followed at 79th street and Michigan avenue, during the hours was the corps of the Calumet post, American Legion.

The South Chicago Chamber of Commerce sponsored a street serenade by the Industrial Glee club, comprised of fifteen employed in the mill industries. Andy Reid of the South Chicago Y. M. C. A. directed the group. The serenaders moved through the district on a decorated float. All were smoked open during the night.

Other Events of Day.

Other events during the day included a boat regatta on the lake front near Navy pier and 51st street, viewed by thousands of spectators; a picnic for 300 poor children by Emmy college in River Forest, a Jubilee luncheon of the South Side Catholic Women's club at the Stevens hotel, at which Mrs. Henry W. Hardy spoke, and other luncheons.

Col. Edward W. Gaw, north side envelope manufacturer, was a principal speaker at the Edgewater Beach hotel luncheon.

"Chicago is suffering from bad propaganda," he said. "The Jubilee is necessary to correct that impression. This city is less than 100 years old. Is it any wonder others are jealous? Chicago is the second city in the nation in population, and the 39th in homicides. It is the most law abiding city in the United States. Our people take 14 million books out of the public library in a year. We have 1,700 churches, 700,000 school children, and 18,000 teachers."

Healthiest City in World.

Col. Gaw asserted Chicago was the healthiest big city in the world, that she needed no apology. "Let's help put Chicago where she belongs," he concluded.

Those at the speakers' table were Frederick T. Bertram, president of the North Shore Kiwanis club; Dr. Bruce L. Stocking, president of the Uptown Lions' club; John P. Keating, past president of the Uptown Lions' club; Carl Johnson, new president of the North Clark Street Business Men's association; John C. Bowers, president of the Uptown Business Men's association; S. Meyer, president of the Automobile Club of Illinois; Henry Winder, president of the North Shore Hotel association, and Emery T. Erickson, executive secretary of several north side improvement associations.

The Rogers Park Business Men's association, the Lawrence-Robey association and the Clark-Wilson center were also represented.

There were no speeches at the Logan Square Lions' club gathering. A special Jubilee program was presented, led by neighborhood singers. E. H. Puls presided.

Another luncheon was held at the Hotel Sherman by the Kiwanis club. Dr. W. Clyde Howard, president, was toastmaster. Dr. Charles A. Gage was the principal speaker.

WOMAN GETS $200 FINE.

Mrs. Mary Halpin, 56 years old, 5050 South Racine avenue, in whose home the police found 24 pistols, eight shotguns and 1,000 rounds of ammunition several weeks ago, was fined $200 for disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Francis Allegretti in Boys' court.

STATE MURDER CASE WITNESS MAY BE KIDNAPED

John Hoffman, 49 years old, 1217 Dickson street, a state witness in a Kenosha murder case, was reported kidnaped last night. The suspected abduction occurred Wednesday near his home, 24 hours before he was scheduled to appear in a Kenosha court against Donald McCauley, a Milwaukee ferry pilot.

Hoffman was a witness to the fatal shooting May 1 of Arthur E. Millies, 44 years old, a Milwaukee business man, seven miles west of Kenosha. Another witness is Mrs. Katherine Lenzen, 28, of Niles. Both name McCauley as Millies' slayer. The shooting occurred after a minor auto collision. Hoffman, Mrs. Lenzen and McCauley were in one car and Millies and his wife in the other. Mrs. Lenzen appeared in court yesterday. The case was continued to May-25 by County Judge R. V. Baker.

YOUTH ADMITS DRIVING CAR IN FATAL CRASH

William Wire, 18 years old, 712 South Claremont avenue, admitted at the Marquette police station last night that he was the driver of the stolen car which crashed into another automobile at 18th street and Ashland avenue early Wednesday, causing the deaths of two men.

After the accident Wire and three companions fled on foot. Lieut. Patrick Carmody found a coat, one pocket of which contained a paper bearing a telephone number. Through this Wire was traced to the Annetta hotel at 2417 South 52d avenue, Cicero.

The victims of the crash were Charles Stydl, 33 years old, and Elias Norland, 25 years old, both of 200 Laflin street.

SENATE VOTES STATE CONTROL OF CITY STREETS

Passes Highway Extension Bill; Bloc in Control.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—The senate today passed house bill 270, an administration measure authorizing the state to take over city streets that are continuations or extensions of state highways. The bill will be sent back to the house because of two minor amendments made by the senate.

ROY C. WOODS.

The vote in the senate was 33 to 5, and there was no debate. Those who fought for hours yesterday to adopt amendments protecting the interests of municipalities recognized the inevitable. The administration was in control with a majority bloc. However, Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago] made one final remark.

"This act," he said, "may prove the rope on which farmer administration of road affairs will hang itself. It will lead to a stronger alliance of cities for relief from traffic congestion and from taxation for rural pavements."

Seven Out of 108 Millions.

Those who supported the bill pointed out that it will authorize the state to spend its first penny for pavements in the larger cities, including Chicago. However, the allotment for municipal construction during the next two years is $7,000,000 out of a total of $107,800,000 in the administration's appropriation bill.

Chicago motorists will pay $44,000,000 of this total and cannot hope to receive more than $3,000,000 or $3,500,000 in improvements. The motorists of all Illinois cities will pay $91,630,000, as contrasted with the total of $7,000,000, for municipal construction.

The state will take over the maintenance and policing of 900 miles of city streets. The appropriation bill, pending on first reading in the senate, allots $1,000,000 for two years' maintenance.

The minor concessions to municipalities, incorporated in senate amendments on the plea of Mayor Cermak of Chicago, are that the state in taking over streets will not interfere with the construction of subways nor with the prohibition of trucks from boulevards, nor with one way traffic regulations.

City Amendments Beaten.

Amendments designed to protect municipal interests, but defeated by the administration bloc, included a provision that the state in its promise of city street improvements should adopt a width and type suitable to the needs of city traffic rather than merely to pay for a strip of pavement down the center of the street of the same width as the rural road.

Senator Harold Kessinger [Rep., Aurora] led an unsuccessful battle to protect owners of abutting property from special assessments for necessary widening.

Senator Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago] was voted down in seeking home rule for Chicago's streets. Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria] wanted cities to retain jurisdiction over parking regulations, but his efforts went for naught. Senator Woods pleaded in vain for an amendment affecting state's designation of highway routes through Chicago.

Led by Barr.

The opposition to these city measures was directed by Senator Richard Barr [Rep., Joliet], Emmerson's floor leader. Eight state highway pavements radiate from his city, and Joliet, like Chicago, has narrow, rough and congested streets, dangerous as well as inadequate. Special assessments or increased real estate taxes for bond issues will be necessary, since the amendments were defeated, for proper improvement of these streets. And the state will prohibit parking on its share of the streets, a width equal to the width outside the city.

MOST BEAUTIFUL WORKING GIRL TO BE 'MISS JUBILEE'

Any working girl between 18 and 25 years of age is eligible. The contest is being conducted by the Chicago artists' exhibition now being held in the Palmer house. Artists and sculptors will be judges.

Entrants may register from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. today, tomorrow, Sunday and Monday. Each day the three most beautiful girls will be chosen, and "Miss Jubilee" will be selected from the daily winners Tuesday evening. The honors will be a specially designed gown, a painting and a work of sculpture, the latter two of the winner.

672 PLANES OPEN WAR MANEUVERS AT DAYTON TODAY

Big Air Armada Reaches Chicago Wednesday.

transport operation will not be permitted to fly nearer than one mile of any formation of military craft.

Any pilot forced to make a landing has been instructed to take to the water when flying over a big city. Police launches will be ready to dash to his aid. When the fighting ships are in action above the cities every one, including the press representatives assigned to the air division, will wear a parachute by orders of the war department. An ambulance plane fitted with three litters and carrying surgeons and nurses has been attached to the air fleet.

This is what you will see when the air division goes through its maneuvers over your city:

Pursuit, bombing, attack and observation planes flying in V group formations and later in that stair steps arrangement known as the echelon formation. They will be wing to wing, at times only twelve feet apart, and the safety of those in the air will depend upon rhythmic precision of the pilots cutting through the air at two miles a minute.

Airplane Parade 10 Miles Long.

The giant bombers will be at the lowest level, flush with the city skyline but over the water. About 500 feet overhead the observation and attack planes will roar past the slower bombers. High above the other pursuit planes will form the third tier, and at the rate of 120 miles an hour it will take the ten mile long air parade five minutes to pass a given point.

As the bombing and observation squadrons complete their part of the show the single seaters high in the air will stage a "dog fight," the most sensational feature of the maneuvers. Loops, rolls, spins and all the other acrobatics will be brought into play to simulate actual warfare in the skies. The only night demonstration will be over New York City on May 22, when a bombardment of the Times Square district just as the theaters pour out their crowds will take place.

The cost of the mimic warfare, it has been estimated, will be more than $3,000,000, as it takes $66 an hour to keep an observation plane in the air, and in the case of a bomber $144 an hour. The 672 planes will fly, it is estimated, fifty hours.

5 CHICAGO PLANES.

Illinois will be represented in the army air maneuvers here on May 20 by five planes of the 108th observation squadron, Illinois National Guard. These planes were to take off this morning at 7 o'clock for a flight to Wright field, Dayton, O., where the army planes are concentrating for the nation-wide aerial review.

JUBILEE SHOWS SPIRIT OF NEW DAY, PASTOR SAYS

Dr. Myers Points to Need of Changed Thought.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's Jubilee has awakened the city to the fact that we live in a new day. This belief was expressed yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Johnston Myers, veteran pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 South Michigan avenue. Dr. Myers further pointed out that new foundations must be laid for religious expression and for the political and economic life of the country.

Dr. Myers' remarks were made in connection with the announcement that Immanuel church will celebrate its 50th anniversary Sunday. He asserted that his 36 years as pastor of that church have proved to him that a Jubilee spirit has been constantly necessary to his congregation as it faced successions of problems to which four powerful churches in his neighborhood finally succumbed.

Refers to Radio Services.

The day of pulpit Christianity has passed, Dr. Myers said. He emphasized the radio and declared that when people can sit at home and hear services a change in the activity of churches is necessary. He then referred to the wide access to the great literary periodicals of the day in contrast to those available in his boyhood.

"All our advance in this line changes our religious activity, and thus far the churches have not been able to readjust themselves to the new situation," Dr. Myers said. "Preaching and listening to preaching no longer are sufficient. Young people tell me repeatedly that the only reason they listen to sermons in the main is to please their parents and to satisfy canons of respectability."

Dr. Myers recalled that he took the pastorate of Immanuel church 36 years ago, and that he had been promised a $7,000 salary—which would mean nearly $14,000 today.

"I was paid at that rate for exactly one month," he said. "They could not raise enough to pay my salary.

Tells of Early Bread Line.

"I discovered that many of the people did not want Immanuel church to succeed. Because I fed the hungry—and I did a great deal of the first cooking for my early bread line—a number of the first families of the church left me, but we kept at it."

Dr. Myers then told of the moving of Immanuel church during the first year of his pastorate. This, he said, gave the church national prominence. The church was first situated close to the Metropole hotel. All rooms on the south side of the hotel were without sunlight because of the church. The owners told Dr. Myers that if he would move the building 51 feet to the south they would pay the church $100,000.

"We searched the nation for a building mover who would undertake the job, but none would attempt it," the pastor said. "The spire was nearly 200 feet high. Engineers and experts said the first budge would mean that the spire would fall and that the building would collapse.

Moves Church Without Experts.

"Finally a man named Shuler, who could neither read nor write, came to us and said if we would keep experts away he would tackle the job. He got his beams set and finally the day arrived when the church would move, and during that whole day it was moved just five inches. As the distance was covered great crowds gathered and watched the progress.

"The press of the whole nation told of the feat. Immanuel church became famous as the first great building to be moved so far and at the same time to be raised eleven feet.

"There were times when that old spire would sway as much as twelve or fifteen feet, but the mover knew his business, and today Immanuel church rests just where he put it."

Immanuel church was founded on May 16, 1881. The first church was at [illegible] boulevard and Plymouth court, near the present site of the Board of Trade building. Later it was at 18th street and Wabash avenue.

The present Immanuel church, Dr. Myers said, came into being as a result of the efforts of the Rev. Dr. George C. Lorimer, father of George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post.

"Dr. Lorimer was the pastor of the First Baptist church [now the Olivet Baptist church], when the church on the Michigan avenue site was burned the third time," Dr. Myers said. "He went before his wealthy congregation and said that a church must be maintained on the Michigan avenue site. With 300 members of old First church he came up here and built a new church and developed a great congregation."

WITNESS TELLS OF GIN PARTY AT KIRKLAND TRIAL

Describes Events Prior to Girl's Death.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., May 14.—Seven- [illegible] young men and women, eleven [illegible] sick and drunk from guzzling [illegible] alcohol and syrupy wine. A small [illegible] in Gary resounding to strains [illegible] of music, peals of hysterical laugh- [illegible] ter, groans from the ill. On a glass [illegible] enclosed front porch an 18 year old [illegible] girl lay face down and unconscious [illegible] on the floor with Virgil Kirkland [illegible] standing over her.

This was pictured by Richard [illegible] Sturtridge, state's witness this after- [illegible] noon, the revel last Nov. 29 in the [illegible] Paul Thompson home in Gary which [illegible] ended in death for Arlene Draves. [illegible] Kirkland is now on trial for her mur- [illegible] der with the state demanding that he [illegible] be sent to the electric chair.

Sturtridge, a clean cut, good look- [illegible] ing young fellow, a graduate of De [illegible] Pauw university, is the only witness [illegible] who was on the porch when Arlene [illegible] received the injury which, it is [illegible] charged, caused a blood clot on her [illegible] brain and eventual death. He was [illegible] examined by Prosecutor John Under- [illegible] wood.

Seventeen at Party.

"There were seventeen of us at the [illegible] party," he said, naming them all. [illegible] Among the guests were Kirkland, Miss [illegible] Draves, and the four youths also [illegible] under indictment for her rape and [illegible] murder.

The affair was properly launched in [illegible] fashionable post-prohibition style by [illegible] the procuring of a gallon of alcohol and [illegible] a gallon of Croatian wine, the witness [illegible] told the jurors.

Q.—Did you see Arlene Draves and Virgil Kirkland together? A.—I saw [illegible] them together dancing and later on [illegible] the porch. She was sitting in a chair [illegible] and he was sitting on the arm of the [illegible] chair. I was on a settee at the other [illegible] end of the porch, taking care of my [illegible] wife, who was sick.

Q.—Did you hear any conversation between Arlene and Virgil? A.—I [illegible] didn't hear much. I heard her say: [illegible] "I want to go home." He was repeat- [illegible] ing over and over: "I love you, you [illegible] know I love you."

Picks Girl from Floor.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—I [illegible] heard a very loud crash. I looked [illegible] and saw Arlene lying on the floor, [illegible] face forward. Virgil was standing [illegible] over her. I went over and he said: [illegible] "She's drunk." I picked her up. [illegible] She was limp in my arms.

Q.—Did she say anything? A.—She was making a kind of sobbing sound.

Sturtridge said he and his wife then went upstairs, leaving Kirkland with Arlene. When he came back to the porch twenty minutes later, the two were gone, he said. At 1:30 a. m. the party broke up. Kirkland and Arlene were in the back seat of Paul Barton's automobile, the witness testified, and he and his wife rode beside them. Arlene was silent and Kirkland was holding her in his arms, Sturtridge declared.

The witness was cross-examined by Oscar Thiel, defense attorney, who brought out more details of the party preceding the death of the girl.

Q.—Was every one there pretty drunk? A.—Yes. I should say that myself, another fellow, and perhaps three or four women were the only fairly sober ones. Many were sick.

Q.—What was Virgil's condition? A.—I think he was very much under the influence of liquor.

Q.—How about Paul Barton? A.—I think he was drunk.

Q.—Was Miss Draves drinking? A.—I saw her take one drink out in the kitchen.

Q.—Did you see Virgil and Arlene lying on a davenport in the living room? A.—Yes. They were lying on the davenport, with their arms around each other.

Q.—Were they kissing each other? A.—No. Just lying there.

Q.—How long was that before the fall on the porch? A.—About half an hour.

Several hundred persons, two-thirds of them women, sought refuge in the grimy courtroom from the sparkling sunshine of a bright May day. They heard some medical testimony at the morning session which brought many feminine giggles until the judge wrathfully declared that the courtroom would be cleared if there were any further demonstrations.

Dr. James Burcham, coroner's physician of Gary, who made the first post-mortem examination of the body of Arlene, testified that Arlene died of shock and hemorrhage. He read a lengthy report of his autopsy, declaring the girl had been normal in every respect prior to the night of the party. He described in detail the bruises, abrasions, and other marks on the body which are declared by the state to be the marks of her rape by Virgil Kirkland and his companions.

He was cross-examined by Attorney Ronald Oldham for the defense.

Q.—Voluntary sex relations for an 18 year old girl are not harmful are they, Doctor? A.—No.

Q.—Then when you describe her death as being due to shock, what do you mean? A.—Shock from the injuries I have described.

Doubts Voluntary Relation.

Q.—What degree of shock would a girl have from forced sex relations with a person whom she accompanied to a party and knew very well. A.—It might be considerable.

Q.—It would be much less, however, than if she were walking along a highway and a stranger suddenly assaulted her. A.—Yes.

Q.—Could such injuries as you have described have been received during voluntary relations. A.—I can't imagine any girl permitting herself to be injured in that manner during voluntary sex relations.

The physician was then asked a hypothetical question which described conditions at the party, including the fact that the girl and boy involved were both drinking, and ended with the query as to whether the fall on the porch caused her death. He answered in the affirmative.

Testifies to Injuries.

Dr. Burcham testified that at the time he examined the body he did not notice the swollen lips or battered nose which had been testified to by Carolyn Draves, sister of the dead girl. However, Dr. Herbert Baedinger, the Draves family physician, later testified that he noticed the swollen lips and disfigured nose.

Policeman E. G. Minniar was the first witness of the day. He corroborated the testimony of Policeman George Regal, who had been a surprise state's witness the previous day and who declared that Kirkland confessed to him that he struck Arlene with the heel of his hand, causing her to fall and strike her head.

SPAIN GOES TO CHURCH AMID SMOKING RUINS

Peace Again Rules Land After 4 Day Riots.

BULLETIN.

VATICAN CITY, May 15.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Federico Tedeschini, papal nuncio at Madrid, it was announced here today, has been instructed to file a formal protest with the Spanish republican government, in which he will make strong representations regarding the burning of Spanish churches and convents, and lack of protection for them this past week. Although no official information was given as to the contents of his probable protest, it was said the church assumed that, in view of the great property damage the church suffered, reparation will be asked.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, May 14.—Today was a day of peace in Spain. The nation went to church and cathedrals were packed to the doors with worshipers, commemorating the ascension of the Savior. The priests, who had taken refuge after four days of terror in which Catholic buildings were destroyed by rioters, were back at their altars.

Only the sight of smoldering ruins of churches, convents and monasteries, troops and guns in the streets, acted as a reminder of the anti-religious riots which had swept through the land.

Today was a national holiday. Business and industry was at a standstill, but not the government of this month old republic. The police continued to make many arrests among monarchists, communists and hooligans, in an effort to get at the bottom of the "plot" to embarrass the republic.

The republic believes the provocation of the disorders was something more than just plain "deviltry," and the cells are filling as rapidly as when the monarchy tossed its enemies into jail after last December's ill-fated republican revolt.

Seize Alfonso's Palace.

MADRID, May 14.—(AP)—The summer palace of former King Alfonso at San Sebastian was formally seized by the government tonight, following upon the decision last night to impound his possessions pending an investigation of charges of alleged graft. Customs guards took the palace over. It was estimated to be worth $750,000 and was a gift from the people of San Sebastian to the former king's mother, Queen Maria Christina.

Envoy Blames Primate.

New York, May 14.—(AP)—The Herald Tribune says that Don Salvador de Madariaga, newly named ambassador to the United States, who arrived from Cuba today, blames the recent uprisings in Spain on the primate, the archbishop of Toledo.

"The primate's preelection circular, calling upon the faithful to vote for those who supported the church, probably did more than anything else to incite the disorders," Don Salvador said. "It should not be overlooked that he mentioned the church, not religion; the institution rather than the spirit."

BONUS LOANS PASS 700 MILLION MARK; SEE BILLION TOTAL

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—New loans to world war veterans on compensation certificates last week passed the $700,000,000 mark.

Virtually abreast of accumulated applications for loans, the veterans' administration said today that by last Saturday a total of $711,122,026 had been turned over to 1,864,754 ex-soldiers.

On hand at the end of the week were 22,788 pending applications, most of which are expected to be passed on within a few days. However, new requests for loans are still coming in, and officials have not revised their expectation that the outflow of funds will reach close to the billion mark.

Seattle, Wash., May 14.—(AP)—Faced with the alternative of resigning from the University of Washington faculty, Prof. Howard B. Woolston said today he would sign the oath of allegiance to the United States and state of Washington as required by a recent act of the state legislature. Dr. Woolston had protested against the law as encroaching upon academic freedom.

STRAWN BLAMES TAXING SYSTEM FOR CITY CRISIS

Criticizes Assessors in Address to Club.

SILAS STRAWN.

Chicago is again facing the financial perils of 1929 and 1930 because of its taxation system, which is "archaic, ineffective, and impregnated with politics," Silas H. Strawn told members of the Cosmopolitan club at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Attorney Strawn recounted the experiences of his citizens' committee in selling tax anticipation warrants and putting through relief measures in the legislature, so that Chicago could pay its policemen, firemen, school teachers, and other employés in 1930.

Interest Eats Up Taxes.

"But we are going along in the same old way," he said. "The assessors have dawdled and dawdled until we are confronted with the same peril. They are just completing the 1929 assessment and haven't even started on the 1930 assessment."

"The only hope for permanent relief is to put one man with no political affinities in the assessors' office. We now have five men. One of them has been ill and scarcely able to go down to work in two years; another is under sentence to Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax fraud, and the other three don't know much about their work."

Mr. Strawn, who recently was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared that one of our most vital national problems was unemployment.

Fears Adoption of Dole.

"If we don't do something to help people get jobs by winter we may be forced to adopt the deplorable dole system with which England is afflicted", he said. "In considering this problem we have only one suggestion so far and that is a federal building program. Yet this would mean increased taxes, and the tax burden is already oppressive."

Mr. Strawn was presented the service medal of the Cosmopolitan club for his work in pulling Chicago out of its financial crisis of 1929 by F. J. Hodgins, national organizer of the club. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, also spoke at the luncheon.

Police Seize Nine Robbery Suspects in Raid on Club

Nine men, suspected of robberies and burglaries, were arrested early today in a police raid on the Clifton Manor club at 4525 Clifton avenue. All were taken to the detective bureau, where they will be held for a showup. Leaders of the crew, according to the police, are William Carl, 29 years old, 3433 Logan boulevard; George Sigorski, 36 years old, 1247 Melford avenue, Des Plaines; Joseph Maricuili, 31 years old, and his brother Thomas, 19 years old, of 9 Harrison street, Oak Park. One of the robberies for which they are suspects was that of the State Bank of Clearing on Dec. 6.

SIX NEW OFFICIALS OF CITY TAKE OATHS AND ASSUME DUTIES

HARRY KOHL.

Edward J. Kaindl, newly appointed city collector, and five other members of Mayor Cermak's cabinet whose appointments were confirmed by the city council Wednesday night, appeared before the city clerk yesterday morning, took their oaths of office, and immediately assumed their new duties. With City Collector Kaindl were Joseph P. Geary and Prof. Leonard D. White, civil service commissioners; Joseph Higgins and Horatio B. Hackett, members of the board of local improvements, and Harry Kohl, boiler inspector.

increase in passenger traffic this week.

The Illinois Central, through J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager, also testified to a "noticeable increase" in passenger travel and similar statements came from S. J. Owens, general agent for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and other executives.

Leslie Sorensen, city traffic manager, declared that a big section of the crowds which have come to the Jubilee from out of the city traveled by automobile, as evidenced by the number of cars on the streets bearing the license tags of other states. Robert H. Nau, traffic expert of the Association of Commerce, estimated that these machines brought from 25,000 to 50,000 to the city.

Increase on Transit Lines.

Among the greatest beneficiaries of the Jubilee are the local transit lines, which in the last four days have carried their heaviest loads for months.

Between 250,000 and 300,000 extra revenue passengers have ridden on the "L" lines during the Jubilee, according to Hal M. Lytle, vice president of the Chicago Rapid Transit company. The heaviest traffic was Wednesday evening when additional equipment and extra trains were put into service on every division.

Approximately 125,000 fares more than usual were paid on street cars Monday and again on Wednesday, it was estimated by G. A. Richardson, vice president and general manager.

The hotels and restaurants, especially those in and near the loop, have shared heavily in the additional revenue produced by the Jubilee, the survey demonstrated.

C. S. Hamilton Jr., Chicago, Awarded $600 Scholarship

Princeton, N. J., May 14.—(AP)—Charles S. Hamilton Jr., 32, of Chicago has been awarded a $600 scholarship for foreign study by the school of public and international affairs at Princeton university, it was announced here today. Upon his return to college in the fall he will submit a report to the school on what the league of nations has accomplished toward international understanding during the twelve months preceding the session of the assembly this summer.

COUNTY OFFERS MONEY TO PAY THE TEACHERS

$3,786,000 Ready in State Warrants.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The one bright spot in the gloomy financial outlook of the local governments yesterday was the offer of money with which to pay the school teachers, made by County Treasurer J. B. McDonough.

EDWARD J. TOBIN.

"I understand that the state auditor has sent warrants to County Superintendent of Schools Edward J. Tobin for $2,786,190 as Cook county's share of the state distributive school fund," said McDonough. "We have that much money ready for the state and will deliver it today, tomorrow, Saturday, Monday or any other day when the state warrants are delivered to us. As I understand it the state is willing that the first 1929 taxes received from Cook county shall be used to pay the school teachers."

The money which the warrants represent is money which would be paid over to the state from Cook county taxes. Under the ordinary course this would be turned into the state treasury and later distributed to the schools.

Payment to Be Delayed.

At the office of the county superintendent of schools it was said that it will take three or four days to do the clerical work preparatory to distributing the fund. The pay of the 14,000 city teachers, due April 28, totals about $2,775,000. It was erroneously reported yesterday that the teachers might get part of their pay today.

Otherwise the revenue situation for the city, county, schools and other governmental agencies looked worse yesterday than Treasurer McDonough had pictured it on Wednesday.

He estimated that by 9 o'clock tonight, which is the penalty deadline for 1929 taxes, $100,000,000 will have been paid on the 1929 tax bill.

Two days before the 1928 tax penalty date arrived last July an aggregate of $95,876,363 had been paid. Yesterday morning, two full collection days before the 1929 tax penalty date, only $65,477,052 had been paid.

The situation is much more serious than it was represented by Treasurer McDonough to the group of bankers whom he invited to suggest a remedy at a meeting next Monday. McDonough, in his invitation referred only to the taxes levied within Chicago.

Face $176,000,000 Shortage.

A more serious view is presented when the total taxes of the county are considered. These total $276,161,268, and at the rate taxes are being paid. McDonough estimated that $100,000,000 will be in hand tonight. If the $100,000,000 mark is reached there will be a delinquency of $176,000,000 in the county's tax bill.

That delinquency is comparable with a $68,926,698 delinquency on the penalty date for the 1928 taxes last July. It is probable there will be more than three times as much delinquent taxes after this year's deadline as there were last July when the 1928 taxes became delinquent.

The county treasurer gathered all the taxes he could during last July, August, and September. All of his efforts brought in $4,951,722 and there still remained $56,874,976 in unpaid taxes.

Then the treasurer offered the property for sale on which taxes had not been paid, as the law requires. The tax buyers produced only $5,126,766.

That still left $51,748,209 of the 1928 tax bill. Since the sale property owners have paid $1,186,647. Therefore there still remains $50,561,562 of unpaid 1928 taxes.

Members of the advisory commissions to Mayor Cermak and the county board, chairman of all the city council committees, and representatives of the tax spending bodies have been invited to attend the meeting today of the state senate subcommittee on revenue, headed by Senator Earl B. Searcy.

YOUNG ROBBER GETS 14 YEARS FOR HOLDUP MURDER

Thomas Raia, 18 years old, 2392 West Lexington street, was sentenced to 14 years in prison yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court after he had pleaded guilty to the murder of Benjamin Vaughan, 60 years old, a salesman who lived at 548 North St. Louis avenue, on Feb. 20, 1930.

The shooting which resulted in Vaughan's death occurred in a soft drink parlor at 60 North Kedzie avenue. Raia and two companions, Richard Alexander, 20 years old and a youth identified only as "Bill," entered and tried to hold up the patrons. Vaughan resisted and in the shooting which followed he and Alexander were mortally wounded and Raia was shot in the arm. He was found later in the Norwegian Memorial hospital, where he was arrested.

According to testimony, Alexander instigated the holdup and it was he who fired the fatal shot. Raia said it was his first attempt at robbery.

Dice Game in Louisville Hotel Held Up for $3,500

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—(AP)—Six men, armed with shotguns and pistols, held up a dice game in the basement of the Henry Watterson hotel here today and escaped with cash estimated at between $3,500 and $5,000. Watches, rings and other jewelry also were taken. Three of the seventy-five persons in the basement were knocked down when they failed to throw up their hands quickly.

PLAN BATTLE TO BEAT OR AMEND INCOME TAX BILL

Real Estate Board Urges Drastic Changes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—The state income tax bill was the overshadowing question in the legislature today. Yesterday's action of the house in putting the Lantz bill—already passed by the senate—on the calendar after it had been reported unfavorably by the house revenue committee, led both sides to canvass their strength and to declare a tough fight is in sight next week.

Efforts are projected to amend the bill when it comes up on second reading to make it conform to views expressed at the committee hearings by representatives of the Chicago Real Estate board. One of the proposed amendments call for an offset of state income tax by property taxes, or, in other words, that a taxpayer may deduct from his income tax any property tax he has paid to the state or its taxing subdivisions. Another proposes that the proceeds of the income tax instead of being paid into the general revenue funds shall be put into the common school fund.

Agricultural Association Bill.

Both these clauses were in the first income tax bill introduced by Senator Simon E. Lantz [Rep., Congerville] Jan. 21. Both of them, however, were omitted in the bill which Mr. Lantz introduced Feb. 18, which is the one passed by the senate. The present measure was largely prepared by the Illinois Agricultural association.

The porperty tax offset was cut out on the ground that in other states, like Wisconsin, which tried it, the offset left the income tax collections rather slim. The present bill merely allows the taxpayer to deduct his property tax from his gross income in computing his net income on which to pay tax.

The proposed school fund amendment embodies a section in the old Lantz bill providing that the state income tax fund may be used only for paying the costs of the administration of the tax, and "the remainder of such fund shall be paid into the common school fund of this state, etc., in order to reduce or replace the tax levy on property for the common school fund."

Expect Close Fight.

House leaders, viewing yesterday's vote reviving the income tax bill, look for a close fight. The measure was put on the calendar by a vote of 86 to 60. Nine downstaters lined up with the Cook county delegation which voted to a man against the impost with the exception of Edward M. Overland [Rep.].

It requires 77 votes to pass a bill. Yesterday it had nine votes to spare, but some of those voting in the affirmative announced they did so just to get the measure on the calendar for a vote.

While the bill was before the senate it was openly charged that the bill was unconstitutional, and that the senate was merely trying to "pass the buck" to the Supreme court.

Cook county leaders, after studying yesterday's roll call, list about a dozen who voted affirmatively yesterday as doubtful on the income tax itself.

MEMBER OF OLD CITY HALL CREW FORFEITS BAIL

On the day set for his thirteenth appearance in court on confidence game charges, John M. Kantor, a lesser Republican worker, failed to appear yesterday before Judge Leon Edelman in the Chicago avenue court. His bonds of $5,500 were forfeited and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Kantor managed the "jackass" show in the mayoralty primary.

The charges of confidence game, passing a bogus check, and defrauding an innkeeper were preferred by Harry C. Moir of the Morrison hotel, where Kantor gave a wedding feast for his daughter last December. The check he gave to the hotel came back.

GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Ethel Buick Christiansen.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Ethel Buick Christiansen, 1400 Lake Shore drive, former actress and former wife of W. R. Buick, son of the automobile manufacturer, was granted a divorce from her second husband, Royal E. Christiansen, by Judge Daniel P. Trude in Cricuit court yesterday. She alleged cruelty and was given a default decree.

Following her divorce from Buick in 1927, the former actress was married in Joliet in 1929 to Mr. Christiansen, manager of the La Salle theater. She said they separated last January. Judge Trude awarded her $25 a week allmony for one year and $200 counsel fees. She will resume the name of Ethel Buick.

As she left the court room Mrs. Buick said: "I've given up my career for marriage once too often and I'll never do it again. I am going back to the movies."

TROOPS FIRE INTO 6,000 SWEDISH RIOTERS; KILL SIX

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, May 14.—Four men and two women were killed and several were injured today in a clash between troops and striking workers at Sandviken, center of the paper pulp industry.

Several thousand striking workers yesterday attacked the headquarters of strikebreakers, took four prisoners, and forced them to march through town with their hands bound while the demonstrators sang the "Internationale." Troops arrived during the night, and today, when 6,000 strikers renewed the offensive against the volunteer workers, the troops fired into the mob.

Tonight a general strike was proclaimed, affecting all the mills in the district. Troop reinforcements and a special detachment of Stockholm mounted police have been ordered to Sandviken. The government has ordered all volunteer workers out of the district.

BOY BACK AFTER 19 HOUR TRIP ON LAKE IN ROWBOAT

William Livingston, 19 years old, South Albany avenue, was back at the Crane Technical High school yesterday after a 19 hour trip alone in a rowboat, which started on Tuesday night from the foot of Randolph street and ended at Michigan City. The youth returned to Chicago yesterday by train.

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON.

Young Livingston had expected to reach Benton Harbor, but was blown from his course by a northerly wind, he said. He was forced to land about a mile south of the Michigan City harbor. "I was afraid the coast guardsmen would throw me in jail for being out in such a small boat," he explained. "I didn't have any signaling apparatus—just a good compass and a life preserver."

Last summer William with his grandfather and father, made a trip down the Mississippi river in a home made houseboat.

Son Is Born to Daughter of U. S. Senator Couzens

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—A baby boy was born today to Margo Couzens Chewning, daughter of Senator Couzens of Michigan, whose elopement last year with William Jeffries Chewning, young bank clerk, stirred Washington society. Attending physicians at Columbia hospital said the mother's condition was good. The baby, which weighed 7 pounds and 9 ounces, has been named William Jeffries Chewning III.

with two trousers

Ever say to yourself "why can't I look as though my clothes were made for me"? Well, we know of two sure answers. Be one of the extravagant few, and go to a custom-tailor. Or, join the thousands of thrifty men who are enjoying the luxury of that "made for me look", fitted by Bond.

We are really "cranks" on this much neglected matter of well-fitted clothes. We insist that all Bond fitters be graduates of our own factory. They know how our clothes are made. They know exactly what to do to shape a collar, so that it hugs your neck. They know how to give you a smooth pair of shoulders; and comfortable, faultlessly-hung sleeves. Chasing "back-wrinkles" is their hobby. And when a pair of trousers leave their hands they have that "made for me look", from wasteband to cuff.

We believe the skilled hands of our tailors are winning equally as many friends as are our London-designed fashions, our thoroughbred woolens (that take a sharp crease, and hold it) and our delightfully low prices — $25, $30, $35, two trousers included.

DAVID BELASCO, DEAN OF STAGE WORLD, IS DEAD

Colorful Career Ended by Heart Attack.

played near by, and it was a reported boast of Belasco's that he was the first boy ever to jump through a hoop of fire on horseback.

His formal schooling was continued in San Francisco until 1871. Always energetic, the young David studied elocution on the side and did such odd jobs as he could get. Late in life he was fond of remembering when he sold papers and scrubbed the floor of a cigar store. When he left school after 1871 he started eight years of what William Winter described in his biography of Belasco as "nomadic bohemianism."

At the age of 19 he became stage manager of the Baldwin theater in San Francisco. It was during this period that he met such men and women of the theater as Edwin Booth, John McCullough, E. A. Sothern, Edwin Adams, Adelaide Neilson and others.

Came to New York in 1882.

After his San Francisco days, Belasco moved to Virginia City, Nev., then the center of the turbulent "Comstock Lode" mining district. In 1882 he was induced to try New York, and so joined the Mallory brothers as stage manager and stock dramatist at their Madison Square theater. Here his play, "May Blossom," was produced in 1884.

Not long after he had reached New York he became associated with Daniel Frohman, serving as his stage manager at the old Lyceum. Here were produced three plays he wrote in collaboration with the late Henry C. De Mille, "The Wife" [1887], "Borrowed Plumes" [1888], "The Charity Ball" [1889], and "Men and Women."

The "great adventure" of his early years in New York was bringing Mrs. Leslie Carter to the stage. She had been prominent socially, and had gained much unwelcome publicity, most of which she believed to be unfair, when her husband had divorced her. She came to Belasco with her story and the producer after a long struggle made her a Broadway star.

In 1902 Belasco acquired his own theater, the Belasco, on 44th street near Broadway. Six years were spent in a legal fight with Klaw & Erlanger and other theatrical syndicate managers, and his fight for independence as a producer is said to have cost Belasco almost a million dollars.

Mr. Belasco married Cecilia Loverich in San Francisco, and by her had a daughter, Augusta, who died several years ago. His other daughter, Reine, married the producer, Morris Gest.

Mrs. Carter "Heartbroken."

Hollywood, Cal., May 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Leslie Carter, who rose to stage stardom under David Belasco and who recently was reconciled with the producer after a 20 year estrangement, tonight said she was heartbroken at word of his death.

"The tragic passing of David Belasco has left me so pitifully alone, I am so entirely heartbroken I can scarcely think," she said.

An intimate friend of the great theater chief, now in Hollywood, today related incidents of the Belasco-Carter association, as told to her by the producer himself.

"Mrs. Carter," she said, "a vivid, red headed beauty, impressed Mr. Belasco, he told me. When he promised to make her his protégée she made him give her his watch so he would not forget."

Even Played in Tents.

There followed months of struggle, in which Belasco toured with Mrs. Carter as his star. They played sometimes in tents. It was not until Belasco offered her in "The Heart of Maryland" that she catapulted to stardom. For sixteen years the two remained in association.

The true cause of their quarrel, on which many conjectures have been made, has never been told, this friend of the producer said.

At their parting, which was stormy, Belasco showed Mrs. Carter to the door of his office, telling her never to return. In his anger he smashed his fist through the plate glass.

TAKES LIFE WITH GAS.

The body of George W. Stewart, 30 years old, a draftsman, was found in the basement of his home, 4614 North Western avenue, yesterday. An illuminating gas hose was found in his mouth and a cardboard box covered his head.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—An increase of 32 cents in the per capita rate of money circulation in the United States was shown today in the monthly circulation statement of the treasury.

In April there was $4,652,394,840 in circulation for a per capita average of $37.32.

JURIST, FATHER OF 18, DEBATES BIRTH CONTROL

Atlanta, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—Richard B. Russell, chief justice of the Georgia Supreme court, engaged in debate tonight with Mrs. Margaret Sanger, birth control advocate.

The jurist, father of 18 children, whose son, Richard B. Russell Jr., is the governor elect of Georgia, said a "flood of advertisements, fakers, false contraceptives, and quacks" would be loosed if the law which prohibits dissemination of birth control information in the mail were repealed.

Mrs. Sanger, the mother of three children, said that since the law was passed largely through the influence of Anthony Comstock 57 years ago 1,500,000 mothers have died of causes incident to motherhood, 90 per cent of whom might have been saved had not the law been in effect.

Mothers Are Weakened.

Fifteen million children, she said, had been "pushed out of life before they reached the first year because of weakened mothers, poverty, and neglect."

Judge Russell said the law is needed to protect the home.

"Every one in Georgia who needs to know about birth control already knows about it," he declared. "Any state that wants contraception practiced can have it. But I don't want the mails in my state opened to injurious matter to be placed before immature minds in the home. I object to opening the mails to depravity.

"I think Mrs. Sanger is conscientious in her objections to the law, but when she gets this thing started she can't control it. There will be a deluge of advertisements, fakers, false contraceptives, and quacks."

Insists It Improves Nation.

Birth control, said Mrs. Sanger, is not only a health and economic expedient but also a means of improving the moral strength of the nation.

The way of nature has been to control population by the death rate, but social consciousness of the modern world, she said, prevents nature from having its way by destruction of the weak and unfit.

Birth control, she said, has been practiced for a generation or more by "a certain group, regardless of laws, where the best of this world's things are found — intelligence, comforts, health, strength."

Points to Franklin.

Taking Benjamin Franklin as an example, Justice Russell said "great men have always come from the poor," and advocated mothers' pensions to help them take care of the children, "some of whom will bless the nation."

"It is not the self-sacrificing, home loving, man making woman who wants this," he said, "but the so-called ladies who want to attend the theater and the club instead of staying at home caring for their children."

3 DRYS FIRED ON CHARGES OF IMBIBING BEER

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—Three St. Louis prohibition agents today were dismissed from the service, as a result of charges they participated in a party after seizure of 1,000 cases of Canadian beer as it was being unloaded from a freight car last Nov. 4.

Those dismissed were E. L. Stacy, Roy Duggan, and Homer Johnson, the latter a Negro.

Investigators alleged the agents, assigned to guard the beer, iced some of it, sent out for sandwiches, served the beer to others, and permitted other persons to remove some of it from the warehouse. They denied the charges.

THE WATER TOWER

Built just previous to the Chicago fire, one of the few North side buildings that survived. The House of McLaughlin at that time was a very sizable institution. For it had already won its reputation for blending of fine coffees.

Here's one thing to remember

Neither sorcery, mystery nor magic can produce fine coffee. Only one thing makes it possible. That's nature. But it takes expert knowledge to select such coffee and blend it. Only experience brings expert knowledge. The McLaughlin family combines the experience of three generations, born and bred in the coffee business. The result is pretty close to perfection in coffee.

CALL ECONOMIC PARLEY, LEGION TO URGE HOOVER

Suggests Conference of Nation's Leaders.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 14.—(AP)—The national executive committee of the American Legion late today directed Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander, to petition President Hoover to call a nonpolitical conference to solve the causes of economic depression.

The national commander was directed to ask the President to call together in a nonpolitical way representatives of labor, of industry, of capital and finance, of agriculture, and other elements of our national life.

The report of the commission revealed that a national survey by the 3,000 posts of the Legion indicated more than six million persons out of employment.

The committee estimated 750,000 former service men were among those out of work. It added that through the agencies of the Legion posts approximately 170,000 men were placed in employment.

Opposing Strike Against Wage Cuts.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—The opinion that organized labor should strike if wage reductions could not be frustrated by other means was expressed tonight by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green's statement followed an appeal addressed to organized and unorganized labor by the executive council of the federation that any efforts to reduce wages be resisted "to the fullest extent."

"We feel labor would be fully justified," Green said, "in resisting attempts to reduce wages even to the extent of striking."

Cites 1929 Agreement.

The federation president reiterated the statement of the council that action by employers to reduce wages would constitute a direct breach of the agreement reached by industrialists and labor leaders at President Hoover's 1929 conference that wages would be maintained.

For its part, labor pledged that no movements for wage increases beyond those already under way would be started and that every coöperation would be lent to aid in the President's program.

GRANT PERMIT TO ELEVATE TRACKS OF PENNSYLVANIA

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday granted to the Pennsylvania railroad permission to elevate the 2.34 miles of tracks of the Englewood Connecting Railways company, which connects the Panhandle and Fort Wayne divisions of the Pennsylvania. Estimated cost is nearly four million dollars.

The tracks extend east and west and are located between 58th and 59th streets. They are owned by the Pennsylvania. Elevation will eliminate grade crossings on thirty-two streets, most important of which, from a traffic standpoint, are Loomis and Halsted streets and Ashland boulevard.

The program was agreed on by representatives of the city and the railroad and was approved in an ordinance passed by the city council on last Feb. 9.

BUILDING TRADE MEN REFUSE TO FIX WAGE CUTS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 14.—[Special.]—The Associated Construction Employers of Indianapolis today abandoned a decision to effect a 20 per cent reduction in building craft wages.

Citing alleged refusal of unions to arbitrate, the employers asserted that "since the unions will not reduce the wages and will not arbitrate, we prefer that the labor unions fix their own scales of wages and assume the full responsibility for the same or get the full credit of the wages as reduced."

This assertion was carried in a letter to Harry B. Dynes, Indianapolis representative of the United States department of labor.

PACT CLOSING LEITER BATTLE SIGNED BY JUDGE

Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday signed the compromise agreement ending the eight year legal battle of the heirs of Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant, for control of his estate, estimated to be worth between $16,000,000 and $30,000,000. Eight sets of lawyers, who share $1,012,500 in attorneys' fees under the compromise, were present as the judge signed the document.

"Gentlemen," said the judge, "I hope this relieves depression, furthers the return of prosperity and adds to the general joy of the Chicago Jubilee."

The lawyers laughed politely—they received amounts ranging from $70,000 to $322,500. Before affixing his signature Judge Sullivan asked all the attorneys to sign the document.

In accordance with the agreement, Joseph Leiter and his sister, Lady Marguerite Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, resigned as trustees of the estate, to be succeeded by Darrow B. Fulton, auditor of the estate, and William Scott Bond, trustee of the University of Chicago. The new trustees appeared in court.

The English and American branches of the Leiter family had been arrayed against each other for eight years in an attempt to oust Joseph Leiter as trustee and obtain an accounting of the estate. Leiter was victorious before Judge Sullivan and in the Appellate court. The compromise was effected as lawyers prepared to take the case to the Supreme court.

SEIZE 2 AFTER ATTEMPT TO ROB SUBURBAN BANK

Two men were arrested yesterday in connection with the attempted robbery of the Roosevelt Trust and Savings bank, 7227 Roosevelt road, Forest Park, early yesterday morning when police fought a running gun battle with five escaping robbers.

The two men are Max Brenner, 41 years old, 1308 South Springfield avenue, and William Evans, 31 years old, 1546 South St. Louis avenue, a business agent of the excavators' union. They were arrested at Independence boulevard and Roosevelt road.

Brenner and Evans were arrested at the request of Forest Park police who found a union card bearing the name of William Brenner, 1308 South Springfield avenue, business agent of the Sanitary, Cinders, and Sprinklers' Teamsters' union.

Both denied participation in the attempted robbery.

The union card which led to the arrests was found in the basement of the home of Mrs. Alma Malec, 1040 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, with other papers which had been torn up and tossed into a pail of water. Mrs. Malec heard several men talking in her basement shortly after the shooting took place and glimpsed them a moment later in her back yard.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

HEAR SUIT TO BAN VACCINATION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Court Hears Doctors on Injunction Plea.

The question of what benefits are derived from vaccination and injection of toxin-antitoxin as preventives of smallpox and diphtheria ran into widely divergent views at a hearing yesterday before Master in Chancery Adolph Easter. The hearing was on the injunction petition brought by the Taxpayers' league to restrain the city health department from vaccinating children in the public schools.

DR. M'LAUGHLIN.

Four physicians appeared as witnesses for the league. They are Dr. Arthur Grimmer, Dr. G. P. Cassidy, Dr. C. A. Fruend and Dr. Virginia Johnson, who declared vaccination and use of toxin-antitoxin is not only useless but dangerous.

To refute this testimony Assistant Corporation Counsel William V. Daly, representing the health department, called six physicians as witnesses.

U. S. Official Testifies.

Dr. Allan J. McLaughlin, medical director of the United States public health service at Washington, said that it would be impossible for the serum to transmit to children the diseases which were alleged to follow from vaccinations, because all serum is thoroughly tested by federal government examiners before it is distributed. Another test is made by the local public health department before the serum is used, he said.

Col. Paul C. Hutton, in charge of medical service in the Sixth corps area, said that he has vaccinated more than 100,000 service men since 1892. He declared that vaccinations and injections will prevent small pox and diphtheria and that under no circumstances could other disease be attributed to the vaccinations.

Cites Results in City.

The vaccination of school children in Chicago, according to Dr. W. C. Van Wormer of the Illinois state board of health, has reduced the number of cases of smallpox in the city from about 30,000 a year to a comparative handful of cases.

Similar testimony was given by Dr. Morris L. Blatt of the University of Illinois, Dr. J. R. Gerstley of Northwestern university, and Dr. Gilbert Fitzpatrick, a national authority on cancer.

SENATOR HAWES WILL NOT SEEK RE-ELECTION IN 1933; REED MAY RUN

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Senator Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] announced today that he would not be a candidate for reelection following the expiration of his term in March, 1933. His statement was a reaffirmation of his retirement announcement made several months ago at the time of the Missouri Democratic state convention.

Senator Hawes will return to the practice of law, both in St. Louis and Washington, he said, and will continue his active interest in the conservation and restoration of wild life.

Word of Senator Hawes' final decision to retire set on foot again rumors that former Senator James A. Reed might seek the Democratic nomination and the senatorship from Missouri in the 1932 elections.

Champ Clark's Son to Run.

Montgomery, Mo., May 14.—[Special.]—Following the announcement from Washington that Senator Harry Hawes would not be a candidate for reelection Col. Bennett Clark reiterated he would be a candidate on the Democratic ticket to succeed Hawes. Col. Clark is a son of the late Speaker Champ Clark.

ASSEMBLY BUSY WITH CHICAGO'S PARK PROBLEMS

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Legislation involving the three large Chicago park systems was in the forefront of assembly matters today.

MICHAEL IGOE.

Each member of the house of representatives received a letter today from the Service federation, an alliance of Illinois taxpayers, protesting against house bill 981, which would allow the west Chicago park commissioners to issue $2,500,000 in general improvement bonds without a referendum. It was introduced by Representative Edward Overland [Rep., Chicago] and should be defeated, the federation advised.

"This bill proposes completely to revolutionise the long established policy that the voters of each taxing district have the right to vote upon public improvement bonds — which mean taxes," the letter to Cook county members stated.

Not Emergency Matter.

"Bonds merely for the improvement and beautification of a community are not to be confused with the bonds voted without a referendum by the last special session, the proceeds of which were absolutely essential to the continuance of city, county, and school government in the Chicago community.

"Neither are they to be confused with the county bonds just voted without a referendum to provide funds actually necessary to keep poor people from starving during the current unemployment period. These latter bonds were resorted to because in no other way could ready cash be realized with which to meet unavoidable emergencies. Also the terms of these bonds were made short so that in effect they constituted merely a temporary increase in tax rate.

"If the people are to be deprived of voting on a mere question of improvement, when no emergency exists, some grave abuses are certain to arise, and if the general assembly adopts this policy now, it certainly will regret it in the not distant future."

A letter embodying similar arguments was sent to downstate members.

Leasing Bill Opposed.

Disapproval of bills to permit the south park commissioners to lease land in the system was also expressed among the representatives themselves. Representative Elmer Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], stated that he would fight passage of the bills, which were introduced by M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], minority leader in the house and south park commissioner, when they appear on the floor.

Mr. Igoe explained when the bills were introduced that they would permit the board to lease the Travel and Transport building of the World's Fair group, now nearing completion, to the Chicago Association of Commerce for a convention hall before and after the exposition. The same authority would be granted in the possible leasing of ground for an underground garage at Monroe street in Grant park, which is contemplated.

"A separate bill should be introduced for each of these moves now planned," Schnackenberg said. "I don't approve of blanket permits. We should consider each separately."

Senate bills 7 and 12, giving the Lincoln park commissioners the right to issue $7,000,000 worth of bonds within the next three years for improving the park and acquiring more submerged land, were laid before the governor today for his signature or veto, having passed the house late yesterday. These bonds are subject to a referendum.

Former Policeman Seized in West on Fraud Charge

Joseph C. Lamb, 40 years old, a former Chicago policeman, was arrested in Hollywood, Cal., yesterday on a warrant nearly a year old charging him with swindling Mrs. Anna Luby, 7709 South Peoria street, of $11,000. He declared that he was the victim of mistaken identity. In 1924 Lamb was wounded in a battle with three Negro robbers, who killed his partner, Policeman Vincent Skiba.

Salesman Shot in Holdup Is Dead from Infection

Ralph Walker, 45 years old, 7148 Jeffery avenue, died at his home yesterday of an infection that developed after he had been shot by a holdup man in Calumet City on May 7. He was on his way home from Gary in his automobile when the robber attempted to halt him. The robber fired at him, striking him in the shoulder. His wound was not considered serious until the infection developed. Walker was an adding machine salesman.

Couple Wed on Bridle Path Become Parents of Boy

A son was born at the Ravenswood hospital yesterday to Mrs. Edwin J. Rankin, 1930 Winona avenue. Mrs. Rankin, who was Miss Alice Jensen of Cedar Lake, Ill., and Mr. Rankin, a wholesale draper, were married on the Lincoln park bridle path at Belmont harbor on Aug. 29, 1930. They had met two years before while riding and they went horseback to the wedding, as did the attendants.

DOWNSTATE SHY 2 CONGRESSMEN IN REMAP PLAN

Chicago Area to Get 14, Rest of State 13.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.] A tentative map reapportioning the Illinois congressional districts was completed today by the joint subcommittee of house and senate. It divided the counties outside the metropolitan area into 14 districts, where at present under a district plan thirty years old Illinois has 11 districts.

CHARLES ADKINS. [U. & U. Photo.]

The metropolitan area, with 57 per cent of the population, embracing the counties of Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page, is given 14 districts. The carving of the state into 27 new districts abolishes the two seats now held by congressmen who have been elected at large due to the failure to reapportion. The tentative map is ready for presentation to the assembly next week.

Election to Decide Seat.

In reducing the downstate districts from 25 to 13 there are of necessity two proposed districts, each of which is the home of two present congressmen. In the remap Congressmen Charles Adkins [Rep., Decatur] and Homer W. Hall [Rep., Bloomington] are thrown into one new district. John T. Buckbee [Rep., Rockford] and William R. Johnson [Rep., Freeport] are in another district. The election will determine the survivors.

ENVOY'S CELLARS SAFE FROM RAIDS, OFFICIALS CLAIM

No Extra Guards After Salvador Robbery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The wine cellars and other property of the capital's diplomatic colony are being given adequate protection by the Washington police department, the state department announced today following an inquiry prompted by yesterday's liquor raid on the Salvador legation.

Charles Lee Cooke, ceremonials officer of the department, conferred with local police officials for two hours late today and reported back to Assistant Secretary Francis White that in his opinion the police were doing all they could to protect the diplomatic colony. Immediately afterward Mr. White advised newspaper men that the state department inquiry was over and that no further steps would be taken.

The assistant secretary laughed at reports that the American government was considering a proposal that marines be used as legation guards. He likewise denied that any move would be made to establish a separate legation guard, such as now functions at the White House.

Special Guards Not Relished.

Inquiry today disclosed that while the members of the diplomatic corps were taking extra precautions to safeguard their liquor supplies following the attack yesterday on Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of the Salvador legation, in which the diplomat was severely beaten, none of them welcomed the idea of having local policemen stationed on their doorsteps.

An X-ray photograph taken this morning disclosed that Dr. Leiva is suffering from a slight skull fracture and as a result may have to remain in the hospital for three or four weeks longer.

It was revealed today that the robbery of yesterday was the second that has taken place this year at the Salvador legation. The first occurred during Holy week, when thieves carried away liquor, beer, and even olive oil.

No Claim for Loss.

In response to inquiries, Salvador legation officials said today that no claim for damages would be filed with the state department as the result of yesterday's robbery, during which seventeen cases of liquor were stolen. This statement disposed of reports that perhaps the United States would soon have to solve the intricate problem of replacing the stolen liquor. In event such a claim were filed by the Salvador government, the United States would examine the claim and subsequently a bill reimbursing De Leiva would be submitted to congress.

A dozen embassies were visited by a local reporter today, and at each place attachés said their liquor stores had never been molested.

TED NEWBERRY.

City Sealer Joe Grein probably would be asked to wield his big stick on Al Capone were his jurisdiction broad enough. Some of the city's beer retailers are complaining that the Capone syndicate is short weighting them.

The grumbles of the saloonkeepers were reported to the prohibition headquarters by undercover investigators, who declare that Capone not only puts less than 30 gallons in some of his regulation 32 gallon barrels, but also forces saloonkeepers to take as many barrels a week as he thinks proper.

Teddy Newberry's men are reported to have moved five barrels into a north side saloon while lining up that territory for Capone. When the collectors came around the saloonkeeper told them the beer, untouched, was in the basement. They stove in the barrels, moved in five more, and made the man pay $55 a barrel, say the dry agents.

Raids on Capone's breweries and his gambling dives, as well as high bonds required of his gangsters in federal court are reported to have hit him hard financially, probably accounting for the cheating.

Dr. David Starr Jordan's Condition Reported Worse

Palo Alto, Cal., May 14.—(AP)—The condition of Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford university, ill at his home here, was said by his physicians to be slightly worse today. Dr. Jordan was described as "somewhat weaker."

FIND GAMBLERS MADE 30 MILLION PROFIT FOR YEAR

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Referee Samuel Seabury's investigators turned up the bank accounts of another million dollar policy gambler today, but they can't find the gambler himself. Wilfred Brunder, one of the dozen men said to have been making $30,000,000 a year out of Harlem's fondness for the "numbers game," banked $1,753,000 in the six years just past.

Details of his affairs did not come out at today's public hearing because Brunder was not present to be questioned. He has been missing for ten days—ever since Irving Ben Cooper, counsel for the referee, questioned him privately in preparation for today's hearing.

When and if Brunder is found he may find himself in trouble with the district attorney's office over a matter of perjury. At the private examination he swore he gave up the policy game late in 1927 after being arrested. One witness today testified that Brunder was in the thick of the game all last year, and his bank records show that his heaviest deposits were made in 1930. Process servers are looking for him.

There was a possibility that his affairs would be investigated by the federal authorities, too, to see whether he has been regular in his income tax returns and payments. Henry Miro, the big time policy gambler, who was arrested yesterday for perjury, has been under the observation of United States Attorney George Z. Medalie and Hugh McQuillan, chief of the bureau of investigation of the internal revenue department, for several weeks. Mr. Medalie has been unable to find any record that Miro filed an income tax return during the last three years, when his income was in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

SCHIRESON LICENSE TO PRACTICE MEDICINE IN OHIO IS REVOKED

Cleveland, O., May 14.—(AP)—Dr. Henry J. Schireson, who has used surgery on scores of patients to reshape their faces or figures and who has been sued for damages by several of them, lost his Ohio medical license here today by action of the state medical board.

Three years ago Dr. Schireson was the subject of wide discussion when Miss Sadye Holland of Chicago lost her legs after an operation he performed in an effort to straighten them. The Ohio medical board said his license also had been revoked in Illinois and Michigan.

Charges against Dr. Schireson on which the Ohio board acted after a hearing here included gross immorality, unprofessional and dishonest practice. He did not appear at the hearing, but promised through his attorney to surrender his certificate.

Butler Goes to Oregon to Establish State Police

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the marines today left quietly for Oregon where he will assist in the formation of a state police force. Gen. Butler has a two weeks' leave of absence and naval officials said they expected him to return to Washington at the end of that time.

CUSTOMER STABS TWO GUARDS AT BROKERS' OFFICE

A disgruntled customer turned yesterday upon two special policemen and stabbed them with a penknife after they had taken him from the Logan & Bryan brokerage office on the fourth floor of a building at 105 West Adams street. The special policemen are former Police Captain Thomas J. Coughlin and former Sergt. David Carroll. They were taken to the Iroquois hospital, where it was found that neither was seriously wounded. Their assailant, T. J. Brownley, who is believed to be 70 years old, escaped. His address was unknown to the brokerage office. Brownley, according to the story told police, had lost between $500 and $600 in the stock market about five years ago and has since blamed employés of the firm for his loss.

FIRE VICTIM MAY DIE.

Tony Sadowski, 40 years old, a laborer, was burned, probably fatally, yesterday morning when fire broke out in a frame building in a junk yard at 836 North Franklin street. He was rescued by firemen after the blaze had been extinguished. Loss was estimated at $7,000.

Chickering

ESTABLISHED 1823

Famous 108 Years For Beauty of Tone

JUST 108 years ago an obscure young piano mechanic made his first grand piano in Boston. He brought to his instrument new devices that improved piano tone materially. The news got about and other grands were asked for. Soon the pianos of Jonas Chickering were known on both sides of the Atlantic for their brilliant, voice-like tone: the tone that Jenny Lind, Grieg, Liszt came to love. . . . Always fine tone has been the ideal sought in more than a century of building the Chickering. Hear it for yourself today at any of the Lyon & Healy stores.

REBELS ATTACK CHINESE FORCES; BATTLE RAGING

Canton General Warns Regiments Surrender.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 14.—An attempt by the Cantonese rebel leader, Gen. Chi Chi-tang, to disarm three regiments of loyal troops stationed at Whampoa, a suburb of Canton, this morning precipitated a battle which is still continuing. The rebel leader is at the command of 5,000 troops. Rail traffic between Canton and Kowloon has been suspended because of the firing across the Yellow river.

A report tonight stated that the 11th Nanking troops were holding a fortified position with an ample supply of ammunition which was recently purchased from Germany.

Commander Yung Tan-chul of the Nationalist forces declared that it was his intention to defend the Whampoa position pending the arrival of reinforcements by sea from Nanking.

Loyal Regiment Surrenders.

Gen. Chen Chi-tang is threatening to bomb the position from planes tomorrow morning in the event the provincial garrison does not surrender. The regiment of Nanking troops, stationed along the Canton and Hongkong railway, was unable to defend its position this morning and surrendered without resistance.

The Nationalist government today announced that a censorship on all international cable and radio facilities will be clamped on here within a few days. The government stated the censorship was "an emergency measure."

LOOT MANCHU TOMBS

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, May 14.—Famous tombs in north China are openly being looted by bandits.

Norwegian and British tourists visiting the oriental tombs, 30 miles east of Peiping, report that one tomb, presumably that of a Kang Hsi empress, has already been robbed of gems worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. Dealers, they say, are standing outside the tombs eagerly bidding for the loot.

Steal Concubine's Jewels.

When these tombs were looted a few years ago the burial gown of an empress dowager and the jewels of Chin Lung's concubine were stolen. The body of the empress was virtually stripped. Some of this loot was later sold to collectors in Peiping. No arrests have been made.

With further officials deserting the Nanking government, including Sun Fo, minister of railways, and Wang Chung-hui, minister of justice, President Chiang Kai-shek's régime is beginning to totter.

President Chiang has ordered an urgent conference at Nanking of all officials of Hunan, Hupeh, Kiangsi, and Fukien provinces to plan the formation of a united front against the Canton rebels, but these generals are strongly reluctant to heed his orders.

Mrs. Josephine Wedeles Heymann Wins Divorce

Mrs. Josephine Wedeles Heymann, 1121 Kenwood avenue, daughter of Lloyd L. Wedeles, treasurer of the Wedeles company, wholesale grocers, was granted a divorce yesterday from William R. Heymann, a food salesman. The decree was granted by Circuit Judge Trude on grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Heymann testified that on one occasion her husband struck her with a telephone. She did not ask for alimony. The couple were married Dec. 1, 1926, and separated April 10, 1931.

MORE TAXES.

The legislature continues to concern itself with proposals for new forms of taxation. As soon as one is disposed of another crops up. Almost always these proposals for increasing taxation are supported by propaganda to the effect that the new tax has the virtue of extracting money from the people who can afford to pay.

The situation would be incredible if it did not exist. At a time when tens of thousands in Illinois are out of work, when industry is showing its first feeble signs of recovery, when farm income is at a low ebb, the legislature is devoting time and attention to discovering ways of extracting more money from the pockets of the overburdened people of Illinois. At such a time a reasonably conscientious legislature would be devoting its time and effort not to increasing the tax burden but to decreasing it. The taxpayers are spending sleepless nights trying to discover means of making both ends meet and the legislature blithely adds to their worries.

All other commodities have come down in price and they have come down fast and far. Only the cost of government continues to rise. It is idle to pretend that additional taxes can be imposed which will not work serious injury to the people of Illinois generally. To the extent that these new taxes do raise revenue they will drive capital and business out of the state. Meanwhile, the burden which it is said will rest only upon the well to do will be passed on, as it always is, until all the people of the state bear it.

The prospectuses promising no additional taxes on the man who cannot easily bear them are patently dishonest. While these promises are being made the legislature is busy in consideration of a dozen other measures whose objective is increasing the present property tax rates.

The only acceptable fiscal legislation at this time will be legislation which will lower taxes and reduce the tribute which the people of Illinois must pay every year to their governments. It cannot be denied that a large part of the tribute is wasted and could be saved. Money paid to the governments performs a minimum of useful work. A great part of it, if spent by the taxpayers, even in riotous living, would more nearly serve the common good.

All that the people of Illinois want from this legislature in the way of tax laws is less taxes and less waste.

PLANNING PORT DEVELOPMENT.

The desirability of creating a responsible planning agency for our port development ought to be clear enough to insure the passage of Representative Igoe's measure now before the house. The objections of Representative Schnackenberg seem to us ill founded. The appropriation of a small sum, $15,000, to be at the disposal of the Chicago regional commission created by the Igoe bill, can hardly be considered objectionable on the grounds asserted by Mr. Schnackenberg, that the commission is to be appointed by the Association of Commerce. On the contrary, the public will take that fact as assurance that the money will be faithfully and profitably expended. As for the fact that there are available a valuable survey made by the Commercial club and one under way by the federal government, we may safely assume that the commission will avail itself of them. The comprehensive survey by the commission we think should be provided for and our port development should continue to have the direction of some such planning and control agency.

The efficient development of port facilities around the whole lake shore from Milwaukee to St. Joe is of great moment to the whole midwest, and competent planning and control agencies should be created by coöperative action by Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan. These agencies should be established and coördinated so that the maximum results may be attained without wasted effort and duplication.

OFFICIAL FIRST AID.

According to our latest information from Washington the new Chicago postoffice will be started by the end of June, if the present expectations of the treasury department are realized. The "if" will be taken seriously by any one who has followed the fortunes of this important public project. Specifications, we learn, "are due" from the architects this week. After they are received, we hope as soon as possible in official procedure, bids will be advertised for, and the contract will be awarded not sooner than five weeks after advertisement.

Last winter, if our recollection is reliable, building was to begin about April 1. Taken from the date fixed by earlier official prognostications, it will be about six months late. In fact, we have been waiting for it for years, but what especially engages our interest is the inability of the agencies concerned to get the improvement under way more promptly under pressure of recent conditions. Immediately after the collapse of business in 1929 we heard of great plans for meeting the unemployment crisis by public works. The leading private industries of the country were exhorted to follow the example of the nation's greatest employer and to accelerate and expand their construction plans to meet the emergency. How effectual this appeal was we do not know, but we have had occasion, in the case of the Chicago postoffice, to suspect that the example offered private enterprise by the government has not been impressive. The Chicago postoffice involves the expenditure of more than twenty-three million dollars and would give employment, directly or indirectly, to a good many workers. But the urgency of the occasion seems to have had little influence in accelerating the official pace.

Is Chicago a special victim or has the whole ambitious and much advertised project for relieving the worst rigors of the depression by public works been caught in the doldrums of official inertia and routine? For meeting the emergency of the winter of 1929-'30 a beginning on a great public work in June of 1931 does not rate very high as first aid.

PROTECTION IN A CHICAGO GOVERNOR.

There were warnings to the metropolitan areas in the legislature of two years ago. There are more in the present one. It, as its predecessors for twenty years, is unconstitutionally composed. It is not elected from constitutional districts. Its acts run, "Be it enacted by the people of Illinois represented in general assembly," but that is a lie, because the representation in Springfield is not one of equality, but of disfranchisement. The government of Illinois is a rural autocracy based upon a denial of rights and the nullification of the constitution. At the head of this government is a small town governor. Controlling the legislation are the representatives of a squirarchy. On every roll call stolen votes reply. If the bill is prejudicial to the cities, they vote yes; if advantageous, they vote no.

This program is almost automatic when the subject is taxation or the distribution of public money. The squirarchy possessing the governor's office and filling the legislative seats which belong to Cook county under the constitution defeats the cities of the state on the distribution of the gasoline tax, votes the income tax, which is intended as a levy on city wages, and seeks to exploit the people of the state who have been deprived of their representative rights. These people have no protection. The courts have failed to sustain the constitution. The legislature is packed against them. The veto is no help to them because it is in the hands of a rural governor.

The people of the cities cannot compel the enforcement of the constitution. They cannot, therefore, recover their lost legislative rights. They cannot elect representatives to the places to which they are entitled. There is only one thing they can do, but that one they can. By uniting on the line of their interest they can elect the governor and possess themselves of the executive department and the veto. They will have to do it if they are to protect their property. Otherwise they are sheep attacked by wolves.

The people of Cook county must put aside party considerations and join with the people of other city districts, which are in the same trouble, to elect governors from Chicago. That will put the metropolitan check upon the illegal squirarchy. It will give the veto. There is no other way of protecting the cities from unfair legislation. Illinois is not a state of constitutional government. It is one of unfair and unjust government built on fraud.

The cities have the votes to take over the government's office. They will not be safe until they do so. They would be foolish to subject themselves to another legislature with things as they are now.

GOLDEN GLOVES IN RETROSPECT.

The French Golden Gloves team has come and gone. They made a splendid showing and very nearly tied the Americans in the number of victories won.

Perhaps the most remarkable aspect of the bouts was the friendliness of the vast crowd toward the French contestants. THE TRIBUNE takes much satisfaction in that. For many years, and especially since the war, THE TRIBUNE has resisted the propaganda of internationalists who view the world through rose colored spectacles. Those who believe that the last war has been fought, and therefore the need for military preparation is ended, are the victims of their day dreams. No realist, looking about the world today, can think for a moment that the millennium of international brotherhood is about to dawn. A vigorous nationalism is needed in this country to resist the nonsense preached by the internationalists.

While THE TRIBUNE has not failed of its duty in this regard it has never taken the position that the necessary corollary of an American national consciousness is hatred of other peoples. And we submit that the boxing tournament has done more to create good will than the tubs of applesauce spilled by the internationalist brethren.

Editorial of the Day

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

With sessions already completed or drawing to a close, little in the record of the legislatures reflects the Literary Digest's straw vote or interpretations placed on last November's election.

In a score of these legislatures bills were introduced repealing state prohibition acts, but that is not unusual. At a certain number of sessions repeal bills are always being introduced, never to be heard of afterward. While such bills have had more discussion this year than in the average year of the past, not one has so far become a law. In Pennsylvania, Indiana, and Nebraska, according to printed figures, repeal bills were defeated by committee action and some action on the floor of legislatures defeated similar bills in Iowa, Missouri, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and Washington. In only one state, Illinois, did a repeal measure gain the approval of both legislative houses and that was promptly vetoed by the governor. Alaska's territorial assembly approved a repeal bill, but apparently its action is subject to approval by congress, creating the possibility of a lively issue in that body next winter.

When the law making began this year prohibition laws were lacking in six states—in Maryland, which never passed one, and in Nevada, New York, Montana, Wisconsin, and Massachusetts, which in the last eight years have repealed prohibition statutes formerly enacted. In seven states repeal bills are still pending, but at this late stage of their work the seven legislatures are likely to adjourn, leaving state prohibition just where it was at the end of 1930—that is, with enforcing acts operative in forty-three of the forty-eight states.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SCIENCE AND GARLIC. TO SAY NOTHING OF ONIONS.

R. P. writes in a bitter tirade against the Line for demanding subways for Chicago. "How are you going to avoid inhaling garlic and onions in the subway?" demands R. P. Listen, R. P., you know nothing about this subject, while we have studied it for years. Statistics show that all garlic and onion eaters ride in the subway. The result is that the people who do not eat garlic and onions have the street cars, the buses, and taxicabs (with much cheaper rates than in towns where there is no underground) all to themselves. Out of 46,765 people who entered the New York subway on the evening of May 3, 1931, between the hours of 7 and 11 o'clock, at the 14th street station, 33,295 had eaten garlic and 5,332 had eaten onions, thereby proving that all garlic and onion eaters are inveterate subway riders. The odor of these outrageous vegetables is met with frequently in Chicago as you walk around the streets. But in New York, as you saunter along Broadway, you never catch the slightest odor of garlic or onion. And, why? Ah, R. P., you should indeed ask why? Because, as we said before, all the garlic and onion eaters are down below ground riding in the subway. Therefore, we repeat, we are anxious indeed that something should be done towards getting a subway for Chicago.

WHO WOULD MAKE POEMS?

Who would make poems
Days like today!
Each hour's a poem
Flaming with May.
Verses seem foolish
Out on God's lawn:
I have new duties
Now winter's gone.

No more dull writing,
Scanning out feet!
Orchards are calling,
Peach bloom is sweet.
Toiling is sinful
Starting today.
Bluebirds and poets
Stop work in May.

Springtime's fresh music
Weaves a wild tune.
Long roads are winding
Deep into June.
Let fools write poems,
I have grown wise.
Ho, for new countries!
Ho, for strange skies!

NEW YORK CITY has taken steps to stop the shower of ticker tape and torn telephone books when returning heroes land at the Battery and pursue their triumphal march up Broadway. The telephone books cost money and the ticker tape just makes the crowds down below remember all the coin they've lost and burst out into frantic sobbing. And many strong men simply become hysterical when the ticker tape recalls what the stock market has done to them.

ENGLISH SKETCH BOOK.

Old monarchs once walked here,
Medieval England with the ordered ways,
The cobbled street, the valanced window near,
The slow procession of the quiet days.

The tower and moat, the castle rent and torn
By the relentless legions of the years,
The crumbling house that boasts a post born,
The shop where little Nell shed childish tears.

The square where stones were crimsoned with the blood
Of martyrs or of freemen in the fight,
Or where the serried ranks of yeomen stood,
Only to fall for liberty and right.

This artist paused within the narrow way
Old scenes and markings of another day,
And here's a bit of England brought to you.

CARE OF THE INJURED.

DR. JOHN S. COULTER talked to the 1930 meeting of the American College of Surgeons on the subject of fractures of both bones of the lower leg, giving them some advice which lay people should have. His advice, in the main, was good regardless of what bones were broken.

He said he always gave a mimeographed sheet of instructions for home care and self-help to every person in his care with a fracture. The patient with a fracture should ask his surgeon for a similar sheet of instructions.

He laid down three principles of treatment of lower leg fractures: Early reduction, proper retention, and early function. The patient is particularly interested in the third. If the results are to be satisfactory the fractured limb must not be kept out of commission long.

The detailed advice in this talk related to the use of heat, gentle massage, strong massage, static exercise, passive exercise, exercise through use, and occupational therapy. The application of heat should be begun the first day after the fracture. It should be applied for one hour at a time at least three times a day. There are many types of apparatus for applying heat locally and if no other is available something can be rigged up in the home.

Gentle massage, that is, light rubbing of the skin above and below the fracture, should be begun the day after the fracture. It should be slow, rhythmical, and always in one direction. It can be done by the patient or some member of his family. Later in the treatment it is sometimes advisable to split the cast so that the top half can be removed to permit daily light massage not far from the fracture.

Heavy massage is not begun until later in the treatment and it should be done by a person of some experience and training. Static exercise consists in contracting the muscles of the leg without bending a joint. Soon after a fracture the nearby muscles cramp very easily. One object of splinting is to prevent these cramping muscles from pulling the set bones out of place.

But after a day or two in a splint the muscles quiet down and presently they need exercise. Static exercise supplies this. The patient can generally teach himself the trick, though he may need instruction. It should be begun within the first week. In passive exercise the patient's muscles are relaxed. The masseur makes the movements and bends the joints. They must be done so as not to disturb the position of the fracture. Some part of the splint is generally removed to make passive exercise possible.

In active exercise the patient is the operator. It is begun with some use of the muscles to increase endurance and to reteach the muscles. Active exercise is generally delayed too long.

The place in the scheme of occupational therapy is to get the joints and muscles and bones back to full efficiency.

GROWTH MAY BE THERE.

Constant Reader writes:

1. Is there such a thing as a growth between the large and small intestines? Is that one form of cancer.

2. When a person has a vomiting spell and everything that comes up is black, what is it?

3. Am I wrong in saying a bathroom window should always be kept down two inches from the top, and that when a person is sick enough to stay in bed there should always be some fresh air in the room, being careful that there is no draft?

REPLY:

1. There may be. It may be cancer or something else.

2. This may be blood, or it may be bile.

3. Both bathrooms and sickrooms should be well ventilated.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

A. D. writes: I am a stenographer in a loop office, 22 years of age, with probably better than average health. I am rarely ill, am never troubled with headaches or other slight ailments, and although a trifle too slender I feel perfectly fit. Lately I have noticed that when I return to my desk after my lunch and a hurried dashing through the various department stores my heart beats rapidly for some time. While I am not worried about this as yet, I believe I could allow myself to worry over it easily. Do you think I have any cause for worry?

REPLY:

I suggest that you have a physical examination, including an examination of the heart, metabolism test, and examination of the blood for anemia.

UNSAFE STRUCTURES.

Chicago, May 7.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a one story frame store on the northeast corner of 47th and Dearborn streets, which certainly ought to be condemned. It appears ready to topple over at any moment. On the west side of Michigan avenue between 62d and 63d streets a rambling frame structure also seems to present a dangerous condition and most certainly an eyesore. Can't these be cleaned up to rid the city of poor advertising?

H. C. K.

An inspection has been made of the premises at 20 West 47th street and owner has been notified to level up, repair and put building in good and safe condition, or have same wrecked. The building located at 6212-15 South Michigan avenue is a two story frame building on a masonry foundation. The agent was notified by this department about two years ago to board up all openings and make building safe or wreck it. He boarded up all openings and made it reasonably safe for a long time, but the boarding has been torn off in many places and building is now being wrecked by vandals. The agent has been notified by this department to wreck the building.

DEPENDS ON POLICY.

Chicago, April 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Eight years ago I took out some health insurance. Last January I became ill and had to give up my work and seek medical treatment. The insurance company paid me $80 at the rate of $10 per week for eight weeks and then notified me that my policy had been canceled, giving as their reason that I was an undesirable risk. 1. Can my policy be canceled under the circumstances, inasmuch as I am fully paid up? 2. Can they cancel the policy for the reason quoted and cease to give me sick benefits? 3. Also, must I lose the difference between what the company paid me and the amount of premiums I paid them? 4. Can they accept your premiums while in good health and when ill cancel the policy? 5. Do they expect me to keep well indefinitely and continue paying without benefits till death? — M. L.

1. Depends on the wording of the policy.

2. Many policies are so worded that they can be canceled as to future liability, but leaving the company liable as to an illness that has already occurred. In general, your rights would depend on the wording of your policy. We suggest that you read it.

3. The premiums that you have paid have purchased protection against the risk that the company is carrying. You are not entitled to any credit for these payments unless the policy contains wording giving you such credit.

4. Yes, if the policy so provides.

5. We are not in a position to say what they expect. A person should not take out such insurance unless he is satisfied with the wording of his policy. Most persons regard cancelable health insurance as hardly worth carrying.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 15, 1915.

BERLIN.—From the report received from the submarine which sank the Lusitania the following official version of the incident is published by the admiralty under the signature of Admiral Behncke: "The submarine sighted the steamer, which showed no flag, May 7 at 2:20 o'clock in the afternoon on the southeast coast of Ireland. At 3:10 o'clock one torpedo was fired at the Lusitania which hit its starboard side below the captain's bridge. The detonation of the torpedo was followed immediately by a further explosion of extremely strong effect. The ship quickly listed to starboard and began to sink. The second explosion must be traced back to the ignition of quantities of ammunition inside the ship."

ROME.—Premier Salandra has insisted upon his resignation being accepted and King Victor Immanuel has intrusted Giuseppe Marcora, president of the chamber of deputies, with the task of forming a new cabinet. The resignation of Salandra was due to resignation in the cabinet, several opposing his war policy. The pro-war demonstrations continue tonight and are taking a new course. Resentment of the rioters is turned to the Germans. Shops owned by Germans are being wrecked and neutralists are being attacked. Enormous crowds are parading the streets.

QUEENSTOWN.—Twenty-eight more bodies of victims of the Lusitania disaster were landed here by a British torpedo boat and the tug Stormcock. Among the bodies identified were those of Commander J. Foster Stackhouse, the British explorer, and A. L. Hopkins, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding company. The bodies of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Elbert Hubbard and other well known Americans who perished when the steamer was torpedoed were not among the twenty-eight.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Samuel H. Stokes and his wife, who have left the Zion fold over which John Alexander Dowie presides, will be called by Coroner Traeger as witnesses at the inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Emma Lucy Judd and her baby, who died without medical attention while Dowie and elders of the church prayed for her. Stokes declares that Dowie is a fraud and is only after the money he can get.

CHICAGO.—After seizing his two children in Oshkosh and fleeing from Wisconsin by carriage and train, Arthur Baring-Gould, member of the noted English family bearing his name, slipped through Chicago with his two sons which he had taken from their mother, the former Miss Mayme Bigger of Oshkosh. Chicago detectives failed to find Baring-Gould after tracing him to the Polk street depot, and he is believed to be on his way to Canada. His wife is reported in a serious condition in her home in Oshkosh, to which she returned following domestic trouble in England.

CHICAGO.—June 23 is the date set for the marriage of Miss Frances Dibblee and A. A. Sprague Jr. The wedding will take place at the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dibblee at Rye Beach.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 15, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Some senators have had the courage to visit the White House to see President Garfield in his office during the intervals when he is not in his wife's sick chamber, and to suggest further attempts at a compromise in the controversy over the confirmation of the President's appointment of Judge Robertson as collector of the port of New York in opposition to the wishes of Senator Conkling. It was the old story. The efforts were only made because some Republican senators are still reluctant to face the inevitable issue. A majority of the Republicans, however, have had their illusions dispelled. The President has never wavered from the outset. He has interpreted the constitution as giving him the right to nominate such persons as he chooses for public office, irrespective of "senatorial courtesy," and he has expressed his views without reserve. Despite this, up to two days ago the majority of senators have been of the opinion that harmony could be restored by a surrender on the part of the executive. It has not been learned that any committee of senators has suggested to Mr. Conkling that he get off his high horse. It is understood now that Conkling has practically abandoned his fight.

CHICAGO.—The new open street cars of the north side company appeared on State street. They are considered to be superior to any that have yet been seen in western or eastern cities.

IN MEMORY OF PROF. MICHELSON.

Chicago, May 13.—I would suggest that a movement be started to name some street, public school, or park in honor of the late Prof. Michelson, noted scientist. Such men deserve to have their memories perpetuated more than politicians.

AGNES ANDERSON.

A FARMER EXPLAINS THE DEPRESSION.

Patoka, Ill., May 11.—Facts are stubborn things and they are never more persistent than when opposed to theories of self-styled professors and economists whose theories are based solely on textbooks 20 years behind the times. The big shots of 35 countries have been given space for their theories. Will THE TRIBUNE extend the same courtesy to a farmer from the jungles of the Okaw?

Any intelligent man with an open mind could have known for ten years where events were leading. It is a self-evident truth that a policy which deprives one-fourth of the population of the hope of purchasing the bare necessities of existence in order to raise the standard of living of our laboring man must prove disastrous. Absolutely, that has been the policy for ten years.

Ever since McAdoo's famous "give 'em all they ask, for I'm going to need their votes," extended strikes have been unknown and the demands of labor have been readily granted on the theory that the employer is entitled to "cost plus 10 per cent" and a "damn the cost, for the greater the cost the greater the profit" theory. Result, prices of labor and commodities both rose continually, which, if it were universal, would work no hardship but merely cheapen money.

However, farmers' products, even in this cheapened money, brought less of it, with the very natural result that whatever buying power the farmer possessed was an artificial buying power and not one based on current receipts or earnings. What is more natural than that there should be a limit to this artificial buying power and that when such limit were reached those who had supplied it—local banks and land banks—should crash with it or that when one-fourth of the customers of big business cease buying altogether there must be curtailment of production and a revision?

Where is the man who would expect a farmer to reduce acreage when necessity compels him to increase his efforts to the very limit of his ability merely to exist? When shirts containing less than 30 cents' worth of cloth are advertised in THE TRIBUNE "at greatly reduced prices," and sell for $5 or more, something is unbalanced. These do not sell when offered to farmers.

The cause suggests the remedy. Buying power is very much out of balance, but soap box orators have found "a higher standard of living for the laboring man" to be a sure stepping stone to office, and since it is extremely unpopular and decidedly unhealthful to advocate lower wages, we may expect politicians to refrain from telling union labor that they may have too much of a good thing. But mother nature is on the job to correct the trouble and it will be done. The mills of the gods, etc.

Time for "economists" to revise the old textbook is the prophecy I would have put in the record.

W. W. LAWRENCE.

THE ART OF PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Chicago, May 11.—Your editorial, "The Art of Public Speaking," in Sunday's TRIBUNE is a credit to the perspicacity of your editorial staff. It points at a fault of speakers on radio and talking news reels of which I think most everybody is aware. The public appearances over radio and on the talking screen of some of our noted men in public office should project our interest in them and strengthen our respect and pride for them. Instead we are usually surprised at the apathetic demonstrations of monotonous voices and immovable faces. President Hoover plays safe and neither smiles nor frowns.

I don't think any one will confess an active interest in the many canned speeches dealt us via radio without admitting the added appeal and effectiveness they would have if they were not read by the speaker. The vital force and personality of the speaker is partially lost and the response of the listener is diminished.

JOHN HENDERSON.

A FAMILY MAN.

Chicago, May 12.—Why is it that the mayor of Chicago can't do anything without his grandchildren? Don't you think it's about time he weaned them? It would be most appealing to see the mayor's picture in the papers alone.

BILLIE JOHNSAU.

THE PIONEER CEMETERY.

Chicago, May 7.—In regard to the pioneer cemetery about which your correspondent inquired: That plot shown went by the name of the Bob Wa cemetery. He was at one time a wealthy farmer living close by and the most buried there are all his relatives.

FRED S. SCHOONMAKER.

ANOTHER EXPLANATION.

Chicago, May 14.—In answer to the inquiry of A. G. T. as to the origin of the cemetery at Dempster and Washington road, I will relate the information I have received from two "old timers" still residing in that vicinity.

It was in the spring of the year that a resident of Niles died and the burial was to have taken place in the old Gost cemetery. The casket was placed on a wagon drawn by six horses; but, due to the thaw and rains, the road was soon to impassable. By the time the procession arrived at the spot where the cemetery is located the horses were exhausted because by this time the wagon wheels resembled bass drums from the mud and gumbo through which they had traveled.

A farmer by the name of White, who owned the land at that point, saw the plight of the procession and gave them permission to bury the deceased there, at the same time donating an acre of ground to be used as a cemetery. Since then it has been known as the White cemetery.

J. BOLLMANN.

BUILDINGS WHICH SHOULD BE CONDEMNED.

Chicago, May 11.—Why has the building department of the city of Chicago permitted the fire traps that are supposedly abundant to remain standing as long as they have? The loop district especially has office buildings and lofts that are a disgrace for visitors to see. I have been in some of these buildings lately and have seen some of the most antiquated types of construction that it has ever been my lot to see.

It is very common to see wooden stairs with wooden railings in buildings 15 stories high. Some of these stairs are so worn out that one's foot almost goes through the tread. I suppose we will have to have another big fire disaster to force the city to condemn these rat traps. There is not the slightest excuse for the city to permit these old buildings to operate any longer. Anyhow a great number of them are untenantless that they are not even tax payers.

The outlying sections have their eyesores and traps also. On the south side there is a large frame hotel 4 stories high and almost a block square, and very few fire escapes on it. This place to my mind is the worst fire trap in the city.

We have heard considerable talk about the movement to wreck these old buildings, but I suppose that we will have to wait until a real building commissioner and a corps of scrupulously honest inspectors are appointed by the new mayor before we see the movement really get under way.

IRELAND'S BEST.

Chicago, May 12.—The French Golden Glove fighters were swell, but can you imagine what a battle we'd see if you brought Ireland's best over? You'd probably have to build an annex on the Stadium. Then, too, I'll bet 99 44-100 per cent of the sons of the sod would be eligible as amateur battlers.

DIANE MANN.

RAZZING THE FRENCH.

Chicago, May 13.—Though Quin Ryan is W-G-N's star sports announcer, I don't think he was very fair in his gentle razzing he gave the French fighters from time to time. All in all, it was a great scrap and here's one who doffs his hat to the spirit of France as represented by those gallant boys. Here's hoping THE TRIBUNE will stage more of the same kind.

WHEN OUR ENGINEERS COME HOME.

Chicago, May 8.—It would be interesting to get some information from Mr. Henry Wales about what the American engineers intend to do after they return from Russia.

Such information would be interesting because these engineers may try to be as big shots in America as they are in the U. S. S. R., according to Mr. Wales.

And even if these engineers do not intend to do something it would nevertheless be interesting to learn what they will do if the people of America will call upon them for advice on what to do in the economic war that these engineers are helping the Russians prepare for.

FORM ACADEMY TO STUDY CRIME CAUSES AND CURE

Scientists Start Pool of Special Knowledge.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The Chicago Academy of Criminology was organized last night as a new and multiple approach to the problem of crime by experts in all the lines which touch upon it.

Neurology, psychiatry, psychology, sociology, pathology, toxicology were the sciences represented at the first meeting in the Palmer house, as well as the law, crime detection, and prison administration.

Prof. Edwin H. Sutherland of the department of sociology, University of Chicago, an internationally known expert in criminology, was elected president. Vice presidents are Dr. Ludwig Hekten, director of the John McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases; Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, director of the Institute of Juvenile Research, and Prof. A. J. Todd of Northwestern university. Dr. Meyer Solomon, director of the Municipal Psychopathic laboratory, was elected secretary. He has been active in the organization of the academy.

Directors Are Chosen.

Directors chosen are Dr. H. Douglas Singer, professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois college of medicine; Chief Justice John J. Sonnett of the Municipal court, Dr. William C. Woodward of the American Medical association, Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, Col. Calvin Goddard of the Scientific Crime Detection laboratory, Dr. Lee Lauderce, research director of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology; Judge Mary Bartelme, E. W. Hinton and S. P. Breckinridge.

While the academy will concern itself with criminology from all points of view, the home, courts, schools and prisons, and from the angles of all those sciences, its program of work has not been definitely determined. It will hold one meeting in June and regular meetings beginning next fall. It is the hope of its founders to make it the authoritative body on this subject in the central west.

Give Views on Crime.

Some of the expectations for the academy, and views on crime were given last night as follows:

PRESIDENT SUTHERLAND—Those who talk of neurones, interstitial areas, delinquency areas and behavior, will have a chance to exchange views. The crime problem calls for the cooperation of all specialists.

JUDGE BRANDON, state director of public welfare—The membership should be justified by quality. The American public is staggering into the understanding of this much—that we are no good as we are. Tonight the largest percentage of people is represented that Illinois ever had. We are not on the right road.

PROF. ERNEST W. BURGESS of the University of Chicago—We must turn to each other for the multiple approach. The cultural and environmental explanation is not enough.

"Body Person—Not Crime."

MRS. WILLIAM F. DUMMER, one of the founders of Juvenile court said—The mind or thought process may be thrown out of gear. What throws it in I do not know, but it has happened and my subnormal boys began to function.

FATHER FREDERICK SIEDENBURG, dean of department of sociology, Loyola university—Penology is a dismal history. The whole tendency now is to study the person rather than the crime.

DR. SINGER—The brain may have defects, but it is capable of compensation and displacement.

FIRST CHINESE IS NATURALIZED IN COURT HERE

Mrs. Jennie Wong Tsang, a teacher of Chinese literature in the school at 2211 Wentworth avenue maintained by the Chinese Association of Commerce, yesterday became the first Chinese to be naturalized in this federal district.

Chinese are not eligible for naturalization under the Chinese exclusion act, but Mrs. Tsang was born in San Francisco. She lost her citizenship when she married Yan Tsang, an alien, who is now an interne in a Bethlehem, Pa., hospital.

Under a recent amendment to the Chinese exclusion act, native born aliens who have lost their citizenship by marriage may be naturalized. Mrs. Tsang was accompanied by her 1 year old son, Wen Chee, when she passed the federal examination before Examiner George Mackay.

BAYONETS GUARD RUSSIA'S GIANT DAM ON DNIEPER

Yanks to Complete Work by May, 1932.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DNIEPERSTROI, U. S. S. R., April 19.—[By Mail.]—Lights, blazing arcs, glaring floodlights, spitting kliegs and darting searchlights, with the fiery red glow of furnaces and the distant fitful sheet glare from the liquid air explosives factory mark one's arrival by night here.

It's like coming into Pittsburgh. In Dnieperstrio an American engineering group is supervising the construction of the biggest dam in the world. It will provide more electrical horse power than any other power plant in existence.

One alights from the train at Zaparojnie at 9 p. m. and about fifteen miles from Kitchkass, the ancient Cossack village, resettled more than two centuries ago by German Mennonites at the invitation of Katherine the Great, and recently exiled when their farms were taken over into collectives by the peasants with the aid of the authorities.

47 Arches to Span River.

Eighteen thousand hands are working on the 47 concrete arches of the dam spanning the Dnieper river, which, when completed, will back up a lake more than 50 miles long, and make navigable the rapids in the river to considerably above Kiev.

From the Black sea, the Dnieper will be navigable for good sized river craft a distance of 1,320 miles. The dam is 270 miles from the sea and the granite rocks sticking up from the bed obstruct the course for a distance of 25 miles.

Two more dams will eventually be constructed lower down to furnish irrigation to 1,200,000 acres of which 450,000 acres will be used to raise cotton. The present dam will flood 40,000 acres of black earth and wipe out 12 villages, including Kitchkass next door.

On the left bank of the river opposite the dam a new industrial city is under construction. An imposing name has already been selected for it —Electropolis, whose population is estimated at 1,000,000 by 1940.

Dnieperstroi dam will enable nine generators, now being installed, to develop 810,000 horse power, 67,000 kilowatts. The dam is 111 feet high and will carry street cars and an automobile highway. A lock on the left bank will enable vessels 300 feet long to pass through.

Water will be carried through turbines 71½ feet in diameter, and spiral steel casings, now being placed, will regulate the flow of water. Four experts from Newport News are supervising the installation and several Americans are maintained as concrete inspectors. Four of the generators are being installed by the General Electric company of New York and the other five will be the product of the soviet plant at Leningrad.

Red sentinels with fixed bayonets are posted over the great works, and every one, even the American engineer in charge, must obtain a permit to visit the plant and dam. Extreme precaution is necessary since the arrest of a suspected White Russian sympathizer for dropping pebbles and sand into the turbines.

Huge granite blocks are dropped into the soft concrete to increase the strength and save on cement. A saving of 25 per cent in concrete has been effected in this way.

Cyclone drills are used to bore through completed concrete work into the foundation to make sure there are no cracks. The holes are afterwards filled with cement.

Col. Cooper Stalin's Friend.

Col. Hugh L. Cooper's company is supervising the construction of the dam for the government. Col. Cooper is one of the few foreigners who enjoy the confidence of Dictator Joseph Stalin, whom he visits every time he comes to Russia to inspect the dam's progress.

Milton T. Thompson of Montclair, N. J., is chief engineer and in charge of the work. His staff includes J. W. Johnson of Florence, Ala.; F. P. Fifer of Baltimore, L. G. Puls of New York City, H. B. Wilkinson of Washington, D. C.; George J. Vukmanic of McKeesport, Pa.; Rockwell Smith, Rushford, Minn.; James D. Flagg, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., and F. C. Shoemaker of Hamburg, N. Y.

The Newport News company, erecting the generators, has Fred Winter, George Bender, Claude Jones, and Frank Malarky. More than a score of technical experts are expected from the General Electric company next month to supervise the installation of the turbines, and the Freyn Engineering company of Chicago is sending forty men to supervise construction of the metallurgical and aluminum factories on the left bank of the Dnieper.

Dam Costs $101,500,000.

The dam will cost 305,000,000 rubles (about $101,500,000) and the Reds expect to amortize the cost over seven years when the receipts from the ship canal are expected to pay for the project with an estimated three and one-half million tons per year.

Dnieperstroi dam is located in a historic setting. More than eleven centuries ago Turcos and Pechineg Slava lived here and called their capital Kioch-Kioch, meaning pathway. Herodotus, the Greek historian, mentions the place as Krariski, and Katherine the Great in 1789 invited colonists from Prussia to settle in the region. The Mennonites came and named it Kitchkass, as near as they could get to the old pronunciation.

Cossacks then had their headquarters on an island just below the dam, called Xortitsa, and this will eventually be built up in the new city of Electropolis.

Last year 518,000 cubic meters of concrete were placed. The 1931 schedule calls for 420,000 cubic meters. The completed dam will contain about a million and a half cubic yards of concrete. It will be nearly one mile long and 111 feet high. It is shaped like a horseshoe.

I AM THROUGH WITH POLITICS FOREVER!—BRIAND

Leaves for Geneva on "Last Mission."

BY EGBERT SWENSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 14.—A little, old and broken man hunched over the lowered car window wanly smiling as a pitifully small handful of his most ardent admirers from time to time raised feeble cheers of "Vive Briand!" and the world's best known foreign minister tonight set out for what may be his last time to Geneva, the scene of his many brilliant diplomatic triumphs in the past.

Aristide Briand, who lost the presidency to Paul Doumer yesterday, intends to remain at Geneva for less than a week, just time enough to initiate his French colleagues briefly in his work, and then return to Paris, it is learned. He may retain his foreign ministry portfolio for another four weeks, until June 11, when the new president takes office and the cabinet automatically resigns. It is almost certain that he will refuse a portfolio in the new cabinet.

Yields to Pleadings.

He told a friend today that his resignation, made in the cabinet meeting this morning, will continue in force and that he submitted to the pleadings to go to Geneva only in order not to put France at a disadvantage there by quitting abruptly. He stubbornly refused to heed the entreaties of the cabinet members this morning. Then President Doumergue took him aside and insisted that his defeat in the presidential election had nothing to do with his prestige as foreign minister and that it was his duty as a Frenchman to go to Geneva.

Briand relented, but later said that his resignation was only temporarily withdrawn and that "nothing will make me change my mind about quitting public life for good."

Premier Laval will go to Geneva upon Briand's return next week to assume the foreign minister's place as chief French delegate, it is understood. He will be aided by Andre Francois Ponset, Briand's right hand man.

Reveal Briand's Trade Pact.

[Copyright; 1931; By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 14.—Aristide Briand's scheme for replacing the German Mittel-Europa dream with a comprehensive European economic pact was presented in a note this afternoon to all the nations represented on the Pan-European committee. A detailed outline obtained here tonight shows it to be the most far reaching attempt to set Europe firmly on the road to economic and financial unity that has yet been evolved.

Its scope, when considered with the limited purposes of the proposed Austro-German customs union, makes the latter project appear as almost insignificant, but its very breadth compels a certain skepticism. The plan appears to be threefold—economic, financial and agrarian. The whole economic structure of Europe would be coördinated, finally reaching a point where the tariff walls would be lowered and other drastic measures taken until Europe functioned as an economic whole.

The seventy or more industrial cartels, actively or otherwise existing in Europe, would be taken as a basis of European economic stabilization, while the financial institutions would operate in the best interests of Europe, assisting weaker states in need of money to reach a position where they would be important economic units.

Does Not Bar Russia.

The depressed agricultural states, particularly those along the Danube, would be revived by means of a carefully worked out scheme of purchases. Although the proposed participants are not actually named, it is clear that all Europe would be included. As far as can be ascertained Russia would not be barred from membership.

Reference is made to the three recent European grain conferences and the moral progress registered at these assemblies. The work of the financial committee of the league of nations in regard to an international agricultural credits bank is reviewed and it is declared that France would go farther and enter an agreement for preferential tariffs for Danube wheat.

Such tariff revisions would not violate the most favored nation clauses of existing trade treaties. European nations are warned that nothing must be done to irritate "overseas" exporters, since those nations have annual surpluses of several hundred million bushels, while the excess of the Danube states is less than 10,000,000.

Proposes One Sales Office.

To effect the sale of the European grain excesses it is proposed that a central sales office be established. This office would determine export quotas and the extent of tariff preferences.

The next portion of the note deals with the industrial clauses of the plan and recalls the wave of economic nationalism which has swept Europe and caused tariff walls to be built higher and higher. The present economic depression, it is pointed out, brings some necessity of controlling products and sales. This is where the Briand scheme would bring the system of European industrial cartels into fuller play and use them to achieve this industrial restriction and control. The cartels must be fortified, according to the Briand scheme, and board so as to include every important element in the industrial life of Europe.

Move to Lower Tariff.

With such a wide system of cartels, the opinion is expressed that the advantages gained would permit the lowering of tariff walls while still assuring the necessary protection to national industries. The note maintains that tariffs must not be abolished, since they are the only weapon against dumping.

It is admitted that a scheme of this ambitious character could not be accomplished in a brief time and, meanwhile, it is proposed to develop some immediate form of assistance for Austrian industries, which otherwise would be likely to collapse. Great accentuation is placed upon the fact that while the Austro-German scheme involves the delicate dangerous question of national frontiers, the Briand scheme offers no political dangers.

The note concludes with references to Austria's economic troubles and states that special measures must be taken to aid that country. France asks the nations which trade with Austria to study new treaties providing for a larger sale of Austrian products.

WOMAN HELD FOR ABETTING SUICIDE OF HER BROTHER

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Miss Louise Schwartz, 57, is being held in the Nassau county jail in Mineola today for the grand jury on a charge of abetting her brother, Edward, 69, to commit suicide. She is said to be the first person held on that charge in the history of the country. The charge carries the same penalty as first degree manslaughter.

Edward Schwartz, who had been suffering from a painful illness for several months, was found dead from a bullet wound in the head in his home at West Amityville. His sister admitted having delayed for a number of hours before informing the police, declaring she had feared they would not believe her brother's wound was self-inflicted. An inquest will be held Saturday.

According to the story Miss Schwartz told Capt. Emil Norse, in charge of the Nassau county homicide squad, her brother had threatened to commit suicide when she was helping to put him to bed. Later she went out for an hour, she declared, and when she came back she found him in an armchair, apparently dead.

She went to bed, but could not sleep, she said, and arose and called Dr. Theodore Reid of Amityville. He found Mr. Schwartz's body in the armchair, a pistol clasped between his knees and pointed at his head. His fingers were resting on the muzzle, Dr. Reid said, and one bullet had grazed the scalp while a second had entered the brain. The bullet of a third discharged shell was not found.

COLLECTORS PAY U. S. $317,173 FOR STAMPS IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—The stamp collectors save one branch of the postoffice department from recording a deficit.

In announcing a clearance auction sale of coins, stamps, and first flight covers for May 21 it was pointed out today at the postoffice department that the philatelic division, unlike the department generally, has always shown a profit.

SOLDIER'S JOB IS FIGHTING, SAYS GEN. CROWELL

Civilians Should Do Rest, War Policy Group Told.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Once again it was impressed upon the war policies commission today that the fighting is the soldier's and sailor's job, and the procurement, manufacture, and transportation of supplies the civilian's.

BENEDICT CROWELL.

"In war military matters should be handled by officers of the army and navy, but industrial and business matters should be handled by civilians," Brig. Gen. Benedict Crowell, assistant secretary of war during the world war, told the commission at its hearing today. "The military should state what they want and when they want it, and the duty of the civilians should be to supply them.

Should Furnish Supplies.

"The civilians should draft men into the military service, should furnish the supplies and organize the country for war. The military would receive the drafted men, train them, receive munitions, and prosecute the war under the direction of the President."

He advocated legislation which would embody the preparedness program recently laid before the commission by Bernard Baruch, war time head of the war industries board. He was specific in recommending legislation to give the President broad powers in the event of war, arguing that in past emergencies the President had been reluctant to assert authority without congressional action and so had wasted time and opportunity.

Brig. Gen. Crowell was also specific in recommending the "price freezing" policy put forward by Mr. Baruch. Under such a system the war administration would fix all commodity prices, wholesale and retail, as of a certain date, probably several months before the declaration of war. Like other witnesses, he favored an excess profits tax to equalize the war burden and prevent excessive profit taking.

Navy Favors Army Plan.

Speaking for the secretary of the navy, Capt. H. K. Cage, director of the navy department's material division, told the commission that the navy favored the army progam described yesterday by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff.

Though similar to the Baruch plan in many respects, the war department plan asks for no legislation at this time, but relies upon a system by which tentative legislation would be kept continuously up to date, so that it might be passed immediately upon the outbreak of war.

Seek to Probate Will of Former Railway Official

A petition to probate the will of Henry A. Gray, former comptroller of the Northern Pacific railroad, was filed in the Probate court of Lake county at Waukegan yesterday. Hearing on the petition was set for June 4 by Probate Judge Martin C. Decker. The estate, all in personal property and valued at $200,000, is to be divided among members of the immediate family. Mr. Gray lived at 617 Center street, Lake Bluff. He died on April 20. He served with the Northern Pacific railroad from 1897 to 1921. After his retirement he was retained in an advisory capacity.

Bishop Installs Successor in Evanston Church

Given Keys

The Rev. Dr. Charles E. McAllister, formerly of Baltimore, formally was instituted as rector of St. Luke's church, Evanston, yesterday morning by his predecessor, Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. He will be the third rector in the 44 years of the parish. Bishop Stewart was the rector for 26 years.

After the office of institution was completed Dr. McAllister was presented the keys of the church by Thomas T. Lyman, senior warden of the church. A Bible, prayer book, and book of canons of the church were delivered to the bishop by the junior warden, G. F. Slaugheter, who in turn presented them to the newly installed rector.

About 75 seminarians and clergy attended the service, in addition to a congregation which completely filled the edifice. A luncheon was served in the parish house at the close of the service, with Dr. McAllister and Bishop Stewart honor guests.

Swedish Merchant Prince Visits Tribune Tower

Joseph Sachs of Stockholm, Sweden, head of one of the largest merchandising firms of that country, paid a visit yesterday to THE TRIBUNE plant in company with Mrs. Jacob Baur, her daughter, Rosemary, and Bartle Bull, to whom her engagement has just been announced. The party viewed the city from the observatory atop Tribune Tower, then descended for an inspection of the various departments of the newspaper.

Liquor Case Witness Reveals Conditions.

A special investigator for the federal prohibition department, whose knowledge of seven languages recommended him for a job in South Chicago, testified in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court yesterday concerning the "handling" of city police by speakeasy proprietors.

Peter Petijanski, the witness, who rented a saloon to ingratiate himself into the confidence of the South Chicago booze dispensers, testified in the trial of Walenty Wilk, whose saloon at 8456 Green Bay avenue was one of eighteen raided last August. The prosecutor, Daniel Anderson, asked Petijanski what Wilk, whose saloon was next door, told him about the police.

Tells of Paying Police.

"I asked him about the police and he say they are very good," said Petijanski. "I asked him can they be handled and he said 'sure.' 'How much you pay them?' I ask, and he say, 'O, we pay according to business. When business is good, we pay more; when business is bad, not so much.'

"I ask him if he paid Dubach and Reid and he said 'sure.'" Joseph J. Dubach was the acting captain of the South Chicago district and William H. Reid is a lieutenant according to Mr. Anderson.

John Korytowski, whose saloon was at 8518 Green Bay avenue, and Joseph Korpolski, 8573 Burley avenue, both of whom pleaded guilty, also declared during the investigation that they paid Dubach and Reid for protection, Petijanski testified.

Protection Promised for $400.

Mr. Anderson said that Petijanski in the trials of some of the defendants today would testify that Alex Skiba, an investigator for the city license bureau, obtained Petijanski's license for the customary $50 and then promised to take care of his protection for $400.

"Skiba told Petijanski that for $400 he would take care of the police," said Prosecutor Anderson. "In case there was no trouble he was only to pay $200, but if there was trouble the price would be $400."

State Opera House Razed by Fire; Loss Is $100,000

KAUNAS, Lithuania, May 14.—The Lithuanian national opera house, including costumes and scenery, was destroyed by fire tonight. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

20 KILLED, 200 HURT IN CAIRO ELECTION RIOTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, May 14.—Twenty persons were killed and more than 200 injured here today in election riots. The disorders began when about 5,000 striking workmen clashed with troops and police in the center of the city.

The soldiers charged the strikers in an attempt to break up a massmeeting and the workmen turned fire hoses on them. The troops opened fire with machine guns. Among the dead were five children.

After the dead and wounded had been removed from streets, the mob formed again, marching down the street, and smashed windows and burned street cars and buses. Late tonight the troops were still making fruitless attempts to disperse the angry workers.

MEASURE COST BEFORE CANNING, ADVICE TO WIVES

Food Lists Made to Guide Economical Women.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Recommendations on how to make the family food budget reach the highest and what plan to make concerning home canning this summer were issued yesterday to those Chicagoans who seek economies but at the same time wish to maintain health standards.

The reports came from the woman's division of President Hoover's emergency committee for employment which is working with the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture.

"Be sure to measure the ultimate cost of all canning operations before launching a big program of preserving food at home," says Dr. Florence B. Dye, chief of the food utilization division of the bureau. It is predicted that the question of home canning is likely to be more important in more homes this season than it has been in war days.

Preserving Surplus Foods.

"Yet home canning must be regarded as a means of preserving surplus foods rather than a use for all the produce that back yards or corner lots will grow, the committee reports. With this same purpose in view, the workers have compiled two food lists. One designates a family food guide, based on low cost foods but consisting of items that will satisfy appetites and be healthful as well:

For every meal—Milk for children, bread for all.

Every day—Cereal in porridge or pudding. Potatoes. Tomatoes or oranges for children. A green or yellow vegetable. A fruit or additional vegetable. Milk for all.

Two to four times a week—Tomatoes for all. Dried beans and peas or peanuts. Eggs, especially for children. Lean meat, fish, or poultry, or cheese.

Guide to Conservative Wives.

The other food list has been assembled for a guide to the same class of housewives who want to make dollars buy as much nourishing food as possible. It includes suitable supplies for an entire week for a family of five—father, mother, and 2 year old child:

Beef—10 to 12 pounds.
Pork—1 to 2 pounds.
Veal—2 to 4 pounds.
Fish—6 to 14 pounds.
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter—1 to 2 pints.
Potatoes—6 to 10 pounds.
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruit—4 pints.
Other vegetables, including some of green or yellow color and inexpensive fruits—12 to 15 pounds.
Fats, such as butter, lard, salt pork, bacon—2 pounds.
Sugar and molasses—3 pounds.
Cereals—1 pound.
Tea—One-eighth pound.

Don't Deprive Family.

In explaining the advice about home canning, Dr. King points out that there is no virtue in depriving the family of its supply of fresh vegetables to have some for canning. If a definite canning program is planned, its recommendation is that the home garden should be planted to provide its surplus and still leave plenty of vegetables and fruits for daily use while they are fresh.

"It is will be necessary to buy fruits and vegetables for canning, the cost should be compared with fresh products out of season or with commercially canned goods. Produce is likely to have the best flavor and be in cheapest when it is most abundant, which is the logical time to can-ing," the efficiency experts conclude.

New Bottle Caps to Save Tempers

PULL TAB TYPE OF CAP ADOPTED FOR MILK BOTTLE

Temper and Pride Saved in Opening It.

Housewives who have wrestled with hairpins, screw drivers, knives, forks, and ice picks in their attempts to remove stubborn milk bottle caps will have their heyday beginning the first of June. Instead of prying with a secret heartfelt prayer that each poke will do the trick they will merely use a simple little pull.

Guarantee of this innovation in the delivery of Chicago's milk supply comes from the Milk Council of Greater Chicago as a result of a recent meeting, when all dealers in the Chicago region agreed to use the "pull tab" type of bottle cap.

Good News for Men.

The joys of the new cap will affect men even more than women, a household expert reports, for she finds that many housewives have become expert in the art of removing the caps. Not so, the modest young man who is trying to create an impression of strength and superiority for the benefit of his young bride.

"A man's suit fairly coaxes the cream to jump out at it. It's a crushing defeat to manhood to have the wife mopping up coat sleeves and trouser legs after a display of clumsiness," says another household efficiency veteran in complimenting the dealers on their decision to make a change in bottle cap styles.

It's So Different.

"What a sad blow it is to the poise and nonchalance of the man about town who has so adroitly opened bottles of every description, to lose his technique as a bottle opener and splash himself ungraciously when occasion demands that he open a milk bottle."

The milk dealers claim that the new device will add to the prestige of Chicago's leadership in the milk industry in America—a city which was the first to require that all milk come from tuberculin tested cows, that all milk should be pasteurized, first to adopt the new sanitary glass lined tank trucks and cars so that practically all of the milk arriving here comes in these gigantic glass bottles.

LADYBUGS USED TO SAVE APPLES FROM INSECT PARASITES

Ladybugs have often been advised: "Ladybug, ladybug, fly away home, your house is on fire, your children will burn." But few persons ever thought these insects would have anything to do with Chicago's food supply.

It appears they have, however—these dainty orange colored bugs. Out in the state of Washington in the Wenatchee apple orchards the ladybugs are being sold by the thousands to keep down the aphid population in orchards.

Persons have even gone into the business of collecting them and present quotations are $1 per thousand, based on weight. This dollar's worth is considered about sufficient to take care of an acre of trees. Gatherers of the bugs take a shovel and scoop them into sacks from the insect homes on hill tops. The sacks are placed in cold storage until the orchard operator decides to liberate his ladybug patrols.

Plan Six Standard Sizes for All Mayonnaise Jars

Members of the Mayonnaise Manufacturers' association have decided that twenty-one different sizes for containers are too many and that six would be sufficient. The association reports it is taking a lesson from other industries where it has been found that "the most innocent appearing form of price cutting is to shave off a quarter, half, or full ounce from the volume of a container. By so doing, the manufacturer obtains an unfair price advantage which he can and does use to secure his competitor's business. In time the other manufacturer discovers why he has lost some big orders and he retaliates with a still smaller container."

CERTAIN VARIETY OF RICE TO BE COOKED 25 MINS.

Merchants Tell Why This Is So.

Some varieties of rice are best when cooked but 13 minutes while other kinds need to be boiled 25 minutes, according to the Houston Merchants' exchange which handles many thousands of tons of rice each week.

Early Prolific Variety.

With the early prolific brown variety, the boiling should consume 25 minutes, it is recommended, while with the American patna and the Japan rice the time should be but 13 minutes. Edith or fortuna variety needs 20 minutes; the Arkansas prolific, 19 minutes; the Lady Wright, 18 minutes; Texas or Louisana early prolific, 17 minutes; blue rose brown, 22 minutes; blue rose, 15 minutes, and rice screenings, 12 to 14 minutes.

Housewives are advised to find out the kind of rice they buy, or if this is impossible, to make a determination by taking several kernels from the pot, mashing it on the kitchen table or between the finger and thumb. This practice is the only test to make sure when cooking mixed varieties.

They Go Into Detail.

The Houston merchants even go into details on how to cook rice properly: "We use a three quart pot to cook a cup of rice. Fill the pot with water and let it come to a rapid boil. Add the rice, which has previously been washed, and add it slowly so as not to materially stop the boiling. The water should boil actively for the correct period of time. Then the pot should be removed from the stove and the water and rice emptied into a colander. After the surplus water is shaken from the colander and after salting to taste, the rice is ready for the table."

Veal and Smoked Meats Best Buys for Week-End

In its weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Chicago meat council states: "Cuts from the shoulder and breast of veal, and smoked meats such as ham and picnics represent the most economical meat buys for the Chicago housewife, this week-end. Delicious roasts and stews can be prepared from the shoulder and breast of veal."

FORCED CHANGE FINDS NEW RULE FOR GRAPE JUICE

Volstead Law Emphasizes Utility as Food.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

Even before 1492, when Columbus is credited with having discovered a new land, the hardy Norsemen visited and became familiar with the shores of America, calling this country Vineland because of the great abundance of wild grapes they found. The intense cultivation of grapes since that time has developed an industry of vast proportions.

Despite the fact that nation wide prohibition has deprived the grape of what was formerly looked upon as its chief purpose in life, this restriction and regulation has not affected Nature, who, undaunted, continues to produce grapes in the same great quantities. Grapes and grape juice come to us now without guile, above reproach and on the merit of their own rich flavor.

Two Sides to Habit.

It is a fact that habit may become a great blinder. It is also true that a change of habit can bring about great benefits. And so with grape juice. This forced change in its rôle may add to its popularity just as it has increased its utility as a food.

And grape juice does have great value as a food with its high content of grape sugar, tartaric acid, minerals, vitamins and iron, the latter in a form more easily assimilated by the human system than is found elsewhere in nature. These great health building qualities in combination result in rich fragrance and inviting flavor that rouse the appetite, toning up the whole digestive system.

Trio of Recipes.

Grape juice made from the following recipe may be served as an appetizer in its concentrated form or diluted with ginger ale or ice water. Two other recipes which incorporate grape juice are offered in addition

GRAPE JUICE.

Sugar.

Wash and stem the grapes. Crush and add water. Steam the grapes in the top part of a double boiler until tender. Pour cooked fruit into a jelly bag and allow it to drip over night. Holding the strained juice over night permits it to settle. Then the clear top can be poured from the sediment. Add ¼ cup sugar to each quart of juice. Put into clean bottles or pint jars and set on a rack in a covered boiler or kettle. Boil 25 to 40 minutes depending upon the size of the jar. Seal jars with new jar rings and lids. Put clean corks into bottles and when cool dip in paraffin. Use the pulp of the grapes for making grape butter.

GRAPE JUICE SALAD.

Soak 2 teaspoons gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Dissolve in 2½ cups of hot grape juice and add ½ cup of sugar. Stir until sugar dissolves, then cool until it begins to set. Pour a thin layer of the jelly into a wet mold and add 1 cup of oranges cut in small pieces. Cover with a layer of jelly. Add 1 cup grapes cut in halves and seeded and then cover with the rest of the jelly. Chill, turn out and serve with mayonnaise. Garnish with cream cheese balls and whole grapes.

GRAPE WHIP.

Soak 2 tablespoons of gelatin in ½ cup cold water for 5 minutes. Stir into 1½ cups of boiling water and add ¾ cup of sugar. Stir until gelatin is dissolved and then add 2 cups of grape juice and juice of 1 lemon. Cool until it begins to set, then beat with a rotary egg beater until stiff enough to hold its shape. Pour into a wet mold and chill. Turn out and serve with whipped cream or custard sauce. Garnish with halved grapes.

Peanut Brittle—a Candy That Can Be Made in Your Kitchen

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

"Celeste Aida, forma divina . . ." rich tenor strains floating up to the seventh heaven of the Grand Opera house.

Thunder from the bleachers; Hack Wilson or the Babe; straw hats and pop. And over all the fragrance of—monkey nuts, ground nuts, goobers. But what's in a name? They're peanuts for a' that, and theirs is an unchallenged place in the scheme of things; along the road to playtime their shells are strewn profusely.

Paternity That of Bean.

Botanically speaking, the peanut is in no sense a nut, though it could be described as a vegetable with aspirations or a "leguminous" sense of humor. Its paternity is the same as that of the bean and pea, but it has shown no disposition to conform to the traditions established by its brothers and sisters. Unlike them, it sends its pods burrowing into the soil to ripen, and the fruit they produce bears few of the family traits.

And it has displayed a pronounced preference for the states south of the Mason-Dixon line, especially Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, and Alabama, where, since the reconstruction period following civil war days, it has flaunted its yellow blossoms in the sunshine in increasing numbers over one and a half million acres.

More than 900 million pounds of peanuts are produced in the United States annually, and the small export, chiefly to Canada, is more than offset by the importation of from 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 pounds each year from China and Japan.

200 Million Pounds to Europe.

A large quantity of the American crop is consumed in the form of peanut candy, peanut butter, cooking oils, oleomargarine, salted, blanched, and roasted peanuts. The hundreds of millions of pounds sent to Europe annually from Africa and Asia are converted chiefly into oils and flour at Marseilles. There is a bread baked with the flour that is well liked in Germany and France.

Peanuts, peanut butter and peanut oils lend themselves to innumerable possibilities for delectable dishes. One of the favorites is the peanut butter loaf. This recipe is recommended:

PEANUT BUTTER LOAF

½ cup peanut butter
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups mashed potatoes
½ cup milk
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mix together the peanut butter, potatoes, salt and pepper. Then add the milk and eggs, which have been well beaten. Stir thoroughly, then place the mixture in a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm, ordinarily from twenty to thirty minutes. Serve with a cream sauce.

A salad worthy of note in any cook's repertoire can be made with a small head of cabbage and a cup of chopped peanuts. Quarter the cabbage and allow it to stand in ice water until crisp. Drain and chop it. Mix in the peanuts with a pinch of salt and a dash of paprika. This salad should be served with mayonnaise dressing and garnished with strips of pimento.

PEANUT BRITTLE

1½ cups shelled peanuts
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
½ cup corn sirup
½ cup water
1½ tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Sprinkle nuts with salt and warm in oven. Put sugar, corn sirup, and water in pan, stir until it begins to boil, wash down sides with wet pastry brush, and cook to 295 degrees Fahrenheit, or until mixture is very brittle when tried in cold water. Add butter, flavoring, and nuts, and pour into shallow buttered pan. As soon as it can be handled turn the mass over and pull and stretch it out as thin as possible. Break in irregular pieces.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

I am fond of wearing washable collar and cuff sets on some of my dresses, but dislike having to rip them off and sew back each time they are laundered. I solved this problem by sewing small sized snaps all around the neck and sleeves of my dresses on the wrong side, about an inch and a half apart. The other halves of the snaps were then sewed on the collar and cuffs themselves, also on the wrong side, in a corresponding row. It was an easy matter to snap the set on and turn it back over the dress and also easy to pull it off when time for laundering.

THE HOG HAS A HEART, AND IT'S TASTY EATING!

Low in Cost and Is Full of Vitamins.

Inexpensive meats that should not be overlooked by persons trying to reduce food costs can be found in heart, liver, and kidney of beef, the liver of lamb and the liver and heart of pork. This advice comes from Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, food specialist of the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture.

In addition to being comparatively low in price, she finds that these meats usually are richer in vitamins than muscle meats and provide an "interesting variation in the diet."

Liver in small amounts three or four times a month for children and perhaps twice for adults is advocated. The home economics expert emphasizes the fact that liver often is cooked too long and at too high a temperature.

Steaming Recommended.

She suggests steaming or boiling it for young children, while older children may have it in sandwiches with the cooked meat chopped and mixed with celery or a little lemon juice and seasoned with salt.

"So much has been said recently about liver that the demand for calf liver has skyrocketed the price until it is now one of the most expensive meats on the market," Dr. Stiebeling says. "Beef liver and hog liver are rich in vitamins and minerals and are sold anywhere from 5 to 25 cents a pound, depending chiefly on locality. Hog liver is better known in the south and is usually cheaper than beef liver.

Must Be Well Cooked.

"Like all pork products the hog liver must be well cooked. Recent experiments with it at the bureau demonstrated that it is much more palatable if scalded one-half to one minute before cooking. Either kinds of liver may be fried with or without bacon; scalloped with potatoes or rice; broiled; cooked in casserole; creamed with ham and served on toast or made into a loaf with rice.

Kidney is another meat seldom used which is richer than muscle meats in the vitamins which are indispensable to normal growth, help prevent bacterial infection of the respiratory system, and prevent beriberi and pellagra.

Beef heart, owing to lack of demand, is not sold everywhere, but where it can be bought it ranges in price from 12½ to 20 cents a pound. It is good when stuffed with savory dressing and baked.

Markets Note Increase in Supply of Tomatoes

Ripe and ripening tomatoes are becoming more plentiful on display and sales counters of Chicago grocery stores. South Water market reports indicate that although Mexican growers are near the end of this season's output, truck farmers in Texas and Florida are just getting into the midst of heavy shipments for Chicago and the central states.

IF IN INDIA YOU WILL SOON LEARN TO LIKE CURRIES

Divinity School Graduate Tells All About Them.

BY META GIVEN.

...ous and electric ranges, tempera...-controlled ovens, sinks with hot ...and cold water, and a dozen other ...time and labor saving gadgets are to ...its kitchen what the most modern of ...appointments are to the downtown of...ce. Both types of equipment pro...vide an inspirational environment, or ...that is the opinion of Gladstone Kop...pole, a graduate student of the Di...vinity school at the University of ...Chicago.

Kitchens, however, have not always ...appealed to Mr. Koppole. In India, ...his native land, men have nothing to ...do with the cooking of food. Unlike ...our American men, they never enter ...the kitchen for fun, to poach an egg, ...brew a cup of coffee, pop corn, or ...make candy. But when they come to ...this country the situation is different.

Mr. Koppole says that he became ...interested in cooking shortly after he ...came to Chicago. When friends and ...associates didn't know what a curry ...was like, or how it tasted or how it ...was made, he wanted to show them. ...But he couldn't. Although he had ...eaten curries all of his life and was ...enthusiastic as to their quality, he ...was not familiar with all the details ...of preparation. Fortunately the op...portunity to acquire the necessary ...technique of preparation arrived. A ...Hindu man and his wife came to the ...university, too. And from the Hindu ...woman Mr. Koppole learned all about ...curries.

Liked by Almost Every One.

Almost every one likes curries. Mis...sionaries who have lived in India ...and tourists who have sojourned there ...for any length of time become very ...fond of them. Hindus eat curries ...twice a day—one eaten at noon made ...of vegetables, and one at night made ...of a fish, meat, or vegetables. The ...kind that is eaten, however, depends ...upon the caste and the religion of ...the family. A Mohammedan is preju...diced against pork, but eats beef, ...mutton or lamb. Hindus are preju...diced against beef because the cow ...to them is a sacred animal. Brah...manists and Buddhists believe it is ...wrong to kill any kind of animal, so ...they are vegetarians. Therefore their ...curries are always prepared from ...vegetables.

In describing curries in general, ...Mr. Koppole compares them to our ...stew. Curries are of many varieties, ...and the ingredients that go into them ...are numerous. But there are some ...ingredients that go into all of them. ...And so there are many kinds of cur...ries, and certain constituents are com...mon to all.

Three Basic Principles.

In every curry there are three ...principles present—the acid principle, ...the salt principle, and the hot prin...ciple. [So sugar ever is put into ...curry.] The balancing of these three ...principles is the most important con...sideration to be given in the making ...of curry. A meat curry needs a dif...ferent balancing than a fish or vege...table one. Fish requires certain con...diments that should not go into meats ...or vegetables. The hot principle in ...all curries is the peppers and spices. ...The acid contents of lemon or the ...tamarind. [The tamarind is a com...mon fruit of India which grows 6 to ...8 inches long, has a hard shell filled ...with an acrid sweet brownish pulp ...that contains acetic, tartaric, and ...citric acids.]

The acid principle may also be sup...plied by the vegetables themselves ...such as tomatoes and sour greens. If ...there is not quite enough salt in the ...curry the heat of the pepper and ...other spices up too much. Should ...there not be enough acid and heat the ...salt will be too evident. In spite of ...all the other good things that may ...go into curry—chicken, fish, meat, ...and vegetables—if there is not a bal...ance of these three principles the ...curry is not worth eating.

Vegetable curries are made from ...eggplant, which is one of India's com...monest vegetables, and also from ...okra, beans, potatoes, different va...rieties of greens, such as spinach, po...tatoes, and sometimes cabbage. Green ...bananas are also a base for a favorite ...curry.

Another group of foods for which ...India is famous is chutneys and ...pickles. Pickles are made hot with ...curry. And two most popular vari...eties of pickles are those made from ...the lemon and the mango. [Mangoes ...are a large fruit with a large seed in ...the center. The pulp around the seed ...is delicious, juicy, aromatic and is ...generally a yellow orange color. Many ...people consider the mango the ...choicest of fruit offerings.] Chutneys ...are made of both fruit and vegetables. ...Hot peppers, spices, cocoanut, man...goes, limes, tamarind, raisins, ginger ...and mint leaves are some of the com...mon ingredients. Chutneys are a ...most delicious appetizer. Hindus eat ...chutneys with curry just as we eat ...cranberry sauce with turkey. The ...chutney cuts down the richness of the ...curry.

Knives, forks and spoons are never ...employed in the process of eating. ...Food is conveyed to the mouth with ...the tips of the fingers and it is quite ...improper to touch the lips with the ...fingers.

Mr. Koppole's Meat Curry.

This is not a typical Hindu curry ...because a curry powder has to be ...used. It is the nearest to a genuine ...curry that can be obtained in this ...country because of a lack of some of ...the necessary ingredients.

2 lbs. lean beef
2 tbsp. butter or other fat.

Peel and cut up two onions in thin ...slices and cook to a golden brown in ...the hot butter or fat. Cut the meat ...up in inch cubes and cook with the ...onions until the meat has turned a ...white color. At this point add 2 tbsp. ...curry powder and mix well. Continue ...the cooking for about 10 minutes and ...then add 1 pint of hot water. Cook ...for half an hour and add 2 tsp. of ...salt. [Mr. Koppole believes that the ...salt added at the beginning of the ...cooking causes the meat to be hard ...and dry. Then add any vegetable ...desired—green beans, potatoes, mush...rooms or mixed vegetables—in a ...quantity sufficient to serve five or six ...persons and cook until the vegetables ...are tender. Then continue to cook ...some more, for in a real curry the ...vegetables must be cooked to a pulp. ...When the vegetables have cooked to ...this stage, add 2 sweet green peppers, ...or if preferred add them when other ...vegetables are put in. Add the liquid ...from a small can of cocoanut to the ...curry and cook 15 minutes. Use the ...kind of cocoanut that comes in a ...liquid. Put it into a cloth and squeeze ...out all the liquid. Use the cocoanut ...for cake icings, pie, etc. And last, ...add a small can of tomatoes and the ...juice of half a small lemon [1 tbsp.] ...and simmer 15 minutes. Serve while ...hot over rice.

PREPARING NATIVE DISH

When Gladstone Koppole of Gates hall, University of Chicago, prepares curry he strives for the qualities of those famous curries which he ate in his native city—Madras, India.

USE SOUR CREAM TO GIVE FLAVOR TO MANY DISHES

You Can Improve Almost Every Food with It.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

In our grandmother's day sour cream was a staple commodity of the average kitchen. Many choice and delectable foods owed their home made taste to its use.

Refrigerating facilities were not as highly developed as they are today. No doubt the plan of using soured cream in cooking and baking was originated by the thrifty housewives of early times. Besides eliminating the waste that would result from throwing "the spoiled cream" away, it proved to be a good experiment. A new and more piquant flavor was added to the dishes in which the sour cream was used.

With the advent of ice boxes and later electrical refrigerators, sour cream as a cooking ingredient almost passed into oblivion. An advancing army of modern cooking ideas involving the use of sweet cream sprang up and trampled down the old fashioned notions.

Again Plays Leading Rôle.

No successful a flavoring and shortening could not stay hidden for long. Once more it has blossomed forth and is playing a leading rôle in cookery.

Sweet cream still merits honorable mention as far as its many uses are concerned. But in baking and cooking sour cream leads the field. Instead of wringing her hands and bemoaning the fact that the cream has turned sour the resourceful and experienced cook busies herself with figuring out ways and means of making use of it in her daily cooking.

Even the dairy companies recognize the important position sour cream holds as a cooking ingredient. As a result they have prepared a special product, which is scientifically soured to the proper degree. And now if you need sour cream and don't have it on hand you can buy it from your milkman.

There are usually two kinds of cream offered on the market, light cream for coffee and cereals and heavy cream for whipping. The light cream contains from 18 to 20 per cent of butter fat, while the heavier variety contains just twice as much. They can be used interchangeably in recipes calling for sour cream.

Sour Cream Lends Flavor.

For almost every dish on the dinner menu sour cream can be used. There's the soup, the foundation of which is based on sour cream. Or the soup which is garnished with whipped sour cream. To the dressing for the salad, gravy or sauce for the meat, bread, biscuits or muffins, fried potatoes, cakes, pies, and even to fudge sour cream lends flavor.

To make cream of beet soup, cut three or four small beets in dice, pour over enough water to amply cover, and simmer until tender. Then season with salt, sugar and lemon juice [vinegar may be substituted] to make soup sweet sour, and one cup soured cream. Cook five to ten minutes longer, chill, and serve.

For the salad dressing: Combine one cup of soured cream, ¾ teaspoon salt, dash of paprika, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Beat with rotary beater until light and airy. If cream is very sour, omit the lemon juice. Sugar may be added if desired, using one to two tablespoons. Or from one to two tablespoons of mustard may be added.

No Butter, Lard or Fat.

And now for the potatoes fried in sour cream. Take the boiled potatoes, cut them up and drop them into a skillet, the bottom of which is covered with the cream, and fry. No butter, lard or other fat is needed. Onions may be added for additional flavoring.

Sour cream gravy is made with the following ingredients:

2 tablespoonfuls butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
½ cup of stock.
Pepper and salt.
1 pint sour cream.

Make a paste of the butter, flour and stock. Set it in a water bath. Let it simmer for half an hour on a low fire. Then add to it slowly one pint of sour cream. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot.

2 cups pastry flour.
2 teaspoons tartrate baking powder.
2 tablespoons sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 tablespoon water.
1 egg.

Stir Liquid Quickly.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients [baking powder, sugar and salt into mixing bowl. Mix the soda and 1 tablespoon water together and combine with egg, which has been beaten lightly, and sour cream. Stir liquid quickly into dry ingredients in 15 to 20 seconds. If speed is used in this stirring it will be possible to moisten all the flour and give it four or five extra stirs in this time and fine textured muffins will result. Time and speed of stirring are most important. Pour batter instantly into oiled muffin tins. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.]. Depending upon size of muffins, baking requires 15 to 25 minutes. Compact and fill shaped muffins result from too much stirring. Yield: Twelve medium sized muffins.

BY META GIVEN.

Mrs. K. D. writes: "The drop dumplings that I make are so tender that they fall to pieces before I can get them out of the kettle. Am I using too much fat? I use the same amount that I put into biscuits—2 tablespoons for each 2 cups of flour."

One does not need to use any fat in drop dumpling dough provided the liquid in which they are cooked has enough fat in it to give a satisfactory flavor. If the liquid happens to be one that lacks fat I prefer adding the fat to the liquid rather than to the dumplings.

I wonder if Mrs. D. is not using a soft pastry or even cake flour to mix the dumplings. An all purpose flour, the kind that is good for biscuits, muffins and pastry, or a bread flour should be used. I find the latter makes the best dumplings. A bread flour product is not quite so tender, but it is tender enough.

Desirable Dumplings.

The desirable dumpling to my mind is one that holds together, is not soaked or heavy with the liquid in which it is cooked, is light and spongy and tender, too. My recipe for making dumplings is a biscuit recipe with the fat omitted and an extra ¼ cup of milk added to make a batter of a drop biscuit consistency. Two cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 cup of milk are the proportions.

Dumplings should not be mixed until they are ready to be put into the liquid to cook. And they should not be cooked until they ready to serve. If they stand around a quarter or half an hour they are rather soft affairs, not a food to be thrilled about. But if they are served the minute they are done they are a treat to every one, especially dumplings that are made with boiled chicken. Remove the chicken or meat to a pan or platter and place it where it will keep moist and hot.

Boil About Ten Minutes.

Then bring the liquid to a rolling boil and drop in the dumplings by the tablespoonfuls. As soon as they are all in put on the cover and boil for at least ten minutes. If you have been rather generous with your measurements of batter you will need to cook the larger dumplings about twelve minutes.

Some housewives are always pushing the dumplings down beneath the surface of the boiling liquid. For me they turn out better when they are left to boil along merrily undisturbed. The one precaution that we must all take, however, is to see that there is enough liquid in the kettle. Dumplings absorb considerable liquid and there is danger of them becoming dry and sticking to the kettle. Of course, one may go to the other extreme and have too much liquid. Then there is an undesirable soupiness. Only practice will tell you when you have enough.

WINE SAUCE.

½ cup butter — 3 tbsp. nonalcoholic sherry
1 cup powdered sugar — Slight grating nutmeg

BROWNIES.

2 eggs — 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1¼ cups brown sugar — ½ cup walnut meats, cut in pieces
½ cup flour
½ tsp. vanilla

Beat the eggs slightly and add the remaining ingredients. Spread evenly in a buttered 7 inch square shallow pan and bake 20 minutes in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.]. Cut in squares.

MIDNIGHT SNACK LURES SOME ONE IN MOST HOMES

BY BETTY BROWNING.

At midnight surreptitious sounds in remote regions of the house provoke the more timorous householder to reach under the pillow for the revolver if not to call the police. That is, unless the sounds can be traced kitchenward. Such being the case, he merely turns over, with muttered imprecations over his shattered slumber, or, if he is wise, with resignation.

For that stealthy step, that creak of icebox door, clash of pan, clink of glass, grating of can opener, pop of corks merely betoken the usual prowling of the nocturnal forager. And what householder has not resigned himself to having at least one of them in his family?

Scarcely one, if the casual survey of a few idle moments can be credited. Taking four as the average size of a family, only one person in every four need be one of these midnight diners for every family to have its quota. Yet hardly a person interrogated denied that he, too, had a weakness for midnight meals. Indeed, indications were that to the accustomed three meals a day Chicagoans have added a fourth, the midnight snack.

Has Warm Defenders.

Barring the occasional rousing of an early to bed or possible nightmare entailed by rash experiments with menu planning, this fourth meal seems to have no serious drawback. On the contrary, those who know most about it defend it warmly, calling it a source of satisfaction, even a means of self-expression.

Here is a meal which is not governed by hoary tradition, which has escaped the regulations of modern science. No skillful cook prepares it, no conscientious housewife supervises its consumption. In fact, what is eaten and how it is eaten depend on the diner himself; the hour at which he eats insures him solitude, complete freedom in which to search out what foods he pleases and combine them as he wills.

Nor apparently is the habitual nighttime feaster slow to realize the possibilities of this repast. It's a case of "When the cat's away the mice will play." Men who three times a day sit down by the clock to scientifically balanced meals prove themselves insurgents around midnight. Out of range of a wife's or a mother's monitory eye they gratify dangerous tastes, indulge in forbidden delicacies, invent new and fantastic food combinations as they could not and would not do at any other time.

Women Not Proof Against It.

Women, if somewhat less inventive, are no less unconventional in their choice of a midnight repast, even those who plan their daytime meals conscientiously with an eye to calories and fashions. No wonder that most midnight feasters not only enjoy the solitude of their nocturnal snack, but insist upon it!

Herewith, under seal of secrecy, are revealed the gastronomic vagaries of some leading celebrants of the midnight feast. Indulgent housewives who read them over with an eye to supplying the wants of the midnight prowlers in their families, please note that tastes of same must be studied before ice boxes can be stocked satisfactorily. Note also that studies must be conducted without knowledge of feaster, preferably concentrating on articles tampered with next morning, since the spontaneous and independent character of his meal is what appeals to him.

Some Self-Prepared Menus.

Whole oranges or chocolate candy or both is what a noted jurist chooses for a midnight snack; a rising young lawyer likes to reconstruct an entire dinner for himself, with emphasis on such foods as meat loaf, ice cream, pie, pickles, and pastry. A playboy prefers an entire breakfast, eggs, bacon, coffee, and all, so that he won't feel called upon to rise for breakfast the next morning.

Probably his patients would be horrified if they knew that a certain stomach specialist likes to round off his day with sea food, pickles, blueberry pie, and fudge cake. Friends of a dainty youth, miss could scarcely believe that soda crackers and salami are her ideal of a perfect bedtime snack. A maiden no less charming confesses to a preference for Bermuda onions sliced on bread; cream cheese and soda crackers with tea is only second choice.

Are Really Harmless.

Yet most of these snacks turn out to be comparatively harmless, after all. One pipe smoker says he eats something principally to enhance his enjoyment of a last pipe; Swedish rye wafers, a cookie or cheese wafer, or possibly a fried egg sandwich is all he demands. A young sports writer pops corn nightly, eating it with salt but not bothering with butter.

A whole can of grapefruit is one woman's solution of the midnight menu problem; another chooses fresh grapefruit and eats it without sugar. One man with a weakness for fresh strawberries and cream likes dried beef, bread and jelly with them. Next to fruit, crackers and milk are the most widely accepted midnight food.

Cheese Recipe

If you like cheese you will be interested in trying the following spring dishes in which cheese is incorporated:

CAULIFLOWER FRITTERS.

1 head cauliflower
1 egg
1¼ cups milk
1 cup flour
1 cup grated American cheese
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 package cream cheese
½ cup milk
Salt, pepper

Separate flowerets of cauliflower and cook in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain well. Make a batter with the egg, milk, flour, grated cheese, salt and baking powder. Dip each section of cauliflower in it and drop immediately into deep hot fat. Cook until nicely browned, drain and serve with sauce made with the cream cheese, milk and seasonings cooked in a double boiler until smooth.

WEDDING FEAST PRESENTS A TASK FOR SPRING BRIDE

Here Are Menus to Help in Arranging Event.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Spring brings forth many wedding invitations. Many a maid has chosen May or June for her march to the altar and the household is buzzing with the thousand and one details to be arranged.

There are invitation lists to assemble with no one forgotten from the bridegroom's great aunt, Eliza, to the bride's former nurse. Bridesmaids and ushers must be chosen, the trousseau selected, and wedding gifts acknowledged. Then there are florists, dressmakers, jewelers, hairdressers, photographers—and last but not least, maids and caterers, for no wedding is complete without the wedding feast.

Call it breakfast up to noon, call it luncheon or tea until six, or call it supper thereafter—the menu need not vary with the time of day, for it is by taste, the social position, and the financial backing of the bride's parents that determine this important phase of getting married.

Take Burden from Family.

If a caterer is engaged he will relieve the bride and her mother of much of the burden of plans and details, for he will furnish the food, linen, chairs, napery, china, and glass as well as waiters. The bride's responsibility ends with choosing the menu and decorations. But she evades her responsibility only by the expenditure of considerable money.

Where this is impossible, especially in these days of careful balancing and budgeting, her dependence on the caterer may only be for the rental of a large coffee urn, a punch bowl, or some article not in the regular home equipment. It is reassuring to know in this case that simplicity is a better guide than more elaborate arrangements and refreshments.

Whether it shall be a buffet or a seated service is again determined by the bride and her mother, depending on the available space, the number of guests, and the number of servants. The weather permitting, a reception on the lawn or in the garden is always popular with the available space filled with small tables surrounding a space reserved for the bridal party. Even in the case of a standing service, the bridal table is set, especially in an adjoining room, with the wedding cake as its principal decoration.

Wedding Cake in History.

No wedding has ever been complete without the cake. History records that the custom began in ancient Rome.

The menus listed here may be adapted to a wedding breakfast, wedding luncheon, or wedding supper, and may be used for a seated or standing service. It is well to simplify the serving service as much as possible, however, since only one hand remains free to handle the silver, the beverage, and dishes that are passed. The menus follow:

Wedding Breakfast
Chicken and Mushroom Croquettes with Cream Sauce
Jellied Fruit Salad
Hot Baking Powder Biscuits
Frozen Custard
Fondant Frosted Cakes
Coffee

Wedding Reception
Assorted Hors d'Oeuvres
Fondant Frosted Cakes
Fruit Heart Ice Cream
Coffee
Bon Bons Nuts

Wedding Supper
Jellied Chicken Salad
Olives Salted Nuts
Pimento Cheese Sandwiches
Brown Bread Sandwiches
Raspberry Sherbet and Pistachio Ice Cream
Bridal Cake Fancy Frosted Cakes
Coffee

Some recipes that may be useful in preparing wedding feasts follow:

Rolled Sandwiches.

Cut either white or graham bread in lengthwise slices a little less than ¼ of an inch in thickness and spread with creamed butter, then with cream cheese. Cut into pieces about 3x3½ inches. Prepare tiny celery stalks with crisp tiny leaves on the end, one for each sandwich. Place celery on the edge of the bread and roll the bread around into a tight roll. The bread should not break and the blanched celery tip should extend out of the end of the sandwich.

Place the rolled sandwich in a damp napkin to hold in shape. Allow to remain in the ice box for two or three hours. Tie with baby ribbon. Instead of the celery, watercress or pieces of tender green onion may be used. Place these rolls in an upright position the center of the platter, with a variety of assorted fancy sandwiches arranged around to hold them in place.

Instead of the cream cheese filling, a combination of finely chopped pear, either fresh or canned, that has been well drained of all liquid, and cream cheese, and a little lemon juice may be spread on white bread to make tasty little rolls. A combination of cream cheese and currant jelly, spread on graham bread, is a delightful mixture for these little rolls, too.

Wedding Ring Salad.

On a bed of lettuce place a chain of orange rings, all rings connected. In center of rings place a mound of marinated rice. Decorate top of rice with julienned green peppers and with pieces of orange in form of small flower, and place half of a cherry in center. French dressing.

After peeling orange slice it from top to bottom in ¼ inch slices. Do not use center slice of orange. Take center out with a 1½ inch column cutter. Connect rings by breaking one ring and slipping two through the slit, making connected links. Use six links to make a large ring, and in center of connecting links place rice. Place two additional links of orange at either side of rice for garnish. The salad should find its place at a wedding luncheon or dinner. It is attractive and symbolic and will find favor with any bride-to-be.

According to Aulus Gellius, "The wedding ring is placed on the third finger of the left hand because of a small nerve in that particular finger which connects directly with the heart." On this supposition the Greeks as well as the Romans wore the wedding ring on that finger, and the custom, handed down through the centuries, is still in vogue today.

FLOATING HEART.

1 qt. strawberries.
1 to 1½ cups sugar depending on sourness of berries.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
½ cup finely chopped citron.
Few grains salt.
1 pt. crushed sweetened strawberries.

Chill the cream thoroughly. Wash and hull berries and force through a potato ricer. There should be two cups of pulp and juice. Add sugar, stir thoroughly, and let stand in refrigerator 20 minutes. Add lemon juice, citron and salt; then pour strawberry mixture into chilled cream. Freeze at once with a mixture of 1 part salt to 6 parts chopped ice. Turn into heart shaped molds. Pack in salt and ice 3 hours. Serve with crushed strawberries. Yield: Ten servings.

BRIDE'S CAKE.

4 teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ cup fat [half butter].
1 cup fine granulated sugar.
½ cup egg whites.
⅓ cup milk.
1 teaspoon lemon extract.
½ teaspoon almond extract.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift twice with baking powder and salt. Cream fat until plastic, then add sugar gradually and continue creaming until white and smooth. Add unbeaten egg whites until mixture has the appearance of softened marshmallow. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately, then the flavoring. Bake in square layer cake tins lined with paraffin paper in a moderate oven [350 to 375 degrees F.]. About 30 minutes is required for baking. Put layers together with a red tart jelly—currant or plum. Cut into small triangles, glaze, and ice with melted fondant.

METALIZED MILK IS PROVING OF BENEFIT IN CURE OF ANEMIA

Hope for anemia sufferers through the use of "metalized milk" is one of the latest food predictions, based on work of J. L. McGhee of Emory university, Georgia. First progress of the milk treatment in anemia cases was announced about a year ago.

In one experiment with 140 mill workers in a Georgia cotton gin it was reported recently that all but 10 were found to have an increase in the amount of hemoglobin, or red corpuscles in the blood.

The "metalized milk" is raw or unpasteurized milk in which an alloy of copper and iron has been soaked until small quantities of the metal have been dissolved.

Industry's Ills Also Are Felt in the Hospitals

The formation by individual hospitals of associations whose chief purpose would be to provide an endowment, with sufficient income to meet expenses in times of depression, was hailed as an advisable plan yesterday. It was approved by hospital heads attending the meeting of the Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin hospital associations at the Hotel Sherman.

After the Rev. Herman L. Fritschel, superintendent of Milwaukee hospital, had declared that hospitals throughout the country are running short of funds, Dr. Charles A. Wordell, superintendent of St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, pointed to the recent plan adopted at St. Luke's as an answer to such financial distress.

"While efforts to secure additions to hospital endowments are not practical, because of business conditions during the last few months, it is possible for a hospital to get a fund equivalent to the income of an endowment of $500,000 through the organization of a hospital association," Dr. Wordell explained.

"According to the plan put into practice at St. Luke's, the association invites the assistance of charitable residents of a community through annual contributions in the form of membership dues," Dr. Wordell said. "St. Luke's organized an association on the basis of the constantly increasing demands for free treatment made upon the hospital by thousands of Chicago families urgently in need of medical attention and hospital care. Membership was divided into five classes in order that all might participate in a manner consistent with their means, the memberships ranging from annual dues of $10 to a life membership of $1,000."

Doctors Consider Ways to Cut Cost of Care to Patients.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—The problem of the doctor bill on the family budget today brought to the national capital fifty leaders in the fields of medicine, dentistry, public health and the social sciences.

At breakfast meetings tomorrow they will begin a three day deliberation on the cost of medical care, with Interior Secretary Wilbur, who also is a physician, presiding.

For three and a half years the elaborate mechanism of the committee on the costs of medical care, organized with a five year endowment, has been fact finding. Its inquiry, including more than thirty intensive studies, has been the most complete of its kind ever undertaken.

The meeting tomorrow will be the first for the purpose of formulating conclusions from the vast store of data.

The experts will discuss "various proposals which appear to point the way toward the provision of more adequate medical service, preventive and curative, for all of the people at costs within their means," the committee headquarters announced.

Enumerated among the probable topics of discussion were:

Paying doctor's bills by installments, contract medicine or paying for physicians' care by the year, group medicine as is now carried on by many industries and universities, and covering of the medical budget by insurance.

It has been shown that:

The average school child loses one week in each school year because of illness.

There are 130 million disabling illnesses in the United States each year.

Mother Threatens Nervous Breakdown If Daughter Leaves

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My problem is one that can only be settled by myself, I suppose. But a word of encouragement would help loads. I am 25, living alone with my mother, who is 50. She owns her home, where we live, and she is working and making enough to clothe and feed herself. As I am the only daughter, she seems to feel that when I marry it is my place to live on with her. I have only one brother, who is married.

"I believe implicity in the old saying about one house being large enough for one family only! I know if I should live at home my mother would criticize my husband. She would tell him and me how to spend our money, when and where to come and go, etc. I love her as much as any one loves her mother, but after marriage one's husband must come first, mustn't he?

"How can I tell mother that I don't want to live on after marriage with her, without shocking her to a nervous breakdown? How can I make her understand that it is the best way?—UPSET."

If mother is one of the kind who threatens nervous breakdowns, she is a difficult one to handle. Nevertheless, it is better that she have it early and over with. That may sound hard boiled, but it isn't, because the threatening kind of parent just doesn't get the nervous breakdowns. Their nerves are to well steeled to succumb quickly!

I don't mean to be hard toward parents, because I do think they are deserving of consideration, always—but not to the point of interfering with the chances of a couple of newlyweds working out their own salvation. It is not a fair request to make and, because it isn't fair, or considerate, or praiseworthy, mother's temporary feelings will just have to be ignored, for the time being. The more domineering she is, the safer it is to set up housekeeping away from her abode.

The best way to go about acquainting your mother of your desires is to tell her frankly that it is a home of your own you want, just as she wanted it, some twenty-five years before.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

G. V.: CORRECT POSTURE rules may be reduced to two. See that your feet point straight ahead, or nearly so, and that lightness of step is effected. And hold up your chest.

Cold Shower in the Morning Will Start Day Right

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you've been house or apartment hunting you appreciate what is meant by the extraordinary cleanliness facilities this land of ours offers its subjects. Granted you didn't get entirely cleaned out in the market, or that house in the suburbs is considered as a turnover project, a one bath house is just snubbed as a poor investment. There must be two, at least, and one shower.

Having recently indulged in an annual spring suburban house hunting hegira, I was again impressed with the warm hearted tub and shower privileges that are our happy lot, if not Hulda's, the bathrooms' caretaker. Take the shower, particularly. The tubs, of course, are accepted as are the windows or the doors. Now, I know women, except for a small minority, prefer to do their splashing and their bathroom singing sitting down. Maybe that's because they can revel in the bath salts air to more happy advantage. Maybe it's just habit.

Any way, it would be just a grand thing if more women would get the shower habit in their early morning start on a good day. Let them revel in the scented waters at night or in the morning, but have the water come cold as can be borne before the final rub and dressing. The warm tub bath doesn't do so much for the circulation. Except for keeping the surface clean you can't hand it many more beauty honors.

But that cold spray, hitting you like hailstones, surely does do something to you to stir your blood up! Granted there are women who simply can't take a cold tub and shouldn't, according to the doctor's orders, still there are thousands who could and would find their day downtown just twice as freshly ended did they get this energizing, exhilarating morning habit.

And I suggest it, especially now, to busy women, who are all more or less victims of a hectic age, with nerves keyed up, and for whom there is just nothing quite so normalizing as the cold water treatment. Chiefly, too, among its merits is its prevention against unpleasant perspiration odors.

81 Years of Continuous Gas Service in Chicago

GAS service was turned on for the first time in Chicago on September 4, 1850. There were 125 gas customers for the new company—also 99 street lamps and the city's one public building to be lighted by gas. Since that evening 81 years ago, gas service has continued without interruption in Chicago. Even during the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 the service from the north side plant was maintained through the heroic efforts of company employes in saving it from the flames.

Eighty-one years have brought great changes. The little 4-mile gas main of 1850 has grown into a 3,735-mile distributing system. The total output of gas for that first year of Chicago gas service, (8,030,000 cu. ft.) was not as much as the one-hour consumption now between five and six o'clock every evening. Constant research and experiment fostered by the management, plus the conscientious efforts of 3,500 employes, have brought improvements in service that have given Chicago a gas service unexcelled anywhere in the world.

This service has been a factor in the growth and development of Chicago and our aim is to make it an increasingly potent factor.

War in South Is Background of These Stories

One Hero Avenges His Inferiority Complex.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"MANY THOUSANDS GONE" (Scribners) is a collection of five long short stories by John Peale Bishop, whose chief interest lies in the fact that the story which gives the title to the book won the $5,000 long short story contest conducted by Scribner's Magazine. The five stories form a sequence of the south from 1852 to 1900.

JOHN PEALE BISHOP. (Drawn by Boris Artzybasheff.)

"Many Thousands Gone" and two other stories are tales of the active days of the civil war. The title story of the book is a panoramic picture of the occupation of a southern town by the northern army, with the villain of the town the moving force against the more static background of the troops and their adherents.

It is an interesting technical picture, and, to me at least, that is all it is. There is little of the intensity of war, strangely little, somehow. There is very fine writing, an atmosphere of the lazy south, and no semblance of real emotion. It is a skillful story, without being in any sense a great one. The theory of the prize award was, as I remember, to find perhaps another American classic to stand beside Edith Wharton's "Ethan Frome" and Willa Cather's "A Lost Lady." Certainly "Many Thousands Gone" has no place in that classic company.

"The Cellar," another of the five stories, has a great deal more of emotion in it than has the prize winning piece. It is an intense record of a lifetime of suppression culminating in an orgy of emotion which left its hero feeling that he had fought in the war, although all that he had done was to kill single-handed five northerners in a dark cellar or on the stairs as they emerged from it.

Mr. Bishop has caught, in "The Cellar," the real emotional tensity of a life. The hero had a twin brother who died when they were thirteen. The mother always had outspokenly regretted that the fine brother was taken and the good-for-nothing was left. When the civil war came he was the only person to take care of his mother and he stayed at home, paying a substitute to fight for him. He devoted himself to her while his brothers and all of his other relatives fought the war with dash and spirit. Finally when his great moment came, as calmly as if he were being ordered to fire a musket by his commanding officer, he swung his ax and killed his mother. "The Cellar" is a work of real feeling.

"The Corpse in the House" is a tale of 1812, just another short story, I should say, well enough written, but with no special importance in the history of American literature. It tells of a love grown cold with too long waiting.

"Young Death and Desire," a story of 1812, is exactly what its title suggests. It lacks, to me at least, the sense of any real emotional portrayal.

"If Only," which covers a period between 1847 and 1906, is about two old maids and a demented black servant who is so superb a cook and gardener and housemaid and all round manager (in one) that they "would keep him, as it were a dear obsession, till they were dead." There is about that story more of the quality of being alive than there is about the others, except "The Cellar."

Published today are:

"The Sun in His Own House," by Warrene Piper (Houghton Mifflin), is about, as the astrologers say, "a man of very active and vital influence on those surrounding him." The hero has been the head of his own family since he was twelve, and his triumphs over "those surrounding him" have been vast.

"A Fighting Man of Mars," by Edgar Rice Burroughs (Metropolitan), who turns back to the field of his first inspiration after a series of "Tarzan" books. The first novel Mr. Burroughs wrote was "A Princess of Mars." They have (according to this book) giant air cruisers and flying battleships of terrific death-dealing powers in Mars.

"That Royal Lover," by Konrad Bercovici (Brewer & Warren), is the whole story of Queen Marie, her husband, King Ferdinand and their son Carol, by a native of Rumania. The tale as it unrolls is so terrible and so ridiculous that you wonder that it should be fact of our day and age.

"Behind the Scenes with Edwin Booth," by Katherine Goodale (Kitty Mclony) (Houghton Mifflin), elicits such enthusiasm from Minnie Maddern Fiske that she says, "I should like to put this book in the hands of every actor, young or seasoned, in the theater." The author as a young girl was a member of the great Booth's company and she sets down meticulously (and delightfully) the record of a forty weeks' tour playing Hamlet, Othello, and repertory, in the season of 1886-'87.

"The Family Sees France," by Eustace L. Adams (Brewer & Warren), isn't a guidebook to museums and monuments and works of art and treasures and palaces, but to all of the things that you want to know when you take your family abroad. It is written for group travelers—and done so gayly that it's fun to read.

"Born in Captivity," by Barbara Starke (Bobbs Merrill), is the scrupulously honest narrative of a girl who hitch-hiked alone across the United States and back—the first story of the open road by a woman who really took it.

"Eastward Ho," by Foster Rhea Dulles (Houghton Mifflin), tells of the English merchant adventurers of the 16th and 17th centuries who turned their ships toward the ancient kingdoms of the east.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THERE'S A HOT IDEA

WHAT'S THIS YOU CUT OUT OF THE PAPER, PHYLLIS!
YOU WOULD WANT TO KNOW THAT. JUST A LITTLE PARAGRAPH ABOUT ONE OF MY OLD CLASSMATES. IT'S THERE ON THE TABLE.
I SEE. ON THE OTHER SIDE IS A WANT-AD ABOUT A COTTAGE AND A LOT ON THE SHORE OF A LAKE FOR SALE CHEAP.
GOLLY, I'VE BEEN THINKING ABOUT SOMETHING OF THAT KIND FOR THIS SUMMER. IF IT'S NEAR ENOUGH TO DRIVE BACK AND FORTH IT WOULD BE GREAT.
I'M GOING TO PHONE HIM FROM THE CIGAR STORE. WOULDN'T IT BE SWELL IF I COULD GET IT READY AND GIVE IT TO PHYLLIS FOR HER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IN JUNE!

German Singing Film Tends to Prove Theory.

"DIE PRIVATSEKRETAERIN."

"Die Privatsekretaerin' is comedy—

And a merry 'un!

Produced by European Sound and Talking Pictures.
Directed by Wilhelm Thiele.
Presented at the Punch and Judy theater.

THE CAST.

Vilma Foerster.....Renate Mueller
Bankdirektor Arval.....Hermann Thimig
Bankdiener Hasel .....Felix Bressart
Personalchef Klapper ....Ludwig Stoessel
Pensionsmutter .....Gertrud Wolle

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Well, Jubilee-ers, there's more fun for you over at the Punch and Judy theater, where "The Privatsekretaerin," a German comedy with music, is in full swing.

This production is full of laughter and salted with song. So revealing is the pantomime that you'll enjoy yourselves and comprehend the story as a whole even though you don't understand a word of German. It goes without saying, therefore, that direction and acting must be extraordinarily adept.

Renate Mueller in the title rôle is a delightful creature. Her work is clever, facile, polished. She's an ecstatic person whose laughter demands and gets an answering twinkle from you. Hermann Thimig is most pleasing in the romantic male lead and Felix Bressart proves himself a comedian of parts. The piece is excellently photographed and recorded and, judging from the constant laughter of those who understand them, the lines must be plenty funny.

You might glance at your program before you enter the darkened theater. It contains a story synopsis in English. This informs you that Little Vilma comes to Berlin with only twenty marks in her pocket. She secures employment in a bank and it isn't long before her path and that of the powerful bank director, Arval, merge. Vilma doesn't know, however, that the nice man who remains to help her with her work one evening when she's laboring overtime is a personage. No. And by her ignorance hangs the rest of the tale.

BEG YOUR PARDON

THE TRIBUNE erroneously stated that a saloon at 1509 North Clark street, named in a temporary dry law injunction, was partly owned by the Chicago Home Missionary and Church Extension society of the Methodist Episcopal church. The property is owned jointly by the Board of Foreign Missions and the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, both of the Methodist Episcopal church.

A story describing a gang murder on May 13 it is stated that the body of a man was thrown from an automobile into Jaranowski's woods near 157th street and Torrence avenue. This was in error. The woods are in the forest preserve and do not belong to John W. Jaranowski, mayor of Calumet City.

National Patriotic Group Will Meet on Monday

The National Patriotic association has arranged for a bridge party and midsummer style show to be given Monday afternoon in Hartman's auditorium, Adams street and Wabash avenue, for the benefit of the athletic fund of the citizens' military training camp at Fort Sheridan. Col. James E. White, R. O. A., is chairman, and Mrs. Charles Wendell Holmes is president of the association.

POPE'S LABOR SERMON WILL BE BROADCAST TODAY FROM VATICAN

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

ROME, May 14.—The fortieth anniversary of "Rerum Novarum," Pope Leo XIII.'s famous encyclical which laid the foundations of the holy see's policy in all matters affecting labor, was solemnly celebrated today in the presence of delegations of working men from many countries. The celebrations will continue tomorrow. The pope will say mass tomorrow and his sermon will be broadcast by the Vatican wireless station.

Today's celebrations began with a mass in St. John the Lateran where Leo XIII. is buried. After the mass wreaths were laid on Leo XIII.'s tomb and a tablet was unveiled on a monument dedicated to the Christian working man in the piazza behind the baptistry.

The United States was represented by Msgr. Edwin V. Chara, bishop of Great Falls, Mont., who, after stating that Pope Leo's encyclical exercised a profound influence during the American labor crisis, continued: "Some years ago many believed that a new era had come wherein prosperity was universally assured and poverty was banished by the progress of industry. The world must again learn the painful lesson that forgetfulness of moral principles renders industry a tyrannical master for the multitude. A new era will only be introduced when industry accepts the principles of justice and charity proclaimed by Leo XIII. and listens with deference to the authoritative voice of the holy pontiff."

Aimee Semple McPherson, accompanied by her son Ralph, her daughter Roberta, the latter's husband, William Bowyan, and Charles Walkum, a former vaudeville actor who is going to help the evangelist make an operetta called "Noah's Ark," gave Chicago a few hours of her time yesterday.

Ma Kennedy, Mrs. McPherson's mother, was not in the family party. In fact, Mrs. McPherson hadn't even heard that her mother is about to write a book on the Carmel-by-the-Sea affairs of the McPherson-Kennedy families.

"Really," observed Mrs. McPherson with surprise, "is mother, dear, writing a book?"

Mrs. McPherson appeared several years younger than during her last visit here, and was quite enthusiastic over her world tour which she described as "inspiring." After the production of "Noah's Ark," at Angelus temple, Los Angeles, Mrs. McPherson expects to do two more, called "Nahum the Leper" and "Saul of Tarsus."

Fred Jagel Wins Triumph at Ann Arbor

He Will Be Heard in Ravinia Operas.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan musical festival is exceptionally interesting to a Chicagoan this year. For it is giving an advance view of a number of artists who are to be heard later in Chicago. This is therefore the best possible time to tell that when Frederick Jagel begins to appear with the Ravinia Opera company next month another good reason for attendance will be provided. Lily Pons last night, Jagel tonight, both are forerunners of pleasant times in Chicago.

This was the second night of the festival. There was presented Gabriel Pierné's oratorio, "St. Francis of Assisi." Mr. Jagel sang the rôle of the Italian saint who healed the afflicted, preached to the birds, received the stigmata, and composed the canticle to the sun.

He is a first class singer and a first class artist, with a voice that does not hesitate at the highest note any composer may care to write for him, also that keeps its rich, persuasive character at any point of this wide range. No doubt at Ravinia he will sing in various languages that are not ours. Tonight he sang in excellent English, pronouncing it like an educated American and projecting it as an artistic singer should. Incidentally I am told that he comes from Brooklyn.

The oratorio calls for many solo parts in addition to the title rôle. Among the good singers of these parts were Hilda Burke, soprano, known to those who have been going to the Civic Opera company, and Eleanor Reynolds, contralto, a distinct addition to the nation's contralto wing. There was other fine singing by Nelson Eddy, baritone, and Fred Patton, bass.

The chorus sections were sung by the university choral union, a body of several hundred, apparently all students, and certainly well trained singers, ever responsive to the baton of their conductor, Earl V. Moore, the musical director of the festival. This oratorio was given several years ago at another of the Ann Arbor festivals and seems to have made such an impression that it was repeated this year. There was a good reason, for tonight's performance showed how many points of fine singing are involved. It is evident that Conductor Moore and his forces have worked faithfully and well in rehearsals.

LILAC DAY IS HERE TO BRING CHEER TO THE POOR AND SICK

Club women throughout the Chicago suburban areas were cooperating yesterday with chairmen of the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild in asking thousands of owners of lilac bushes and other spring flowers to cut blooms last night or early today and carry them to five railroad stations. From those points the blooms will be distributed to institutions in the third annual CHICAGO TRIBUNE lilac giving time.

Booths will be open this morning and Saturday morning in the Union station. There Mrs. Dean M. Workman of La Grange will be in charge; the Aurora-Elgin station, Mrs. B. B. Cooley of Libertyville; La Salle street station, Mrs. H. E. Wulfing, Beverly Hills; Illinois Central Randolph street station, Mrs. T. E. Moritz, Kenilworth; and the North Western station, Mrs. Frank W. Kingsley of Evanston, chairman.

Tomorrow the village of Lombard will hold its annual lilac festival. Through a vagary of the weather, the blooms which usually spread their fragrance over the old Col. Plum estate will not be in full spread, but the festival will be held. Visitors who plan to enjoy the flowers rather than the pageantry have been advised to wait until about Wednesday, May 20, for full bloom of the Lombard display.

Hospital and settlement workers were busy yesterday collecting vases and baskets in anticipation of the boquets of color and spring perfume that will invade corridors and wards today and tomorrow. Settlement workers were advising children that they should be on hand to receive what will be for many of them their first colorful glimpse of springtime.

Gold Star Mothers Greeted in Paris by French, Yankees

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 14.—Courteous and cordial French officialdom and spruce United States army officers united this afternoon to welcome to Paris the year's contingent of gold star mothers on a pilgrimage to their sons' graves in France.

They came from 19 Atlantic, southern, and midwest states. The 125 women were escorted through the Invalides station.

Gaston Gerard, minister of public works, greeted Mrs. Mary L. Bentley of Cincinnati as representative of the group. Taking a huge bouquet of roses and lilies bound in the colors of France from the arms of a French infantryman, he handed them to her. He said to the women:

"In the name of France I welcome you to the soil where your sons died."

THE STAGE

GALE SONDERGARD has been selected as the actress to succeed Eva Le Gallienne in the leading rôle of "Alison's House," the Pulitzer prize play, during its engagement on Broadway. She will join the company next Monday night, and at the same time Janet Young will replace Josephine Hutchinson. The other members of Miss Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory company will continue in their parts. The New York dramatic critics, having inspected "Alison's House" a second time, are insisting with unanimity that they disagree with the award.

Miss Le Gallienne's departure from the play that has made Broadway aware of the value of her Civic Repertory activities in lower Manhattan will mark the beginning of a year's rest for her. She will return to her theater on 14th street in the fall of 1932, when she intends to stage "L'Aiglon," "Macbeth," a Greek tragedy, a dramatization of "Alice in Wonderland," and two plays by new writers.

Paul Robeson, the American Negro actor and singer, is now appearing at the Ambassador theater, London, in Eugene O'Neill's "The Hairy Ape." He has the rôle originated by the late Louis Wolheim. A cablegram to the New York Times compares his interpretation with Wolheim's as follows:

"In spite of the giant force suggested by his powerful physique and stirring voice, Robeson's stoker seemed a far more pathetic character than Wolheim's and was endowed with less ferocity."

Sidney Morgan, a veteran of the Irish Players, who toured America fifteen years ago or more, is a member of Robeson's company.

The Erlanger amusement enterprises make official announcement that the often mentioned, often delayed return of Maude Adams to the stage is still a possibility. John D. Williams, a producer associated with this organization, is working on this project with faith in its ultimate realization.

Quoted from an Associated Press dispatch that described a recent "royal command" vaudeville performance in London:

"The king and queen showed great amusement at the antics of Rich Hayes, British juggler, and Alexander and Mose, black-face comedians. But when Al Trahan [American comic] began to perform at the piano, finally involving himself in chewing gum which stuck his fingers to the keys and himself to the stool, the royal pair showed their greatest delight."

The new plays of the coming week on the New York stage will be: "Old Man Murphy," by Patrick Kearney, with Arthur Sinclair and Maire O'Neill, veterans of the Abbey of Dublin, as stars; "Pinafore," with Fay Templeton to illustrate the old Gilbert and Sullivan tradition, for a two weeks' revival; "The Honor Code," a melodrama by Mark Linder; "Crazy Quilt," a summer revue; and "A Modern Virgin," a comedy by Elmer Harris, author of "Young Sinners." A return engagement of "Death Takes a Holiday," starring Philip Merivale, is also announced.

The Chicago stage will have nothing new to offer next week. The next première in sight will be that of "He," at the Illinois theater May 25. This will be the third and last offering of the Theater Guild's spring season. The play is an adaptation from the French of Alfred Savoir.

Everett Cheatham and Tex Ritter, singing cowboys of "Green Grow the Lilacs," at the Illinois theater, have signed a contract with the National Broadcasting company for twenty-six weeks of radio service. They will exploit their repertory of prairie ballads, which runs to 150 numbers. Cheatham is the banjoist buckaroo who leads the ranch hand chorus in such ditties as "Blood on the Saddle."

CORNELL FACULTY, BY 81 TO 38, VOTES OUT FORCED ARMY DRILL

Ithaca, N. Y., May 14.—(AP)—The faculty of Cornell university today announced it had voted 81 to 38 in favor of discontinuing compulsory military training.

The resolution, adopted yesterday, will go to the board of trustees for action in June. The R. O. T. C. would be made elective, under the resolution. A change in the compulsory feature would affect nearly 2,000 students, first and second year men, it was pointed out on the campus.

Coincident with the announcement, the Tompkins County Ministerial association announced a resolution to the same effect. It said: "Firmly believing that a vital moral issue is involved, the Tompkins County Ministerial association unanimously voices its conviction that compulsory military training in our universities is undesirable."

Pioneers See Old Chicago, Prairie Town

Birthday Magic Waves Away the Metropolis.

Early Chicago was recalled at a joint birthday party given six Chicago pioneers and veteran members of the Central Manufacturing District club in the clubrooms at 1110 West 35th street yesterday. The guests of honor were introduced by B. J. Coyle, president of the club, who told of their work in building Chicago.

The pioneers are John D. Haggard, 84 years old. He served with the 134th Illinois Volunteer Infantry in the civil war; E. E. Maxwell, [illegible] years old, president of S. A. Maxwell & Co.; Maj. L. C. Gage, 79 years old, of the Gage Structural Steel company; Sigmund Silberman, 80 years old, chairman of the board of S. Silberman & Sons; W. D. Simmons, 76 years old, of the Viscosity Oil company, and former Congressman E. W. Sproul, 74 years old.

"When I was born, in 1847," Mr. Haggard said, "Chicago had a population of 16,000. I have watched it grow to a metropolis of nearly 4,000,000. When I was twelve years old I heard Lincoln, not then President, speak before the old Moody mission. I remember the incident vividly and can see him now walking in unpretentiously, wearing a large felt hat and hear his simple and compelling delivery. I did not see him again until he lay in state in the old court house after his assassination.

"The quaint Chicago of my day has given way to a mighty city. To me that entire contrast is marked by the old Clark street bridge. In my day the chain drawn, floating bridge on hinges was the only means of crossing the river except by the ferry, which plied between Rush street and Michigan avenue.

"I compare that bridge and the shore line of that day, marked by a lighthouse, set at the south entrance to the harbor, with the boundary of today. This to me typifies the growth of the city from a struggling prairie town to a might center of commerce and industry."

Mr. Silberman, who was born in Germany, told of life in middle Illinois towns in the late '70s and the development of the railroads with their struggle with the planked roads for business. Mr. Maxwell told of the rebuilding of Chicago after the great fire and the undaunted spirit of homeless citizens joining in the work.

Maj. Gage, who was born in Vermont, followed his father in railroad development, coming to Chicago in 1858. He traced the development of the loop from rows of three story stone buildings to the first skyscraper to the tall buildings of today.

Former Congressman Sproul, known as an ardent dry, told of building the first brewery in the Central Manufacturing district. He confined his contribution to the history of that district. Mr. Simmons and Mr. Maxwell completed the historical review. Each of the veterans was presented with a silver cup by the club.

Few Chicagoland Students Are Tapped for Yale's Societies

New Haven, Conn., May 14.—(AP)—Sixty members of the junior class at Yale college today were chosen as members of four senior societies—Skull and Bones, Scroll and Key, Wolfshead, and Elihu club—by members of the senior class in the annual Tap day exercises on the Yale campus. Each fraternity selected 15 men. Thirteen men refused elections.

Richard Storrs Childs of Norfolk, Conn., was chosen a member of the Scroll and Key, although a recent article in "The Harkness Hoot," a new Yale publication, he condemned senior societies.

Herster Barres of Bethlehem, Pa., end on the football team for two years and a member of the track team, was given what is generally considered the highest honor by being the last man tapped for Skull and Bones.

Wolfshead—Etheredge Currie, Detroit.

Elihu club—None.

Those rejecting Scroll and Key were: Samuel Goode Williams, James Paul Mills, and William Van Derver Hodges Jr.

Those refusing election to Wolfshead were: Samuel Goode Williams and James Paul Mills.

Those rejecting the Elihu club were: Clarence Boyd Jones, Daniel Nelson Adams, Ford Bowman Draper, and John Mitchell Brodie.

Constantino Vitello Wins Reward from Italy's King

Constantino Vitello, president of the Italo American National union, fraternal beneficiary society, has been awarded the cross of cavalier of the Crown of Italy by King Victor Emmanuel II. That was announced yesterday. The decoration was given Mr. Vitello on recommendation of Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, consul general for Italy in Chicago.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. She and her mother lived in a remote section of Paris. Clare attended a school play one evening and was brought home by friends. Her mother heard the car stop in front of the house and Clare's friends bidding her good night, but when she opened the door Clare had vanished.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of great charm but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou, who has ruled Iris' life until recently, when Iris found employment with Helen Roderick, an American woman.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood was about to depart on an eight months' trip to Africa when Clare disappeared, and he has postponed his trip to help Iris.

When the comtesse learns of her niece's disappearance she insists that Iris come to her home to stay until Clare is found. Iris learns when she arrives at her aunt's that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character and has taken charge of the search for Clare. He has been seeing Clare, unknown to her mother, for some time past, and knows more about the child's life and her friends than Iris. The comtesse is bent on reconciling the estranged couple.

Alan calls on Helen Roderick and learns that she and Marcel are friends, unknown to Iris. When Alan calls on Iris the comtesse refuses to allow him to see her. As he leaves the house a servant approaches him and directs him to enter a door to his left. Iris had seen him and sent for him. She tells him that her aunt is doing all in her power to help her and that she must not offend her. They plan to meet at Helen Roderick's. Alan calls at Helen's and meets Marcel there. Alan recalls having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily. He had also seen him at the casino bar, hobnobbing with a coarse looking couple. Alan calls on the inspector assigned to the De Bertincourt case.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

THE POSSIBILITIES.

Charnwood was silent, pondering this information.

"What about the garden itself? Did you find anything there?" he asked, clutching at a last hope.

"I was coming to that. You know the largest clump of laurels, monsieur, in the upper corner?"

Charnwood felt an expectant thrill.

"Between the wall and the doorstep? Certainly."

"Woman's!" exclaimed Charnwood, alert with interest.

"They were too small for a man's, and the wrong shape, besides being run over—the right on the inside of the foot, the left on the outer edge—as is usual with women's heels. Unless we chose to imagine a man dressed as a woman, we have the picture of a fairly large, heavily built female, crouching there in a squatting position for a considerable length of time, for although the ground was almost bone dry, the marks were quite distinct."

"But are you sure they were not made some time previous to Tuesday night?"

"Not long previously, for there was a slight shower during the morning, sufficient to wash away any such signs, and it was not likely any one would hide there in broad daylight. It was this recent rain which gave just enough plasticity to the soil to retain the heel prints. But that is not all. Along the edge of the path, where the grass had receded, I discovered a number of toe marks, pointed ones, all leading toward the gate.

"Toe marks!"

"Yes, they are suggestive. If a person anxious not to be heard crept up behind mademoiselle, it was natural to walk on tiptoe."

"Yes, it was a hair—coarse, curling, pure white—about 3 inches long."

Here at last was a strong support for the abduction theory. Charnwood wondered if Iris had been told.

"Anything else?" he inquired expectantly.

"Yes, one thing more." As he spoke the inspector took from his pocket a small cardboard box containing a tiny roll of tissue paper. "I found this, caught on the laurels, about three feet from the ground. Come nearer the light, monsieur—but don't touch, I beg of you!"

He spread the paper gently open on the palm of his hand. At first Charnwood could see nothing at all, but he put on the horn rimmed spectacles he kept for reading and bent closer. Next he uttered an exclamation of surprise.

"A hair?"

Yes, it was a hair—coarse, curling, pure white—about three inches long.

"No, it is not much, is it?" remarked the Frenchman, reading his companion's disappointment. "A windy day and no end of odds and ends get blown about. Still, I found it in a protected position, at just the height to suggest that it was torn from the head of a stooping person."

"But it seems too coarse and stiff for human hair—more like horse hair."

"Yes, that much you can see with the naked eye, monsieur, but if you had it under a microscope you would detect something more. It is thickly coated with white powder."

"Powder!"

"Exactly. I am inclined to believe it comes from a powdered wig, although I am not sure it is horse hair. I am sending it to be examined by experts."

"A wig, I suppose, indicates a disguise. But for what purpose?"

"There are two ready suppositions to hand. One, that the person was already known to mademoiselle and anxious to escape recognition; the other, that while a stranger, it was important not to be identified subsequently by any description the victim could furnish."

"But your own opinion?"

"One must guard against hanging elaborate theories on a single hair," replied Maupin, shaking his head and folding up the tissue paper. "However, taking this in conjunction with the footprints, I am almost convinced our case will turn out to mean abduction, though how contrived I am at a loss to say."

"Why not elopement—or murder?"

"Look at the facts. If the hidden person were a lover he would certainly not disguise himself or come into the garden, his obvious course being to wait round the corner for mademoiselle to join him. As for murder, no one but a homicidal maniac would seek such an apparently motiveless crime, and who among the people acquainted with mademoiselle's movements suggests a lunatic? Yet we can be sure it was some one who knew where she was that evening and when she was likely to come home."

"But if she was forcibly seized," objected Charnwood, "how is it possible that from a distance of a few yards her mother heard absolutely nothing?"

The inspector was silent for several seconds.

"You misinterpret me, monsieur," he replied hesitatingly. "I myself do not at all believe she was attacked with violence. On the contrary, I am forced to the conclusion that when the gate closed she was already outside, willingly, hurrying as fast as possible toward the motor car in the rue Guillaume d'Orange."

"So you think that, too!" cried Charnwood, startled.

"What else can one think?" Yes, even though we can find nothing whatever in her private relations to support such a theory, it seems evident that we are confronted with an astounding paradox—namely, that mademoiselle quitted the premises on the spur of the moment, secretly, yet without compulsion."

The problem grew more and more grotesque.

"Then she must have fallen in with what she believed to be some innocent joke."

"A plausible pretext—yes; but without knowledge of that pretext we are groping in the dark." He paused to light the cigaret Charnwood offered him, then continued thoughtfully. "With any unexplained disappearance there are five possibilities to consider": he checked them off on his thick fingers, "elopement, suicide, murder, kidnaping for one of several reasons, notably ransom, and—white slavery. In spite of what I have just told you, monsieur, I will have to admit we are still at work on all five."

"What about loss of memory? Have you forgotten what Mme. de Bertincourt said about the time her daughter tried to get out of the house after a dose of veronal?"

"No, but we have no instance of any such seizure during normal health. Besides, even granting a brief lapse of consciousness, could she have gone away on foot in the space of a few seconds? Hardly."

The logic was unanswerable. Charnwood went over the list of explanations. "Suicide, murder—at least no body has been found. Ransom . . . Is it likely that any one knowing the Bertincourts' modest circumstances would hope to obtain more than a paltry sum?"

"Not from madame herself, certainly; but you forget her aunt. Still, if it is ransom, we shall soon know. We ought to have heard by now, in fact. That is what disturbs me." His voice sounded so troubled that Charnwood looked at him suspiciously.

"You mentioned white slavery. One hears stories, of course, but do you seriously consider in a case like this——"

"I don't know what to say, monsieur." Maupin shrugged and averted his eyes. "The police of any big city could tell you facts which would horrify you . . . usually the victims go freely enough, enticed by flattering protestations, but there are other instances . . . respectable girls vanish utterly, and it is as though they had been wiped out." He swept an expressive gesture. "The worst of it is, they are got out of the country at once, before anything can be done—drugged, provided with false passports, and carried aboard boats bound for South America, Australia. . . . Our present hope lies in the young lady's position, for those concerned in the traffic generally choose their prey from humble surroundings."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Desires First Communion Dress.

"My daughter, 12 years old, will make her first communion on May 30, and I cannot buy her the things she needs. My 16 year old son is the only one employed, and he works but one or two days each week. She will need a white dress, size 12, and I would be so grateful if you could get it for her. H. W."

Perhaps your young daughter has outgrown her white dress. If it would be suitable for such an occasion, may not this little girl have it for her first communion day?

HER MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

MRS. PAUL FRANCIS DENVIR.

[Du Bois Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Quin A. Ryan of the Kenesa hotel announce the marriage of their sister, Dorothy Ryan, to Paul Francis Denvir, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Denvir of 123 North Central avenue. The former Miss Ryan attended Sacred Heart academy and Northwestern university. Mr. Denvir attended the University of Illinois and was graduated from Loyola university law school. They are residing at 8214 Winthrop avenue.

Lane and Harrison High Schools Tied in Orchestra Contest

Following a competitive concert given in Orchestral hall last night by orchestras representing 12 Chicago high schools who were survivors of district competitions throughout the city, Lane and Harrison Technical High schools were declared tied for first place in the group one classification. This group included orchestras of between 81 and 100 pieces. The Lane orchestra was conducted by Paul Vernon and the Harrison group by Joseph Grill.

In group two the committee of judges awarded highest honors to the Roosevelt High school over other orchestras having between 61 and 80 players. Lake View and Calumet High schools were tied for second place. In group three, which included organizations of fewer than 61 pieces and more than 41, McKinley High school won first and the Wendell Phillips High school second.

The executive committee in charge of the entire competition was composed of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools; Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools; Willis E. Tower, district superintendent in charge of senior high schools; Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of music, and Oscar W. Anderson, supervisor of instrumental music.

Prepare Your Child for Any Physical Ordeal He Meets

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The season for removing tonsils is at hand. Perhaps in your family the ordeal is over. Perhaps you have it still ahead of you. In either case, there are a few things to be said about it which no one ever tells parents and which they have to find out through experience. They are especially important for, those parents who have been told that the tonsil operation is simply nothing—a mere trifle.

In the first place, don't have your children's tonsils out as a routine thing. If the tonsils are healthy, they are needed. Don't have them out unless their condition makes it necessary.

In the second place, go to a good doctor and try to impress upon him, even if it seems to hurt his feelings, that you want every bit of the tonsils taken out. I know of surgeons who have left pieces in. Be sure that the anesthetic is to be administered skillfully and as gently as possible.

Bear in mind that the taking of ether and the operation are a shock. There is often a noticeable aftermath—in behavior, in timidity, in fears, in lack of control, or poise. Children vary, of course. I have heard of children who showed absolutely no after effects. But if you see for a time a difference in behavior, make allowances—very great allowances.

There is one other thing. Prepare your child for the performance. Last year we had in this column some interesting descriptions of how this might be done. The following letter is a suggestive one along the line of preparing children's minds.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: When my girl was 4 the dentist saw fit to pull a certain tooth instead of filling it. He said she would have to take gas. A short time previous to that time you had an article on how to make it easier for a child by playing at home first. So this came in handy and we played 'dentist' with a hot water bottle. Came the day for the tooth to come out and she was the bravest little girl. They had no trouble at all. She had two other very small fillings.

"Monday we went to our doctor for a vaccination. All the way over questions came . . . 'Will there be a knife?' . . . 'Will he cut me?' and so forth. I told her I wasn't sure because it had been so long since I had been vaccinated, but 'There may be a knife to do a little scraping with.' 'Will it hurt?' 'Yes, a little, but you must be brave because it is necessary to have the vaccine.'

"So she went in, knowing it was going to hurt but that it had to be done. As it happens we have a wonderful doctor who made just the tiniest mark with a needle and we talked of all the fun we had on a recent trip and the pain was not so bad. When we got out the first thing she said was, 'It did hurt a little, but I was brave, wasn't I, Mother?'"

There were other instances given of what intelligent preparation can do to rob an experience of its shock and terrors.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Bees Liked Her Perfume.

One day I put some very sweet perfume on the collar of my coat while shopping in Bayside, Long Island. Out on the street a few minutes later a swarm of bees circled around my neck. I brushed them away, but they got worse.

I escaped into a drug store and they waited on the screen door while the people inside laughed, and the druggist told me that the flower perfume had attracted the bees.

I was in that store over one hour.

Boudoir Modes Are in Combinations

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Color contrasts, rampant all over new Paris fashions, have not passed by those alluring clothes dedicated to the intimacy of the boudoir or petit salon.

Jean Patou makes some ravishing hostess ensembles that have a skirt of one color, a jumper of another, and a jacket of a third. Often as many materials are used, combinations of georgette, crêpe de chine, and satin being preferred to one fabric effects. Navy blue, opaline pink, and green are one Patou combination. Blue, and rose are another.

The hostess ensemble, sketched today, is typical of Patou's new [illegible]. It has a tied-on coat dress of [illegible] the green satin with uneven [illegible] surrounded by a double row of [illegible] pleated flounces. These pleated [illegible] ings, you know, are earmarks of [illegible] latest Paris fashions for exterior as well as interior wear. The coat has a draped surplice collar and it is draped at the waistline, being tied with a bow of the opaline green satin at the left side. It is cut with little kimono or sleeves edged with plaited ruffles of the green satin.

The dress, shown on the small figure, is of white georgette. It has a skirt cut up in front and outlined with a plaited ruffle hem of the white georgette. It is in one piece, but a jabot and ruffle of the white georgette give it a tunic effect. The plaited georgette jabot is becoming. The short sleeves are finished with plaited ruffles also.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Mother, in describing a funeral which Indians attended, remarked that the Indians came, but stood outside the church.

Ann, the young daughter, asked, "Were the Indians the polar bears?"

Mother answered, "Ann, I can't answer you, for I don't know what you mean."

Ann explained: "I mean, were they the polar bears [pallbearers]—the ones who carry the casket?" E. E.

Jimmy, the little boy who lives next door to us, came running in one day all smiles and I asked him why he was so happy.

"O," he said, "you know our little baby has three new teeth on the low shelf." C. L. P.

Lake Foresters Going East for Garden Sessions

BY THALIA

THE LAKE FOREST representation at the annual meeting of the Garden Clubs of America, to be held next week on Long Island, includes Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mrs. Charles S. De Long, Mrs. Alfred Hamill, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. Allin Coleman Jr., Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder, Mrs. Howard Phillips, and Mrs. Richard Bentley.

The delegates from this district are to stay at the Pennsylvania hotel so as to commute to Long Island easily, and are to go out to the various meetings each day. Monday will be occupied with the formality of presenting credentials, Tuesday there will be some preliminaries, and on Wednesday the meetings proper will begin, to continue through the rest of the week. The meetings are always very grand and elaborate affairs, and the delegates usually have a perfectly lovely time being partied and seeing wonderful estates and gardens, besides going to the conferences. The last one was in Philadelphia, if I remember correctly, and the Stotesbury gardens and several of the Du Pont estates were visited. The North Shore Garden club of Long Island is to be hostess this year.

Mrs. Armour is already in New York, and Mrs. De Long is to go there from Tennessee, where she and Mr. De Long have been visiting the J. M. Dickinsons, former Chicagoans. Some of the other delegates are departing tomorrow, and some on Sunday.

Meanwhile, the stay at home Garden club members are working hard on plans for the flower show on May 30 and 31. Two interesting classes introduced into this year's schedule are one for flower arrangements in a standard gold vase provided by the committee and one for flower arrangements in bottles. Mrs. Farwell Winston has the supply of gold vases. The bottle class offers opportunity for the display of ingenuity and cleverness, as modern or antique flasks of any description, form, or size may be used. The committee is anxious that it be known that the show is open, not only to Garden clubs and their members, but to any gardener who cares to display posies or artistry in arrangement.

The Washington Post, commenting on Mrs. Medill McCormick's al fresco supper party for Mrs. Tiffany Blake the other evening, says, "Mrs. McCormick frequently entertains at Sunday night parties, and at her home the light and inconsequential conversation of most parties is interspersed with discussions of politics, with such diversity of opinion that interest and even a bit of temporary battle is not lacking. Mrs. McCormick, a spirited talker herself, leads the conversation into intriguing channels and brings out the most interesting qualities of her guests." The garden was lighted with lanterns which cast effective shadows among the trees and shrubbery.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(Special.)—The Secretary of State and Mrs. H. L. Stimson occupied their box at the horse show this afternoon and had with them Senator William E. Borah and others.

Secretary Mellon went to New London today to take part in the Coast Guard academy graduation exercises.

Secretary P. J. Hurley was the ranking guests at the luncheon today of the Chilean ambassador given in honor of Col. Arturo Merino, chief of the army air corps of Chile. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, U. S. A., was among the guests.

Mrs. Wilbur, wife of the secretary of the interior, was entertained at luncheon today by Dr. Anna Jack, at the Carlton hotel.

Mrs. William Howard Taft was the guest of honor at a luncheon given today by Mrs. Huse, wife of Rear Admiral Harry P. Huse, at the National Woman's Country club on Bradley lane.

Various Journeyings, Some Nearby, Others Across Seas.

Summer plans and so forth. . . . The William Scott Bonds of the Webster hotel have moved out to their farm near Dundee for the summer. . . . The Alvin C. McCorkles and their daughter, Mrs. M. M. Phillips, who is with her parents now after a long stay in Boston, are going to their place on Cape Cod in June. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Rosenthal and their grandson, Ernest L. Byfield Jr., were among the passengers aboard the Berengaria on Wednesday. They are to spend the summer with their daughter, Mme. Raymond Tartiere, in Biarritz and the Austrian Tyrol. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Burridge Davanal Butler, who spent their first winter in their new Casa Davanal at Phoenix, Ariz., this season, will be home in a few days and will open their Hinsdale residence for the summer. Among their Chicago visitors during the winter were the Rolland Hastings, Malcolm Vall, and Irving Randall of Highland Park.

Miss Marian Winthrop Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gale Taylor, and Dr. Douglas Boyd are to be married in the chapel of St. James' at 4 o'clock the afternoon of June 6, and the reception to follow the ceremony will be at the Taylor residence at 73 East Division street. Miss Florence Josephine Taylor is to be maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Katherine Boyd, Dr. Boyd's sister; Miss Jeanette Higgins, and Miss Mia Linder. Nieces of the prospective bride and groom, Peggy Taylor and Isabel Woolford, will be flower girls. Dr. William F. Harper of Alabama will be best man, and Dr. Horace Stimson, Curry Freeman, Dr. Samuel Gale Taylor III., and E. Winthrop Taylor are to usher. Dr. Boyd and his bride will motor south for their wedding trip, and are to reside in Evanston.

Marian Elizabeth Roberts, C. H. Sudler Jr., Are Married.

For her wedding yesterday to Carroll H. Sudler Jr., Miss Marian Elizabeth Roberts wore a Vionnet gown of egshell satin and a veil of duchesse and rose point lace, and carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Her attendants, Miss Margaret and Miss Ruth Roberts, wore white chiffon and lace gowns with girdles of powder blue and shell pink chiffon and matching picture hats. They held bouquets of delphinium and pink and white baby orchids.

The chancel of the Brown Memorial church of Baltimore, where the ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock, was decorated with calla lilies and tapers in tall candelabra bordered the central aisle. A reception followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Frank Roberts of Baltimore. The bride and groom will travel in Europe.

The annual exhibit of the Chicago Architectural league, presented under the joint auspices of the league and the Arts club, will be opened at a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Arts club.

The Scribblers had their May meeting yesterday at Mrs. Walter S. Brewster's house in Lake Forest, and afterwards went garden seeing. Mrs. Julian Armstrong had the Lake Forest Infant Welfare meeting at her house yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Woodruff are motoring to Louisville for the Derby, and are to attend the dinner dance Mr. and Mrs. Menafee Wirgman are to give at the Louisville Country club this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massee and the Leon Mitchells of Rock Island are going to Louisville today.

Various News About People, Some Going to California.

Here's news—Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt are leaving today for California—Mrs. Hoyt [Phyllis Fergus] is to appear on several programs for the League of American Pen Women's congress from June 1 to June 6 in San Francisco. . . . William T. Bacon of Chicago and Kelton E. White of St. Louis were hosts at a dinner this week at the Greenbrier at White Sulphur for more than a score of members of the board of governors of the Investment Bankers association in convention there. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson, who have been visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Count and Countess Giangullio Rucellai, in Florence, Italy, will arrive in New York on Monday on the Conte Grande and will spend a few days at the Weylin before going to Lenox, Mass. . . . The Junior league is to hold its annual meeting on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock preceding a luncheon—Miss Katherine Rogers, a New York Junior leaguer and an executive director of the Association of Junior leagues, will be the speaker.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, May 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt will have several wives of officers of the army air service as guests next week. She will receive her guests at Sagamore Hill on the afternoon of May 22.

Mrs. Henry H. B. Ripley had among her guests for luncheon yesterday in the Georgian room of the Hotel Pierre Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Pell, Mrs. Talbot Ewart, and Mrs. James H. Ripley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Cushing III. will sail tomorrow on the Olympic, with the intention of passing most of the summer at an estate at Dorking, Surrey, England.

Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius has returned from Richmond, Va., to 960 5th avenue, where she will remain until she opens her country place at Locust valley.

Thomas L. Chadbourne is due to arrive on the Europa on Saturday, and will join Mrs. Chadbourne at the Berkshire.

How to Whiten Dark, Sallow Skin

By Carolyn Haines

HERE is good news for women who are troubled with dark, sallow, blemished or freckled skin. Beauty specialists, using a secret French formula, have produced a lovely new white facial pack that dries in ten minutes, fades out freckles and darkened skin, and removes fatigue lines and blemishes.

It contains fresh juice of the whole lemon, magnesia, and other secret ingredients. It is called Boncilla Lemon Magnesia Pack, and is sold in all good drug and department stores. A large size tube or jar, containing many facials, costs only one dollar. The dealer will refund your money if you are not delighted. I advise that you try it at once.

Payne Calls Experts to Study Workings of National Red Cross

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—The business administration of the National Red Cross is under scrutiny of efficiency engineers with a view to ascertaining whether it is possible to cut expense.

Chairman John Barton Payne, describing the study today, said it was being done under Red Cross central committee direction, at his request, and with his complete cooperation.

A firm of efficiency experts, such as conduct similar studies for business firms, was called in by the disaster relief organization to look for loopholes through which money and effort might possibly be wasting away.

SPEED TESTS CUT DERBY FIELD TO FOURTEEN

ATHLETICS BEAT SOX, 5-2; LYONS PITCHES 4 INNINGS

SEE 8 TO 5 POST TIME ODDS ON GREENTREE TRIO

Supporters Desert Equipoise.

Probable Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—[Special.]—The horses which probably will make up the field in the Kentucky Derby Saturday follow:

Twenty Grand.	Ladder.
Surf Board.	Boy Howdy.
Anchors Aweigh.	Sweep All.
Mate.	Spanish Play.
Equipoise.	Prince D'Amour.
Pittsburgher.	Conscience.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—Not more than 14, most likely 12, will face Starter Bill Hamilton at about 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon just before the 57th Kentucky Derby begins.

Derby candidates were loafing, the advance guard of the crowd was speculating and Vice President Charles Curtis and other notables were looking over the horses as the Derby field began to take its final shape.

Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's Greentree stable's entry of Twenty Grand Surf Board, and Anchors Aweigh was mustering so much support it looked like the entry will be about 3 to 5 in the betting when the trip over the Derby course begins.

Mate Runs Well.

Then came some Derby puzzlers. Mate, the Preakness winner, in a workout this afternoon surely conducted himself like a champion. There was a flood of western money for Pittsburgher, which threatened to make him the third or fourth choice in the betting at anywhere from 5 to 1 to 10 to 1. Equipoise stock tumbled so much that you could just about write your own ticket on him.

But this doesn't signify that Equipoise is to be any great long shot on Derby afternoon, for future book operators stand to lose a lot of money if he should capture the Derby. They will bet a lot of that money back on Equipoise in the pari mutuels on Derby day in order to protect themselves. For why shouldn't a bookmaker who has taken in thousands of dollars on Equipoise at 3 to 1 or less bet it off if he can get 5 or 6 to 1 on the day the race is run?

The size of the Derby crowd was another puzzler. Churchill Downs' spacious lawns, its wide promenades, its row after row of box seats, was comfortably filled this afternoon two days before the Derby. The advance ticket sale has been big, but it was still possible to buy reserved seat tickets this afternoon, something that hasn't happened during any Derby week in recent years.

Expect 60,000 Fans.

The belief is that the Derby crowd will be as large as ever, that 60,000 or 70,000 will witness the race, but it will be more of a grandstand nonbetting crowd than it will be a ritzy carefree big spending clubhouse throng which has taken the old Kentucky track by storm in other years.

Twenty Grand's work between races this afternoon was very impressive and the crowd at the Downs gave him a mighty cheer as he came charging down the stretch to lead Anchors Aweigh home by three lengths. Twenty Grand worked his mile in 1:42 and finished out a mile and an eighth in 1:57. He ran in the middle of the track all the way because the going next to the rail was wet and sticky.

Twenty Grand and Ladder turned in the best workouts this afternoon. Twenty Grand, wearing four bandages and ridden by Marshall Lilly who weighs more than 130 pounds, stepped the first half in :48 3-5, the three-quarters in 1:15 2-5, and was never fully extended in making his mark of 1:42 for the mile.

Mate, the horse which doesn't like too much work, was asked to go only seven furlongs at good speed. It was a slow trial but just the kind Trainer Jim Healey ordered. Mate ran his seven-eighths under tight wraps in 1:34. He galloped out the mile and was fighting for his head all the way. Mate worked alone.

Ladder Shows Speed.

Surf Board going far out from the rail and not showing much of a desire to run worked a mile in 1:42 and, pulled up, was at the mile and an eighth in 1:58. Marshall Lilly was also in the saddle when he rehearsed.

Ladder's move was a corker. He ran his mile in just fractions of a second less than Twenty Grand. He is a big, long striding fellow and galloped around the track as though he were really enjoying himself. He worked his mile in 1:42 2-5 and seemed willing to go on to the Rocky mountains when he was pulled up.

Later in the afternoon Insco came out and stepped a mile in 1:43 4-5. He showed fine early speed but slowed up in the late stages when bothered a bit by his workmate, St. Jim. Insco appeared to be in as good condition as he was when he won the Post and Paddock stakes at Arlington last July.

Equipoise, Pittsburgher, Sweep All, Spanish Play, Prince D'Amour and Conscience, the others in the probable Derby field, were all idle. Boys Howdy is reported to have worked a very slow mile and a quarter over at the Douglas Park track just before darkness hovered over the track last night.

SIMMONS HITS HOMER TO HELP CHASE FRASIER

Close Lose 6th Game in Row.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The title holding Philadelphia Athletics have left town and the White Sox are not filled with regrets over the departure. Before moving on to other parts yesterday the Athletics, with their usual nonchalance, made a sweep of the three game series, 5 to 1. It was the sixth straight defeat for the Sox.

The troubles of the Sox were about the same as have pestered them since they surrendered their recent winning string of five games. The pitching was just good enough to bring defeat and the daily error was just costly enough to prevent the southsiders from hanging right on the heels of their opponents. The error was supplied by young Luke Appling and the latter made it good for exactly half of the four runs scored in the five inning reign of Vic Frasier, the speed ballin' Texan.

Lyons Makes Home Debut.

As a solace for the 7,000 spectators Comiskey Park treated them to the game's home debut of Ted Lyons, who has been unable to pitch because of an arm injured when he extended himself to face a batter with three on base against the Giants March 22. Lyons had worked only two innings of his earlier season. What he did yesterday was not especially impressive. Five hits and a run were peeled off in the four innings, but he showed enough to indicate a few more work he'll become a regular starter.

Another of the Sox ailments for the day was Guillermo at bat. Rube Walberg, whose pitching is not particularly good, went all the way and was allowed only seven hits. Three of the seven hits came in the first two innings and did no good. The others were bunched in the fifth, when the Sox did all their scoring, but Walberg atoned for this by not letting any of them get to base in the three concluding innings.

Frasier did pretty well for a few innings. The first man to face him, Bishop, singled, but nothing happened. In the second two men walked without getting any place. Frasier walked another in the third, bringing up Cochrane and Simmons with one out, but they proved harmless. Meanwhile Lyons, too, was faring no better. In the same three innings they put only two men on base. Reynolds singled with two out in the first, stole second and third, and died there. The other hit was Kress's single in the second.

A's Score Two in Fourth.

The Athletics collected two runs in the fourth. Frasier started the inning by unintentionally walking both Foxx and Miller. Dykes bunted and Frasier, by agile fielding, caught Foxx going to third. Boley followed with a grounder to deep short and although a play was possible Appling threw to Cissell and it went wild. Miller scored, Dykes went to third and Boley to second. Walberg's infield fly sent Dykes home.

The Sox had a fleeting bit of fun in the latter part of the fourth when Fothergill singled, but this wasn't anything compared to what the Macks produced in the fifth. With one out Cochrane hit one of his characteristic doubles along the right field line. Two strikes were slipped over on Simmons, but they were no annoyance to the delegate from Milwaukee. He caught Frasier's next pitch into the left field second deck for his sixth home run of the season. This swelled the score to 4 to 0.

Lyons Fans Dykes.

Lyons' start in the sixth was marked by three strikes for Dykes, who immediately after this enough ground was kicked up to produce another run for the champions. Boley drove to left, but this was more of a reflection on Fothergill's lack of speed than on Lyons' pitching. Walberg then singled to right and Boley scored. Bishop's liner to Kress, on which Walberg was forced off first base.

Reynolds led off with his second

Say, How Long Is This Going On? Cubs Idle

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 14.—Mr. Wrigley's sons of enforced rest, otherwise the Chicago Cubs, today put in their eleventh idle day of the season, which began just a month ago today. The scheduled second game of the Robins-Cubs series was called off at 11:15 o'clock this morning. Rain was the cause of this latest of postponements in the series of four on successive days in Greater New York.

The weather man says it will be fair and warmer tomorrow, but it's got so you can't trust any one connected with the weather business and besides, you never can tell what will happen in Brooklyn.

Athletes Complain About Ball.

The discussion is getting nearer and nearer the ball factory conducted by the Shibes, who also run the Athletics. The balls for both major leagues, at least previous to this season, were made in the same factory and cast in the same hopper, and the only difference at the finish was the use of different colored thread in the sewing of things. Now the National league sluggers who aren't slugging say they are swinging at a ball with a thicker hide than the American league ball. We haven't listened to the singing of any of the American leaguers, but the five leading hitters in the American all are hitting more than Hornsby, who is leading the National league as this piece is being written.

Squawk on Sacrifice Rule.

In any event, such sluggers as O'Doul, Terry, Wilson, and a few others think that they are being discriminated against, and as long as they think the ball is doing things to them, they perhaps will have difficulty snapping out of the .200 flight of hitters.

Another squawk among those who are paid for hitting is the new ruling which took away the sacrifice fly. Hack Wilson, for instance, had 18 sacrifice flies last year. That means, of course, that if Hack were to duplicate his hitting of last year in 1931 he would have 18 more official times at bat than he had last year. In 1930 Hack made 208 hits in 585 times at bat for an average of .356. Given 18 additional times at bat, his credit last year for sacrifice flies, and on the same performance this year, his average would be a shade under .345.

Smith Still Pitching Choice.

Hornsby says that Smith is going to be his next pitcher, if it takes all summer, and Robert is hoping tomorrow will be his time. In this event, the Cubs and Robins will play their series opener and their final doubleheader simultaneously.

Luque is expected to pitch for the Robins tomorrow, and if he does the Cub lineup will be: Moore, cf; English, ss; Hornsby or Blair, 2b; Wilson, lf; Cuyler, rf; Hartnett, c; Reis, 1b; Grimm, 1b, and Smith, p.

FRENCH FIGHTERS TAKE NEW YORK CITY BY STORM

Insist on Seeing the Night Movies.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—The valiant French amateur boxing team, accompanied by Dr. Charles Sebeng, medical adviser, and Prof. M. Cuny, coach and trainer, arrived here late tonight for a taste of Father Knickerbocker's hospitality before sailing for France tomorrow afternoon.

Excited over the prospect of giving New York the once over before they sailed for home, they were taken to the St. Moritz hotel overlooking Central park for a bit of rest and food before starting the final ceremonies in America.

Tear Loose at Midnight.

With the hour nearing midnight Capt. Alexander Elyas, light heavyweight battler, and his mates insisted upon visiting a midnight movie. They've been waiting patiently to witness the "Cinema Amerique," and they won the argument in short order.

After the show the lads insisted upon a tour of Broadway's bright light district and they attracted many a glance as they strutted through the midnight crowd.

Ile de France—Bon Voyage.

Tomorrow morning the team will go on a sightseeing tour of Manhattan. Following visits to the many points of interest, the boys and their traveling-companions-in-charge will be taxied to the North river, where they will board the Ile de France for Havre and home.

The Ile de France is scheduled to sail at 4:30 tomorrow afternoon and a large crowd of well wishers will be there to bid the team adieu.

GEORGE TRAFTON JUST A GIGOLO, WIFE CHARGES

George Trafton, 250 pound professional football player and prize fighter, is termed a "gigolo" by his wife, Mrs. Alyce Trafton, 1225 Mautene court, in her answer to his divorce suit filed yesterday in the Superior court. Trafton charged, in his bill filed a few weeks ago, that his 115 pound wife was cruel.

Another paragraph in the answer says "Trafton has been belligerent, pugnacious, bellicose, and contentious, except for the moments he would spend gigoloing at a loop hotel."

Mrs. Trafton denies that she hit her husband with an alarm clock, a chair, a bottle or a carving knife, but adds that she regrets her aim was so poor.

ALL SET FOR DERBY

Equipoise, leading money winning two year old last season, and winter book favorite in the Kentucky Derby tomorrow, spins around the track in a morning workout at Churchill Downs.

Derby Hegira Starts; Not So Many Going

The crowd which makes the annual Kentucky Derby pilgrimage from Chicago to Louisville gives indications of being comparatively slim this season. Railroads have reduced the number of specials and only a few clubs have chartered cars.

The Medinah Athletic club, the South Shore Country club, and the Hamilton club are the only organizations which will send sizeable delegations, whereas in the past a dozen or more of the leading social and athletic groups were well represented.

City Hall Party Leaves.

The Al Horan special steamed toward Louisville last night carrying a party from the city hall. Four other parties, led by Billy Skidmore, Al Bloom, Eddie McCabe, and Sammy Wolff, left last night.

Three special trains are bound for Louisville over the Monon route and one more will go tonight. In addition extra sections will be attached to the regular trains. Monon officials estimated they would carry about 1,500 turf fans to Louisville.

The Pennsylvania railroad sent two special trains last night and three more will follow this evening. Each is expected to carry about 125 passengers. The Big Four and the C. & E. I. ran only one special each, both leaving last night.

Many Go by Auto.

Hundreds will make the trip by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Anton, Mr. S. W. Armstrong, F. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Connor, M. A. Donohue, L. J. Drake, W. J. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Dunn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Brock Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gavin, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. R. Heberling, H. T. Hill, W. H. Hilton, N. P. James, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lorenz, I. M. Keller, R. Maglione, Mr. and Mrs. W. Matheisius, Mrs. G. A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas North.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Nystrom, Dr. and Mrs. V. J. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rood, Mrs. I. L. Seior, Miss Sheehy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Sheey, U. S. Skeeva, W. H. Wallace, Miss A. G. Wolff, F. C. Wolff, Mrs. W. B. Wolf, W. B. Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. R. Goldie.

The Hamilton club's party, which will leave tonight, will include:

Ald. F. X. Konkowski, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Pruitt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Faulkner, Frank Hicks, Bruce Morrison, [illegible] H. DERBY HORSES, AFTER ALL, ARE JUST HORSES

Mr. Pegler Fails to Catch Racing Fever.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—Here is the Kentucky Derby again and still I haven't kept my old resolve, first taken in 1923 and renewed every spring since then, not counting 1927 when I had appendicitis, to steep myself in the spirit and tradition of the turf. I must get around to that next year.

In fact, last spring I made a serious effort, spending several days at Col. Bradley's Blue Grass acreage outside Lexington. Although Mr. Barry Shannon, his manager, escorted me around the premises mile after mile, introducing me to a large amount of live stock and prattling each steed's ancestry like a society reporter reciting the pedigree of one of the lower case Vanderbilts, the brutes remained after all as much alike as so many Vanderbilts.

Truth Drearier than Fiction.

Another year at Louisville I visited the horse barns over on the yonder side of the track, a long, hot walk from the grand stands, to talk to the jockeys, the trainers, the stable boys and all such quaint spoken and picturesque characters as I often read about in the horse track fiction pieces.

And so I saw some scrawny dogs, most of them with their plush scratched off in spots, snoozing in the shade and twitching the flies off their hides or starting up suddenly and batting themselves vigorously on the ear with a hind hoof in a manner not at all dissimilar to the way of all dogs. I could have seen that back home. There was a nanny goat tied in front of one stable, which let go an occasional laugh, apropos nothing at all that I could see, unless the goat was being personal. It was a mirthless baaa-a-a-a sort of neck laugh and precisely the same that I emit over the homely witticisms of Will Rogers, court jester to the President who never cracked a smile, Calvin Coolidge. That makes two of us, Mr. Coolidge and me.

There were some Negro boys around, too, but this must have been an off day, because they were all hustling water or cleaning tackle very industriously instead of shooting craps, dancing the Pigeon Wing in ragged shoes on the dusty ground, or passing funny remarks in dialect.

Gamblers More Interesting.

So I concluded the hell with steeping myself in the spirit and tradition of the turf for this year and went back to talk to a lot of gamblers around the clubhouse who are the only really picturesque people in the business anyway, so far as my research reveals, and the backbone of the business, too, because if there was no gambling there would be no horse racing, and there would be no gambling without gamblers.

I wouldn't call these gamblers horse lovers, but then I have a belief that there are very few horse lovers other than trainers or stable hands around the horse tracks, anyway. The compound word horse-lover is easy to tap off on a typewriter and cast on a linotype, but it is misapplied more often than not because many of the rich people who buy up herds and go to racing are merely seeking something in common with the Whitneys and their like.

If you were to strip the numbers off the saddle cloths when the Derby horses go to the post Saturday afternoon and shuffle their positions, there wouldn't be ten common customers in the stand who could guess correctly the names of two steeds. The baseball customer, even though he cannot see the players' faces any more from the magnificent distances of the big stands, can identify all the regulars in the league by their walk or some mannerism at the plate.

So that's how it is about the horse lovers at the race tracks and I don't want any arguments about it because that means writing a lot of letters

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—[Special.]—Upon arrival in Louisville this morning The Wake went immediately from the train to Churchill Downs and sought the Parkway stable barn, where roomy quarters are provided for Mate, Preakness stakes winner at Pimlico last Saturday, which also is a $50,000 race.

Mate was seated in an easy chair in front of the stable. In advance, we had been favorably inclined toward Mate because of a sentence concerning him in French Lane's informative series on various Derby candidates. French said "Mate is a nervous fellow and thrives more on rest than on work." That was so human and so like ourself, if we had the opportunity, that we liked this Preakness winner.

That predilection, however, received something of a shock when we observed that Mate was resting after his breakfast in a turquoise blue lounging robe, and horror of horrors, with turquoise blue slippers to match. Approaching him, we said, "Good morning, Mr. Mate, I'm Old Man Wake of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE—how's the champion?" That is the orthodox greeting to celebrities of the champion or near champion order in racing, boxing, or other branches of sport.

* *

Mate must be a keen sort of chap. He evidently sensed our hostility to his attire, for as he proffered his hoof to shake in greeting, he said, "Now Wake, old topper, let's start frankly. Don't get me wrong on account of these togs. You know my owner, A. C. Bostwick, belongs to the sporting set and the swankiest of clubs. You've probably seen him ride his own horses in steeplechases, and he's a good rider, too.

"He's also a thorough sportsman, but I don't like these clothes he wishes on me. And lot's of times I have to put on the soup and fish for some swell dinner when I'd much prefer to go over to 'Pop's' at Hoboken and crook a foreleg—you know what I mean. No, I'm all right, Wake, and really I'm a westerner at heart for Prince Pal of Kentucky was my daddy."

Mate then threw back his turquoise blue robe disclosing a deep, thick chest —or chestnut, for that is his color—and a good looking pair of legs. "I'm just dying for a cigaret," he continued, "but Trainer Jim Healey won't let me smoke in training. Funny thing, I can get along without red eye all right, but stopping smoking makes me as fidgety as your most austere old maid.

* *

"Suppose you want to know about the Derby. What I've done speaks pretty well for itself, doesn't it? I have been underrated, Harve. As a 2 year old I started fifteen times with eight firsts, four seconds, one third, and once out of the money on my first appearance when they took me right to the race track from my perambulator. That's not bad.

"I was third to Equipoise and Twenty Grand last year in the Pimlico Futurity, but the margin was less than a length and you know how much that is in a horse race. Earlier in the season, I had taken Equipoise at seven furlongs, and after the Pimlico futurity, I took Twenty Grand in the Walden handicap at 1 1-16 miles and gave him a pretty good licking on a heavy track.

"In the Preakness on good but possibly dull footing, I again took the pair of them. You can't go back of the returns, can you, Harve? I had something left at the finish and was 1½ lengths in front.

"Naturally, I expect to start in the Belmont stakes and probably the American Derby at Washington Park in Chicago. I'll surely be there for the Classic at Arlington Park—pretty course, isn't it? While in Chicago, I'd like to forget the soup and fish and have a quiet night with you and French and some of the boys. How about that Charlie's—what's his last name—out on Broadway? See if you can't fix it up. Meantime, I'll see you Saturday right after the race when you interview the Derby winner."

With this little chat over, The Wake repaired to his hotel to see whether four of us or six of us were sleeping in a room intended for two

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Old Bill, a seasoned traveler who spends his winters in the south, met up with Bozo and Bosky, a couple of other fellows who can usually be found in the neighborhood of New Orleans after January 1, in the South Chicago Jubilee purse, feature of the racing program at Aurora yesterday.

And after the completion of the mile and sixteenth trip Bozo and Bosky regretted ever having made Old Bill's acquaintance. Old Bill is getting on in years now, having reached the ripe old age of seven, while Bozo and Bosky are middle aged fellows of five. But yesterday he came home a length and a half in front of Bozo, with Bosky forced to be satisfied with fourth place after Cabildo had come along and beaten him for the show money.

Bozo Sent Outside.

At the start of the race, Bozo became cantankerous and Starter Harry Morrissey finally deported him to the outside position. Bosky took the lead, with Bozo right on his heels. Old Bill must have been having many a chuckle as he watched the two worry along in front of him on the backstretch.

It was at the far turn that Old Bill and Jockey Dickey decided to have done with such dallying and when the trio headed into the stretch, Bozo and Bosky had come to the conclusion that Old Bill was a very spry party for his years. In the two dollar mutuels he returned $5.20 to two dollar investors.

The younger generation had its minutes in the Jubilee fireworks, a matter of four and one-half furlongs, and a little brown horse called Mailliw, which strange name proves to be William when turned upside down, provided all of the pyrotechnics.

Baby Bane Favored.

Baby Bane, a precocious flapper which had won three of her last seven starts and placed in the money in the other four, flirted with the customers to a point where she was nearly at even money at post time.

Another flapper, Palmetto Pangle, running the second race of her life, jumped out in front at the start and held the lead until the stretch, with Baby Bane going along right behind her. By mid-stretch the argument between the two had become such that both began to falter, and Mailliw, which had been content to follow them in third place, swept by both of them. Anita's Pal rushed on to take place money from Palmetto Pangle, while Baby Bane dropped back until she wound up in sixth place. Mailliw had been overlooked in the wagering and returned $16.56 in the two dollar mutuels. It was his second Aurora victory.

The favorite players were defeated in the first race when Lena M., a 5 year old mare, romped home ahead of Lenny, the public choice, but came back in the second event, which Seth's Companion, an even money proposition, took from Blue Canopy. Lena M. returned $12.34 to win, while Seth's Companion brought his followers $4.06.

Long Shot Wins.

The majority of the 7,000 customers lost up a great booing when the result of the third race was posted and the decision given to a long shot, King Cherokee, over another favorite, Watch On, and Thomas Seth, the second choice in the betting.

Jockey Geving's alertness at the post provided King Cherokee with a three length lead before the others were barely out of the gate. The King clung to that advantage until the last furlong, fighting off challenges by Film and Poly. A hundred yards from the post Watch On, under a severe spanking by Jockey Cunningham, and Thomas Seth, moved up alongside the King, but he held a lead of inches to the wire. His price in the mutuels was $42.04.

Zaharias Is Thrown Twice by Bronowicz

Frank Bronowicz still has to lose a wrestling match in Chicago. He was near defeat, however, against big George Zaharias at the Rainbo Fronton last night. But while 3,100 fans howled in wild enthusiasm, Bronowicz, after losing the first fall, came back with a headlock attack to win the next two falls and the match from the Colorado Greek-American.

In the semi-windup Jim McMillen subdued Don De Laun in 13:53. He butted the Frenchman around the ring with his flying tackles and the winning hold was a body slam.

Ray Steele, California contender, was bounced around quite a bit before he defeated John Zarnos, Ohio youngster, in one of the supporting matches. The time was 10:40, Ray employing a series of headlocks and a body slam.

Hans Steinke, weighing 255 pounds, was held to a draw by Jim Clinkstock, 233 pound Oklahoma Indian. In the opening match Jack Smith defeated Hans Bauer in 16:10.

MICHIGAN NINE LEAVES TO PLAY AT IOWA CITY

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—Twelve men left here today with Coach Ray Fisher for Iowa City, where the Michigan nine will play the Hawkeyes tomorrow for the second time this season. The squad was without its star pitcher, Verne Compton, who will go direct to Champaign to face Illinois Saturday.

Paul Drews Shoots 69 in K. of C. Meet

Father Perez council, Knights of Columbus, drew a strong field for its first annual golf tournament at Oak Hills yesterday. Three of the members played with a plus attached to their scores, and even this did not keep all three from making the first trio of low gross scores. Paul Drews, once a pro, shot the course in 35—34—69 and had ten strokes added which gave him a 79 net. Tom McInerney shot 81, with a 3 stroke impost for 84 and Tony Scavopi had 84 plus 3 for 87.

Drews was given low net, and the other two took the gross awards. William Barendt with 106—25—81 was second low net and George Sapplett, 91—10—81, third. Joe Ploespt and C. A. Barendt also shot 81 but lost out in the draw. A field of nearly 100 played.

PLUMBERS HOLD TOURNEY.

Plumbing contractors of Chicago held the first monthly golf tournament of their schedule at Cog Hill yesterday and one hundred competed. Playing over course No. 1, Sam Miller led all the members, taking low net with 106—39—71. Ed C. Young was next with 93—21—72, but both were set back because of handicaps and Ed Mortimer, 95—19—76, and Charles Jones, 94—15—79, were given first and second in class A. For guests, Fred Zimmer, 92—19—73, and H. F. Potter, 96—18—78, took first and second.

In class B, Young was given first and W. F. Knauss second, 103—27—81. Miller took the guests' award in class B, while Sam Wolinsky was second with 105—30—75. The next tournament of the contractors will be held at Big Oaks on June 11.

Girls Shun Cake, Pie, Dates; Win Athletic Award

Four years ago sweaters were offered co-eds who, while participating in athletics, resisted these three temptations. Until now no one had met the qualifications.

Where Are Those Colonels?

I suppose the liquor problem will be very acute, as usual in Louisville, where one is always hearing tell of some grand, hospitable old soul with a colonel's goatee, living in a white colonial mansion a short piece out of town, who has had a hundred casks of it mellowing in his cellars since 1920, and a mint bed, lush and fragrant by the door, and colored boys in white jackets bearing silver trays and tinkling goblets with frost on them, who, however, is always, unfortunately, spending the evening somewhere else.

This being so, and one's own supply, always restricted by an absurd resolve to take it easy in Louisville at Derby time, being exhausted, one rings for a bellhop who knows a fellow who presently bobs up, mysteriously and sinister, with a crock or mason jar of something that he guarantees to be genu-wine cawn, suh, price eight dollars. This is the wine of the country down south and very popular with old and young, and the only theory I have as to how they can stand it is that judging by my own experience in small town eating houses down south, they need something pretty rank to counteract the southern cooking.

I am sure that a careful study of all the foregoing will give a distinct and thorough understanding of the relative abilities, the ancestry and the probable chances of all the horses going to the post in the Kentucky Derby or Blue Grass turf classic Saturday afternoon, the name of one which, as I believe, I saw somewhere in the papers lately, is Equipage or something on that order.

Florida Senate Votes for Racing, with Mutuels

Tallahassee, Fla., May 14.—(AP)—A bill to legalize racing and pari-mutuel systems of wagering in Florida was passed by the state senate this afternoon. At the same time the senate defeated an amendment to the bill that would have required a state-wide referendum. The measure has not been acted upon by the lower house of the general assembly.

TRIBE LOSES 6TH STRAIGHT GAME TO SENATORS, 5-4

Miller Pitches Well, but Mates Can't Hit.

Cleveland, O., May 14.—The Indians dropped their sixth successive game when the Senators beat them for the second time in as many days, 5 to 4. Walter Miller pitched well all the way but his mates could not produce a hit-ting punch behind him.

The Senators' big inning was the second, in which they made four hits and doubled against the screen. Harris got a pop single between Judge and Porter to score Kuhel and Myer Spencer followed with a single to right. Jones took advantage of his opportunity to send both mates home with a double to right center. Score:

YANKS, 14; BROWNS, 2.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—[Special.] The league leading Yankees whipped the Browns this afternoon, 14 to 2, behind the pitching of Charlie Ruffing, who pitched no hit ball until he was found for a single. A triple, single, double and pop fly enabled the Browns to get over the two tallies in the final inning.

Lou Gehrig was the big shot for the Yanks, getting two successive homers in the first and second innings. He also got a single.

PHIL CHINN STUD SOLD; HIGH TIME BRINGS $50,000

Lexington, Ky., May 14.—(AP)—High Time, one of America's famous thoroughbred sires, passed to the ownership of Charles T. Fisher of Detroit, Mich., and three other stallions and 128 brood mares, many of them with foals, were sold at public auction today as the Hinnyar stud of Col. Phil T. Chinn was dispersed.

One hundred and thirty-two lots, including four stallions, 128 brood mares and 69 foals of 1931 sold with the game, brought $238,575, an average of $1,807.

Fisher paid $50,000 for High Time, a 15 year old son of Ultimus-Noonday. High Time topped the sale. The next highest price was $12,000, which John S. Barbee of Lexington gave for Nimbus, 2 year old stallion by Peter Pan-Rose.

Chicago Lad Termed "Best Boy Athlete"

By piling up a total of 3,894 individual points, Roland Young, 13 years old, of 1441 South Central Park avenue, Chicago, won first place out of a field of 22,800 contestants in the tenth annual indoor athletic competition conducted throughout the country under the auspices of the Boys' Club Federation of America. He thus becomes the champion boy athlete of the United States.

This was announced yesterday at the federation's headquarters in New York by Herbert T. Hart, chairman of the committee on physical program, following compilation of returns from 69 clubs in all parts of the country and one in Hawaii.

The winning club was the American Boys' Commonwealth, Chicago, with 16,651 points. This is the club to which Roland belongs. The Jewish Peoples' Institute, also of Chicago, chalked up 15,713 points for second place.

How He Won.

In order to win the medal which the federation will present to him Roland took part in all five events. He did 8 feet 2 inches in the standing broad jump, 4:4 in the running high, and 23:2 in the standing hop, skip, and jump. In the pull-up or "chinning" contest he managed to hoist himself 19 times, and then made 19 basketball goals in 60 seconds. The first shot was taken from directly behind the foul line, fifteen feet from the basket, and the other 18 were made from outside an eight foot semi-circle.

America's best all around boy athlete is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 89 pounds. For three years he has played guard and forward on basketball teams in boys' clubs on Chicago's west side and he knows the name of every baseball player this year in both major leagues.

Likes Football Best.

His proudest trophy is a book with the autograph of all the football players of Drake university, and his favorite hero is Carideo, Notre Dame's quarter back of the 1930 eleven.

Football is Roland's favorite sport. Basketball comes next, then baseball, and finally track. He also likes fishing and swimming. He wants to go to college and play on the team there, but has no desire to be either a professional or a coach.

LIPTON AWARDED PLACE IN FAMOUS YACHT SQUADRON

LONDON, May 14.—(AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, 81 year old British yachtsman, today was elected a member of the Royal Yacht squadron and henceforth the coveted white ensign will fly over his Shamrock.

The ensign is the exclusive emblem of the royal navy and royal squadron. All other yachts of Britain must be content with the red "duster" of the merchant fleet or, in special instances, the blue ensign.

Many British people were asking today, however, why the man who had done more for British yachting than any other should not have been accorded the honor of membership in the squadron years ago.

Lake View High Nine Beats Roosevelt, 6 to 2

A four run rally in the fourth inning enabled Lake View High school of the city league to defeat Roosevelt, 6 to 2, in a north section game at Welles park. It was Lake View's second victory of the season. Score:

Roosevelt	000	200	0—2 7 3
Lake View	200	400	*—6 10 1

BOWEN LOSES, 4 TO 3.

Berbek's single with two on in the eighth inning gave Fenger of the south section a 4 to 3 victory over Bowen at Grand Crossing park. Bill Haarlow, lanky Bowen hurler, was hurt in the seventh inning after allowing only one hit. Score:

Batteries—Haarlow, Orr and Galovich; Siefeig and Lord.

single to start the Sox on the road to their pair of runs in the home sixth. Fothergill was out on a fly to center, after which Eichrodt shot a single to right, Reynolds speeding to third. Appling fanned on three pitched balls. Kamm singled and Reynolds scored. Jolley, who thinks he'll be playing regularly inside of a few more days, was selected to bat for Tate and he smashed a double to right. Eichrodt scoring and Kamm stopping at third. Then Lyons whiffed to conclude the episode.

Lyons was on the spot again in the eighth, but a double play aided his escape. Foxx started the inning by beating out a bunt. At least Umpire Van Grnnfin decided it that way. Miller followed with a single between third and short. Dykes fanned for the third time, and when Boley bounced to Cissell the double play was produced.

Danny MacFayden probably will pitch for the Red Sox in the opener of a four game series today. Bush will start Red Faber. It will be ladies' day.

GERMAN RUNS 100 METERS IN :10.3 TO SURPASS RECORD

REGENSBURG, Germany, May 14.—(AP)—Helmuth Koernig, German titleholder at 100 and 200 meters, today ran the 100 meters in 10.3 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the listed world's record. He had a breeze at his back, making acceptance of the record doubtful.

The Athletic Almanac lists Charles Paddock and Eddie Tolan, both of the United States, as co-holders of the world's 100 meter record at 10.4 seconds.

Eureka Scores 4 in Ninth; Defeats Monmouth, 8-7

Monmouth, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Eureka college scored four runs in the ninth inning today to defeat Monmouth, 8 to 7, in a Little Nineteen conference baseball game. Statton's double was the chief factor in the rally.

Lake Forest Wins, 15 to 3, from Elmhurst College

Battering three pitchers for nineteen hits, the Lake Forest college baseball team yesterday defeated Elmhurst college, 15 to 3, at Elmhurst. Skopec held Elmhurst to eight hits.

Hold Trials in State Prep Meet Today

Champaign, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—The struggle for the Illinois High school track championship begins tomorrow afternoon when 529 athletes from 186 schools meet in the 37th annual presentation of the University of Illinois games, held in conjunction with the Illinois High School Athletic association. Preliminaries in all events, except the half mile, mile and relay, are scheduled for tomorrow.

Senn, champion of Chicago, coached by Don C. Seaton, former Illinois trackman and basketball player, is one of the favorites. Seaton has developed a bunch of hurdlers, headed by Pollard, who took seven out of eight places in the Chicago district meet.

Urbana Has Sprinter.

Oak Park, 1930 champion, triumphed in the district meet at La Grange but lacks potential first place winners, except possibly Orsorn in the shotput. Urbana, another district champion, has a crack sprinter in Portman, who has run the century in 9.7, and a good vaulter in Seely.

Metcalfe of Tilden has passed from the scene but Tilden, runner up in the Chicago meet, has a good dash man in Cameron.

Better State Marks.

Two district contestants bettered state marks. Stephen of Joliet put the shot [illegible] feet 11¼ inches, and Meagher of Depue has broad jumped 23 feet 2 inches.

880 yard run—Miller [Maine], 2:1.4.

220 yard low hurdles—Dittman [East Aurora], :26.

RUTH AGAIN IS LEADING MAJOR LEAGUE HITTERS

Babe Ruth clouted his way back into the batting lead of the baseball big six by hitting safely twice in four times at bat in the Yankees' rout of St. Louis. The Babe brought his average up to .415, while Al Simmons dropped to .402. Simmons hit his sixth homer of the season in four times up. Dale Alexander failed to connect in five attempts and lost his place among the American league leaders, Bob Fothergill of Chicago taking third at .393. Rain again stopped the National league leaders. Going Camping? Here Is an Easy Recipe for Bread

BY BOB BECKER.

With the opening of the trout season the outdoor fans who congregate in the north woods tilt the lid on the bannock season and out come the reflector ovens and the baking powder to make this sport of camp cooking a success. Already we have had a number of inquiries regarding a good bannock recipe which, if followed correctly, will produce a palatable bread that can be eaten without a hand ax.

When men must cook for themselves they generally turn to a baking powder recipe. Leavened bread usually is too much of a job in the woods. At least that has been our experience on dozens of field trips in Brazil, Peru, Bolivia, and many parts of North America. In using baking powder for some kind of bread the choice is usually between a bannock, or biscuit loaf, and baking powder biscuits. For breakfast, of course, the old reliable flapjack comes into its own. In Brazil we drew one more "masterpiece" out of a baking powder can—the dumpling to go on top of a stew.

Here is a good recipe for a bannock, or biscuit loaf, in camp. It makes a bread that bakes quickly; but it dries out easily, so don't bake too much at a time; and eat it when it is hot.

For two men in camp you need 1½ pints of flour, 1½ teaspoonfuls of baking powder, ½ heaping teaspoonful of salt, one heaping tablespoonful of cold grease, and a scant half pint of cold water. If you like a bread that is real "short" you can add a bit more grease than called for above.

Mix thoroughly (with a large spoon) the flour, salt, and baking powder. Then work the grease into this. You can use lard, drippings, or anything of this type that you have. We have seen trappers use cold pork fat and make good bread. The grease must be worked until there isn't a lump in the mixture nor any grease sticking to the bottom of the pan.

Now stir in the water and work it with a spoon until you have a rather stiff dough. Grease the pan, turn the loaf into it, and put it in your oven or in the skillet.

To test the loaf stick a sliver into the center. When the sliver comes out clean (with no dough attached) your bread is done.

MRS. HILL WINS IN GOLF TOURNEY AT BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., May 14.—(AP)—Breaking women's par with a 77, which accounted for her second course record in two days, Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City defeated Mrs. Carl Hess of Birmingham, 7 and 6, in the second round of the Mountain Brook Country club's invitation golf tournament today.

Mrs. Hill set a course record with an 80 yesterday, and today she cut three strokes from that mark.

Amateurs Fight Tonight at Johnny Coulon's Club

Eight bouts have been arranged for the regular amateur weekly card at the Johnny Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street, tonight. The main bouts follow:

Scotty Sylvano vs. Joe Russell.
Bobby Groshek vs. Ambrose Cohasra.
Eddie Greise vs. Buster Matthews.
Herman Krumdick vs. John Mesich.
Mat Emerson vs. Tom Kendall.
Art Hokansen vs. Jimmy Murray.

Miller Signs for Delmont Bout May 25

Miller, regarded as one of the hardest hitters in the 135 pound division, particularly with his left hand, has been one of the foremost contenders for several years. Delmont is also a terrific puncher.

Delmont made an impressive showing when he defeated Davey Abad at the Stadium last week. Abad was the first opponent of any consequence Delmont had been called upon to meet.

Miller is so confident of his ability to defeat Canzoneri for the championship that he has guaranteed Tony $35,000 for the Detroit fight. Defeat by Delmont would make it possible for Canzoneri to cancel the title fight on Miller.

Miller will arrive here Sunday night, along with Lawless and Jones, who will start training here Monday. Lawless will come from his home in Auburn, N. Y., and Jones will break training in Akron, O., to establish headquarters for a week at Howard's Arcade gym. Lawless will train at Mullen's gym.

Opponents are being sought for Hymie Wiseman, Des Moines bantamweight, and Charley Retzlaff of Duluth.

TILDEN TAKES 3D STRAIGHT MATCH FROM RICHARDS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 14.—(AP)—William T. Tilden II. of Philadelphia defeated Vincent Richards of New York, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2, in the third match of their professional indoor tennis series, played tonight at the Arena before 5,000 spectators.

It was Tilden's third straight victory, clinching the series.

PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Vincent Richards will have one more opportunity to defeat Big Bill Tilden when they play the contending match of the current series at the Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

Tilden, by his victory last night, definitely established his superiority over every professional player in the world.

The match in the Stadium undoubtedly will be the last between Tilden and Richards. Tilden expects to return to Hollywood immediately to continue his picture work. The next professional play is expected to be against Henri Cochet, France's celebrated Davis cup star, if Jack Curley, New York promoter, can prevail upon the Basque to forsake amateur ranks. Cochet, of all the amateurs, is the only man calculated to whip Tilden, the greatest court general in history.

a set of Spalding
Cushion-Neck Irons!

PERHAPS the budget had about nagged you into buying cheap clubs. Perhaps, rather than lay out a fairly large sum, you had decided to burden your bag with a set of misfits. Don't do it.

Under the new Spalding Deferred Payment Plan, you can buy any of Spalding's finest golf club sets by paying a small amount down and the rest in monthly payments.

The plan includes the famous Spalding Cushion-Neck Irons . . . the Irons played by 350 leading Professionals . . . the only Irons that combine the sweet feel of the very finest hickory with the straighter shots and other advantages of the steel shaft.

As an example: you can go to your Professional or to a Spalding Store, pay the initial payment of $10, and walk out with a six-club, Matched and Registered set of Cushion-Neck Irons. The remainder of the purchase price ($40.60) is divided into 4 equal monthly payments.

WALTER STRONG WILLS ESTATE TO WIDOW, CHILDREN

Value Set as "Not Over $2,500,000."

The will of Walter A. Strong, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, who died suddenly last Sunday, was filed yesterday in the Probate court. Pending an inventory of the estate placed a value of not to exceed $2,500,000 on the late publisher's holdings, exclusive of his two homes in Winnetka and on the Rock river near Dixon.

The will, which was drawn up in April, 1926, four months after Mr. Strong assumed control of the Daily News, bequeathed one-third of the estate to the widow and established a trust fund of the remaining two-thirds for the benefit of Mrs. Strong and their five children.

Stock Is Chief Holding.

The holdings of Mr. Strong consisted chiefly of his stock in the Daily News company, the definite amount of which was not indicated, except that Mr. Strong referred to his holdings as the controlling interest in the paper. It is understood his holdings comprised 65 per cent of the common stock of the newspaper company.

In his will, Mr. Strong gave the executors, who are Mrs. Strong, Laird Bell, attorney and director of the Daily News, and H. D. Pettibone, banker and intimate friend of the publisher, broad discretionary power in disposing of the estate.

Mr. Strong provided that members of the staff of the paper be given the first right to purchase his interest in the paper, if they care to, and are given three months in which to complete such a transaction.

Chance for Stockholders.

If this is not done, then other stockholders of the News will be given an additional month in which to acquire the Strong estate's interest in the paper. Then, in event the estate has not been disposed of, the executors may make a public offering of the stock.

Mr. Strong also provided that the estate could preserve its holdings if the executors thought such action would be best.

The country estate and Winnetka home of the Strongs were owned in joint tenancy and became the property of Mrs. Strong at her husband's death. They are not involved in the estate.

Plan to Conduct Paper.

In a statement setting forth the plans and purposes for executing the estate in its relations with the Daily News, the executors said their long and familiar association with Mr. Strong had given them an insight of the ideas and ideals for which he worked, and these, with the final suggestions contained in the will, would enable them to administer the controlling interest in the newspaper in a manner appropriate to its traditions, giving consideration to its staff and holding themselves, the executors, responsible for preserving the character of the Daily News.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Concerning the Departed

UNIVERSITY HEAD DIES; STARTED IN SCHOOL WHEN 22

Cancer Causes Death of Baylor President.

Waco, Tex., May 14.—(AP)—Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks, who began his common school education at the age of 22, graduated from college at 30, and became president of Baylor university 28 years ago, died here today.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for the educator and Southern Baptist leader.

The 67 year old university president had been awaiting death more than a week. His last days were cheerfully spent in conferring over university affairs, bidding good-bye to relatives and friends and preparing a farewell to the student body.

Knowing that he was on his death bed, he insisted on signing diplomas for this year's graduating class against the advice of physicians. He succeeded in signing about 300 of the more than 400 certificates before his strength failed him. Death was due to cancer.

As a young man he worked as a farm laborer and railroad section hand, supporting his invalid father, a Baptist minister. His opportunity for schooling did not come until he was 22. At 24 he entered the high school department of Baylor. He was graduated from the university at the age of 30 and received a degree later from Yale university.

Pat M. Neff, state railroad commissioner and former governor of Texas, is regarded as the probable successor of Dr. Brooks. Mr. Neff is chairman of the board of trustees of the university.

RUSSIAN PRINCE, PRINCESS WED IN N. Y. BY A JUDGE

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Princess Anna Alexis Obolensky, daughter of Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky, was married today to Prince Serge Gregory Troubetzkoy by Justice Joseph W. Keller in chambers.

They will be married in a religious ceremony in August in the orthodox church on the estate of Prince Obolensky near Paris.

Prince Serge Gregory Troubetzkoy is the son of the late Prince Gregory Troubetzkoy of Moscow.

Prof. William N. Trueblood of Earlham College Dead

Richmond, Ind., May 14.—[Special.]—William Newby Trueblood, professor emeritus of English of Earlham college, connected with the college as student and instructor for more than sixty years, died at his home here last night. He has been ill several years.

Michigan Doctor, a Civil War Veteran, Dies at 83

Coldwater, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—Dr. L. C. Hatton, 83, physician here for nearly a quarter of a century, died here today. He served with distinction in the civil war and was a member of Butterworth post, G. A. R. here. His widow, four children, nine grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren survive him.

CANNON MAKES CALL ON NYE TO LEARN OF PLANS FOR HEARINGS

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Bishop James Cannon Jr. called today on Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota Radical Republican and chairman of the senatorial campaign expenditures committee, to learn what further inquiry the committee intended to make into his handling of campaign funds in 1928.

For answer the bishop learned that Senator Nye was leaving today for New York to consult with Senators Dale (Rep., Vt.) and Wagner (Dem., N. Y.), committee members, and it was reported that New York hearings might be held.

It is understood that one of the matters the senators will discuss concerns the source of the $65,000 which was given the bishop by E. C. Jameson of New York for use in the Virginia anti-Smith campaign in 1928. Jameson testified to the contribution before the senate lobby committee last spring, but rumors have persisted that the money came from still further back and perhaps had an interested Republican source.

It is also understood that the committee will consider the advisability of delving deeper into the bucket shop speculative activities in which Bishop Cannon was shown to have indulged as a side line to his clerical work.

Still a third matter to be discussed concerns the course to be taken in the case of Miss Ada L. Burroughs, treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith committee, who refused to testify at last week's committee hearing when irregularities in the bishop's handling of the Jameson fund were brought out.

Arthur Turney, Newspaper Worker, Taken by Death

Chicago associates learned yesterday of the death at El Paso, Tex., of Arthur Turney, a member of the Chicago Herald and Examiner editorial staff. Mr. Turney, who was 35 years old, died yesterday morning following a lingering illness arising from a pulmonary ailment which physicians found difficult to diagnose. Mr. Turney had been connected with the Los Angeles Express, the Associated Press, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and was for a time city editor of a Miami newspaper before joining the Examiner staff here. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruth Durkee Turney, and two children. His home was at 1124 Noyes street, Evanston.

Trio Trail Policeman; He Arrests Them, Takes Guns

Policeman Robert Dennis of the traffic division was off duty last night and was on his way to the fireworks display in Grant park when he noticed at Wabash avenue and Roosevelt road that three men were following him. He turned around, made them hold up their hands and found when he searched them that two had pistols. They are Frank Gordon, 19 years old, and Alfred Grieshaber, 23 years old, both of 24½ East Roosevelt road. The third man is John Cooper, colored, 21 East 31st street, a pugilist. All were taken to the detective bureau by Dennis.

Glenn E. Couse, Railway Official, Dies in Detroit

Detroit, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—Glenn E. Couse, assistant general agent and superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad here, died tonight in Grace hospital following a brief illness. Mr. Couse was 54 years old and a native of North Benton, O. He was associated with the railroad 32 years at Cleveland, Chicago, and Detroit.

Sergeant's Mother Dies While Attending Mass

E. H. Benjamin, 99, Pioneer Canada Journalist, Dies

OTTAWA, May 14.—(AP)—Emanuel Hyman Benjamin, 99, who founded the Intelligencer, a newspaper at Belleville, Ont., is dead. He was born in New Orleans, La., of English parents.

ONE KILLED, ONE CRITICALLY HURT BY HIT-RUN AUTO

One man was killed and another was probably fatally injured early this morning when they were struck by an automobile while waiting for a street car at Grand and Normandy avenues. The motorist did not stop.

The police in their early investigation were unable to learn the identity of the dead man, who was about 55 years old. His injured companion, who was taken to the Keystone hospital, was identified from papers in his pockets as William Strong, 35 years old, 2730 North Rutherford avenue.

The death and three others, which occurred yesterday, increased the Cook county motor toll to 421 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Arthur Frasca, 4 years old, 3636 Arthington street. Killed when he was struck by an auto being driven by John Metzenberg, 5318 Hyde Park boulevard, while playing in the street near Arthington street and Lawndale avenue.

Mrs. Bertha Jann, 76 years old, 3117 North Racine avenue. Died at the American hospital of injuries received May 6 when she was struck by a car at Fletcher street and Racine avenue. Harry Groth, 2650 Homer street, was the driver of the car.

Morris Wexler, 68 years old, 3125 West 15th street. Fatally injured at 13th street and Des Plaines avenue, in Forest Park, by an automobile driven by Arthur Kettleson, 1111 Grace street, Park Ridge. He died a short while later at the Oak Park hospital.

VIOLENT QUAKE SHAKES PERSIA; PEOPLE IN PANIC

TEHERAN, Persia, May 14.—(AP)—A number of houses were reported destroyed by a severe earthquake in the Zangazour district today. The disturbance also was felt in Tabriz. There was panic among the population of the region and many persons were camping in the open. It was not known here whether any one perished.

Begin Inquiry on Death of Youth; Suspect Poison

An investigation was started yesterday into the cause of the death on Wednesday of Thomas Meyer, 17 years old, 632 West North avenue. The youth had been under medical treatment since January. At the county hospital several weeks ago his trouble was diagnosed as acute neuritis, possibly due to arsenic poisoning. Dr. A. A. Hecht, 456 West North avenue, said that there was a possibility that Meyer had been a victim of Jamaica ginger paralysis. A post-mortem examination of the body was made last night at the mortuary at 2337 North Clark street, by Coroner's Physician Paul Schmitt, and tests for poison will be made.

Burial is to be in Memorial Park cemetery, Niles Center. The widow, Ethel Kingsbury Barr, and three children, Janice, Robert Kingsbury and Judith, survive.

MONTREAL PAPER FIGHTS SLUMP BY HIRING MORE MEN

MONTREAL, May 14. — (AP) — The Montreal Star announced today as a contribution to relieve unemployment and distress that it will lay off no hands for a year except for admitted cause, and will add at least one person in each department. It recommends this as a policy for all prosperous business concerns with a view to increasing buying power and reducing idleness.

"There are lots of businesses sufficiently prosperous," it says, "to declare a moratorium against sacking and to keep the numbers of their employés at the present figure. Many can do better and increase these numbers."

The Star appeals to stable concerns to consider the hungry and restore the morale of the unemployed. "The best way to do this," it says, "is to expand their pay rolls for a year until the crisis is over."

Rheumatism Pains
Stop in 7 to 10 Minutes
Prove it FREE

Was Unable to Walk

"I have been afflicted for ten years with my back, which gave me untold suffering. I have also had painful feet, and at times was unable to walk. Your MUSCLETONE has helped me wonderfully, and since using your remedy, I am able to get about without much difficulty, something I have not been able to do for the past six years. Your MUSCLETONE was really a Godsend to me, and I will be very happy to recommend it to all suffering with rheumatic trouble or muscular pain."—Mrs. Lina Palmer, 14 Mull Street, Akron, Ohio.

Could Scarcely Walk

"About four months ago I had a very lame knee, having been seriously hurt in an accident years ago. I have been suffering with rheumatism and could scarcely walk. I sent for a trial bottle of MUSCLETONE, used it and began to get relief almost immediately. I purchased two regular sized bottles and the stiffness and soreness is almost all gone. I apply it twice a day and am very glad to tell you it is the greatest remedy I ever used and I would not be without it. I am 66 years old."—William G. Whitsett, 611 Bridge St., Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Here is the new way to end the pains of rheumatism. And you just rub it on. That's all. And the pain is gone in 7 to 10 minutes. No drugs, no narcotics, no internal dosing. Simply a remarkable "rub-on" liquid called MUSCLETONE. Never blisters, never irritates even the most delicate skin. But it ends the pain so quickly it is almost miraculous.

ENDS PAIN or Costs You Nothing

To prove to yourself that MUSCLETONE is the quickest and surest way to end rheumatism pains, do this. Get a bottle at your druggist's. Follow the simple directions. Rub it on wherever you have the ache or pain. You will get instant relief—the pain will go. If it doesn't, if MUSCLETONE fails, simply return the bottle to the druggist and get your money back. That is the way over two million bottles have been put in American homes. Quick relief—or no pay. Try MUSCLETONE on this money-back guarantee. You will be delighted at the new ease, new comfort it brings to you.

BRITAIN GIVES UP CONSTRUCTION OF ALL DIRIGIBLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14.—Great Britain will build no more airships. The R-100, sister ship of the ill fated R-101, will be reconditioned and maintained for experimental purposes. There will be no more spectacular airship flights.

These were the main features of Great Britain's future airship policy, disclosed by Prime Minister MacDonald in the house of commons today.

"Airships to date have neither proved a failure nor achieved success," declared Mr. MacDonald. "The government will reduce equipment to a point sufficient to maintain scientific experimental interest in airship development. The Cardington airship base will be kept as a nucleus. Foreign bases will be maintained at Ismaila, Egypt; Karachi, India, and Montreal."

ENGLISH BANK CUTS DISCOUNT RATE TO 2½%

Easy Money Trend Widens in U. S.

BY C. A. MATHER.

The trend toward easy money rates throughout the world was evidenced yesterday when the Bank of England reduced its discount rate from 3 to 2½ per cent, which latter is the lowest rate made since 1907. While the reduction has been expected in view of the establishing of a 1½ per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve bank and the following through by other American reserve banks, will considerable significance was attributed to the English action.

It is evident that English bankers no longer fear the loss of gold. The bank of England in recent weeks has readily accumulated gold from other countries. In the last week its gold reserve gained about £7,500,000, bringing its reserve above £150,000,000, which is the highest level since last December. In this circumstance, British bankers are as anxious as our American colleagues to encourage trade by low interest rates.

Belgium Bank Takes Action.

Easy money rates spread further as the United States yesterday. The National federal reserve bank lowered its rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent, making the eighth reduction institution to reduce rates in seven weeks. Of the four banks that have not made reductions, Kansas City and Minneapolis are on a 3½ per cent basis and Atlanta and San Francisco have a 3 per cent rate.

Thus far, abnormally low money rates have had little effect on business and industry. While the bond market has been stimulated to some extent, there has been no similar effect on the stock market either in encouraging activity or advancing prices. The amount of credit devoted to speculation last week shrunk to a new low level, according to the weekly report on brokers' loans by the federal reserve board. The total on Wednesday stood at $1,671,000,000, a decline of $28,000,000 for the week. Brokers' loans totaled $4,007,000,000 a year ago, making a shrinkage of $2,336,000,000 in the last year.

With the call loan rate in New York ranging between 1 and 1½ per cent there was small incentive for money to seek employment there. Instead banks withdrew $54,000,000 and private lenders drew down $41,000,000. However, the New York banks loaned their loans by $67,000,000.

Gold Demand Shrinks.

The demand for credit for commercial purposes also underwent a shrinkage in the last week, according to the weekly report of the federal reserve system. The member banks reduced their borrowings at the reserve banks by $5,258,000, bringing the total down to $144,964,000. The reserve banks also contracted the credit supplied by disposing of $40,761,000 of bankers' acceptances. Their note circulation declined $12,473,000, while deposits rose $11,641,000. Gold and total reserves increased $38,232,000 and $43,-000,000, respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities rose to 84.5 per cent, compared with 83.4 per cent last week.

The New York Reserve bank made no change in its 1½ per cent rediscount rate. It reported the week's inflow of gold at $20,169,000, chiefly from Argentina, and no exports or changes in gold earmarked for foreign account. Its statement showed an increase of $6,625,000 in member bank reserves, which now stand at $31,-000,000. However, the reserve bank sold $27,850,000 of bankers' acceptances and $15,000,000 of government securities. Deposits expanded $25,-000,000. Reserves increased $80,707,-000, and the reserve ratio rose to 90.4 per cent, compared with 87.5 per cent a week ago.

The Chicago reserve bank reported a decline of $1,371,000 in member bank reserves, which now stand at $12,-000,000, and bankers' acceptances also declined $2,662,000. Deposits fell $13,-000,000. Reserves declined $7,858,000, but the reserve ratio rose to 86.7 per cent, compared with 86.1 per cent last week.

American Locomotive Co. Reduces Dividend Again

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—The American Locomotive company today reduced the dividend on the common stock for the third time within a year when the directors ordered payment of 25 cents a share on June 30, thus placing it on a $1 annual basis.

For a period of four years beginning in 1925 the American Locomotive company had paid $8 a share annually. At about this time last year the directors ordered a cut to $4 annually by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1 a share. A second reduction to 50 cents a share was made in the final quarter of 1930, thus placing the stock on a $2 annual basis. The American Locomotive company earned $1.41 a share on the common stock last year. It drew out of surplus to the extent of $2,381,442 to complete dividends paid on the stock.

Two large foreign oil companies declared final dividends for 1930 at rates lower than for 1929 following announcement yesterday of a similar reduction by the Shell Transport and Trading company from 15 to 7½ per cent. The companies acting today were Burman Oil company, which declared a final of 12½ per cent on the common, making 22½ per cent for the year against 30 per cent for 1929, and the Royal Dutch company for working of wells in Netherlands Indies, which voted a final dividend of 7 per cent, compared with a final dividend of 14 per cent a year ago. This makes a total for the year by Royal Dutch of 17 per cent, compared with 24 per cent last year.

Pays Usual Extra.

Directors of Alabama, Great Southern railroad today declared the usual extra dividend of $1.50 a share each on the common and preferred stocks and regular semi-annual dividends of $2 a share on each class of stock. The two extras mean dividend income of $189,945 for Southern railway, which owns 92,130 shares of Alabama Great Southern common and 34,500 shares of preferred.

Directors of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway company declared the regular semi-annual dividend of $4 on common stock, payable June 24 to stockholders of record June 5. Directors of the Missouri Pacific railroad voted the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the preferred stock.

The most important foreign copper company, the Union Miniere du Haut Katanga, declared a final dividend of 240 Belgian francs a share, compared with 300 francs paid last year.

Buckeye Steel Castings company declared an initial dividend of 50 cents on the common and of $1.62½ on the preferred. Niagara Falls Smelting and Refining company deferred dividends due at this time on the A and B stocks. William H. Wise & Co., deferred action on the preferred dividend. Railroad Shares corporation declared a dividend of 10 cents. Previously the stock had been receiving 12½ cents quarterly. Lindsay Nunn Publishing company of Chicago omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents due on the preferred.

Payments Due Today.

Dividends will be paid tomorrow on 227 stock issues, including industrial, railroad and public utility corporation shares and bank stocks. Among the more important corporations which will make payments are the American Can company, which will pay the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on its common stock and the Bethlehem Steel corporation, which will pay $1.50 a share on the common. The directors recently cut the dividend to $1 quarterly, but that does not go into effect until the second quarterly payment, to be made Aug. 15.

The Allis-Chalmers company will pay 50 cents a share on the common stock, compared with 75 cents the previous quarter. Columbia Gas and Electric will pay 50 cents a share. R. H. Macy & Co. will pay 75 cents a share, compared with 50 cents the previous quarter, the rate having been raised 25 cents a share. The Sherwin-Williams company will pay a regular dividend of $1 a share and in addition will pay an extra dividend of 12½ cents a share on the common stock.

Pullman Dividend.

Pullman, Inc., will pay the regular dividend of $1 a share on the common stock. Dividends will be paid on the preferred and common stocks of the Hershey Chocolate company. Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation will pay the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the preferred stock. Tidewater Oil will pay the regular $1.25 a share on the preferred.

Redemption of bonds will be made in twenty-three different issues, but amounts are small and in nearly all instances represent retirements under sinking fund provisions.

Rights to subscribe to new issues will expire and payments will fall due in the case of five corporations.

STANDARD OIL OF N. J. REPORTS $42,150,662 CONSOLIDATED NET

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Consolidated net profit of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for 1930 was $42,150,662, a decrease of $73,762,132 from the comparative 1929 total of $120,912,794. The 1930 total is equivalent to $1.65 a share on the 25,518,468 shares outstanding at the end of 1929. Dividends paid during 1930 amounted to $50,929,686.

W. C. Teagle, president of the company, in the annual report says considerable advantage to the petroleum industry would have resulted from the curtailment program except for the fact that "refiners as a whole failed to scale down their operations to a point at which the finished stocks could be profitably marketed," although the industry entered the year with excessive gasoline stocks.

"In order to obtain a market for their increased crude production some producers, who are also refiners, manufacture too much gasoline," Mr. Teagle writes in discussing domestic marketing conditions.

"Thus instead of allowing the consumer to dictate the amount of gasoline needed and the refiner to notify the producer of the crude required to supply the gasoline, the process has been completely reversed."

Taxes paid directly by the company and its subsidiaries last year amounted to $29,453,535 and taxes on gasoline collected for state governments totaled almost $33,000,000. The combined total of approximately $63,000,000 exceeded the net profit.

Mr. Teagle concludes his report by saying the industry in the last decade "has attracted capital in excess of its actual requirements, resulting in an over-expansion of all its facilities."

Ayres Cites Problems to Be Faced in Trade Revival

Although the bottom of depression has been reached and passed, there still remain several serious problems to be solved before a full return to prosperity can be assured. The present and prospective situations of trade and industry and the problems to be faced are discussed by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, well known economist, in the current monthly review of the Cleveland Trust company, of which he is vice president.

"It is probably true that in so far as industrial production is concerned the reaching of the bottom of this depression has already ceased to be a matter for prophecy, and has become one of history," Col. Ayres says. "The figures of the federal reserve board probably furnish the most accurate available measurements of the physical volume of industrial output in this country. They tell us that if we consider the average national production of industrial goods during the three years of 1923, 1924, and 1925 as being equal to 100, the output rose to 126 in June of 1929, and then started on the long decline that carried it down to 82 by last December. That was a fall of 35 per cent.

"Since last December industrial production has been increasing, and by March it had advanced six points to 88. It seems quite unlikely that it will return to its December low point, and we are probably justified in concluding that business has reached the bottom of the depression, and is now bumping along there.

Varies with Output.

"Prosperity varies with production. Two years ago both were high, and now both are low. Even without referring to any statistical evidence we may all carry the statement further, and say that both prosperity and production in this country were at levels well above normal two years ago, and that they are seriously below normal now. We may add, moreover, from the memory of our own observations, that the change from prosperity to depression has taken place on previous occasions, and that after earlier periods of depression the nation has always emerged from the hard times, and enjoyed prosperity once more.

"The crucial question concerning this depression is no longer that of its depth, but rather that of its probable duration. The answer depends on so many changing factors, both domestic and foreign, that the outcome cannot be clearly foreseen. Many of the readjustments that are prerequisites to recovery have been completed, and others are under way, but little progress has so far been made toward solving some of our most difficult fundamental problems.

"One of these is how to maintain high industrial wages in a country in which agricultural incomes are sharply curtailed, and in a world in the rest of which the prices of industrial products have dropped and the wages of industrial workers have declined.

Means of Relief.

"A second problem is how to continue to receive payments on our foreign loans and investments while decreasing our imports and restricting our foreign lending.

"A third problem is how to conserve the values of the many billions of dollars' worth of railroad securities on which our insurance companies and mutual thrift institutions largely depend, when the traffic rates permitted by federal regulation are insufficient to meet the operating costs and fixed charges of many of the roads.

"Since the roads are now economizing to a degree detrimental to their properties, it would appear that relief can be had either through large tax reductions, severe wage cuts, or an increase in freight rates. A small rate increase would insure safety, and of the three alternatives would be the most economically sound."

HEAVY WITHDRAWALS FORCE 3 NORTHWEST SIDE BANKS TO CLOSE

Three northwest side banks—the Albany Park National Bank and Trust company, 3424 Lawrence avenue; the Humboldt State bank, 2722 West North avenue, and the Second Humboldt State bank, North and Sawyer avenues—were closed yesterday at the request of directors of the institutions.

The Albany Park bank, in its statement as of March 25, last, showed total resources of $3,130,591, deposits of $2,299,520, and capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits of $375,507.

Resources of $3,956,444 were shown by the Humboldt State bank as of the same date, deposits aggregating about $3,000,000 and the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits amounting to $736,014. The Second Humboldt State, which is under the same management, showed total resources of $772,034, with deposits amounting to $637,728 and capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits aggregating $131,062.

Steady withdrawals of deposits since March 25, which accounted for the closing of the banks, materially reduced the figures reported in the last call for statement of conditions.

A meeting of the depositors of the Crawford State Savings bank will be held next Sunday, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, at the Lawndale theater, it was announced by Daniel A. Uretz, attorney for the depositors' protective reorganiatizon committee. The vote of depositors in matters regarding the reorganization plan, and a report to bondholders of the bank, will be the business of the meeting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—Heavy selling in railroad and steel shares swept the stock list down to sharply lower levels today. United States Steel common hit 106¼ on a drop of more than 3 points and numerous other trading favorites registered declines of anywhere from 2 to 6 points. Auburn Auto, with its wonted bent for outdoing all comers, took a nose dive for 31 points.

It was a headachy day all around. The bull professionals who have been talking so confidently of an inevitable rally on technical grounds appear to have lost heart completely for the time being and, with the public out of it, the market is faring like a little lost orphan. There was little effort to resist the selling movement in any quarter today.

News Cupboard Bare.

The news budget once more was as bare of nourishment for either faction as Mother Hubbard's cupboard was of bones, the only item to attract more than passing notice being the overnight announcement of the cut in the Bank of England's discount rate and even this did not appear to arouse any serious interest. The British cut was generally interpreted as evidence of an agreement between the New York and London central banks on a program calling for excessive easing of money rates in an effort to revive business, but money has been so abnormally cheap for so long hereabouts that it has long since ceased to become a factor in the average trader's market calculations.

There was no fresh development in sight to explain the acute weakness in the railroad shares and the street is not a little puzzled by the situation prevailing in this quarter. Naturally the poor earnings reports which the companies have been putting out have not been designed to stimulate any wild enthusiasm for the shares, but the character of the selling, especially in some of the leaders of the group, has been of a nature to create no little speculative comment.

With the growing liquidation has been noted a borrowing demand that has been assuming substantial proportions, particularly since the beginning of the week. The latter development naturally carries the suggestion that while liquidation is undoubtedly an important factor selling for bear

RADIO EXPORTS INCREASE DURING FIRST QUARTER

The commerce department announced yesterday that during the first three months of the year exports totaled $2,927,113, as compared with $1,936,846 in the same period of last year.

Treasury Bill Offering Is Heavily Oversubscribed

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The treasury announced today that the two series of treasury bills to be dated May 18 were heavily oversubscribed. A total of $195,765,000 was applied for in the $50,000,000 offering of 60 day bills, while applications for the $50,000,000 issue of 91 day bills aggregated $263,301,000. The total amount accepted for the 60 day bills was $50,102,000, at an average price of 99.833; of the 91 day bills, $50,000,000 was accepted at an average price of 99.745.

Finds "No Inflation" in Cleveland Electric Co.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—A federal trade commission accountant said today that after a three year search he had found a large operating public utility "which conforms to the best ideals of public regulation."

The witness, Judson C. Dickerman, testified he found no inflation in the Cleveland Electric Illuminating company, which supplies power to Cleveland and other Ohio communities. He added its rates were moderate and its security issues were founded on property values and earnings. He praised the company's relations with its employés and said it was prosperous. Dickerman said the study of the concern "may be valuable in final analysis of the results of this investigation."

The commission was directed to examine financial and publicity activities of privately owned utilities by the senate and its report is expected sometime next year.

EXPECT CHINESE TO CALL WORLD SILVER PARLEY

SHANGHAI, May 14.—(AP)—Chinese banking circles indicated today the Nationalist government was expected to inaugurate a movement seeking an international silver conference in China. T. V. Soong, minister of finance, was expected to lead the movement.

News that the government might take the initiative in seeking a conference was indicated shortly after the receipt at Nanking of requests that the administration act in that direction as suggested by the International Chamber of Commerce at Washington May 9.

U. S. Ready to Accept.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—It was said on high authority at the state department today that if an invitation came from the Chinese government, the American government would accept and participate in an international silver conference. The only diplomatic discussions between the Chinese and American governments—both of which are affected by the greatly diminished price of silver—were some time ago when Minister Wu of China told the state department that his government was favorably inclined toward an international silver conference.

Congress Trust & Savings Ends Fourth Year Today

The Congress Trust and Savings will observe its fourth anniversary today. Deposits have grown from $900,000 to $4,020,303 as shown in the last statement of condition. The institution is headed by William F. Gregson who is 37 years old and one of the youngest bank presidents in Chicago.

Chrysler Dealers Hold Jubilee Meeting Here

J. E. Fields, president of the Chrysler Sales corporation, addressed a meeting of Chrysler dealers and distributers in the Chicago district at the Lake Shore Athletic club yesterday in connection with the presentation of the new Chrysler eight. Mr. Fields stated that the Chrysler plant at Detroit is working at capacity. Others to talk were E. B. Wilson, director of sales, and B. A. Rupprecht, president of the Chrysler Illinois company. Mr. Rupprecht was enthusiastic in his comments on the Chicago Jubilee, saying it should serve as a stimulus to business. Following the meeting scores of Chrysler cars participated in a parade down Michigan avenue.

LOWER PRICES RULE IN CHICAGO STOCK TRADING

Fractional Changes Prevail; Volume Sags.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Professional traders on the Chicago exchange had little else to do but sell the market yesterday with the king pin of industrial stocks, United States Steel, breaking to a new seven year low on the New York board. But even that significant event failed to bring out much liquidation either real or professional.

Uniformly lower prices ruled throughout the list, but the variations from the previous day's quotations were not large. The 65,000 odd shares of stock which were exchanged represented one of the lightest trading days on the market in the last twelve months.

Adds to Uncertainty.

With the directors of a number of large corporations meeting for dividend action during the day in many cases results of which were not known when the market closed, created a certain suspense and made for caution on the part of traders.

One of the features of the day was a nine point slump in Chicago City and Connecting railway 5s. The issue brought only $9 on a transaction involving bonds of a par value of $2,000. The uncertainty which still exists with regard to the reorganization of the transit companies has had an adverse influence on the market for the traction securities. Another bond issue, Spruce Falls 5½s, which put in its first appearance on the tape in many months, was quoted at 94⅜, as compared with its previous price at 99.

The customary market leaders were quiet and slightly lower. The 1¼ point shrinkage in Insull Utility was generally typical of the action of the active shares. The usually active automotive stocks were plainly in the doldrums.

Reports Sales Gain.

The general conviction among brokers that the market is in a strong technical condition offers little consolation to holders of securities who are waiting for the end of the current decline in prices. One solicitor who was attempting to comfort a discouraged bull by telling him that the market's technical condition was strong got little thanks for his efforts.

A statement issued yesterday by the National standard company reporting April sales the largest in the last eleven months received no market response. W. F. Harrah, president, said that May sales will probably equal those of last month. In normal times the second half of the company fiscal year, which begins April 1, is the more prosperous, he added.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks were lower yesterday. American Superpower, Associated Gas A, De Forest, Corporate Trust, and Universal Trust and American Corporation constituted fractionality to around their lowest levels of the year. Chicago Rivet lost a point of Pneumocleer closed unchanged.

Cattle and hogs made a good showing on yesterday's market, the former moving away from the low point of the season for the first time this week. Light grades were noted in most weights and classes of cattle when only 1,000 were unloaded on the market. Hogs made a strong comeback after a fluid lower opening and some of the lightest weights finished 5@10c higher. Lambs, however, were pounded down 10c on a dull session, bulk of sheep selling on afternoon rounds.

Activity featured the hog market early, with top and general average prices steady at $7.25 and 10@15c respectively. Prevailing quotations are steady to 10c higher than at the close of last week, with light hogs and pigs outselling all other weights for the first time in recent weeks.

A drop in supplies added zest to trading, and with another shortage reported in sight for today, about 7,000 hogs were held off the market for today's session. The eleven leading packers handled 74,000 hogs yesterday against 81,000 the previous Thursday. Five of the western markets exhibited 61,000 today against 54,000 last year.

Sizeable Hogs Bring $7.50.

A fair carload of heavy hogs sold for next September delivery at $7.50 on the futures market yesterday. The light hogs were offered at $7.75 and $7.80, while light weights for September were offered at $8.00. Medium weights for September were offered at $7.85 and bid $7.35. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today's delivery were bid $7.25, while medium averaging 210@260 lbs were bid $6.80 and heavy grades averaging 260@310 lbs carried bids of $6.50.

Lighter supplies had a "tonic" effect on the cattle market and sales were successful in raising quotations some, although buyers are not eager to take on much stock at higher prices. Salesmen are advising the country to lead lightly for the next few days and keep the market headed the right way. Reports of plenty of feed in the coolers make a reaction in prices almost a certainty if receipts are increased too quickly. Twenty of the leading markets during the first four days of the week handled 26,000 more cattle than a week ago, a decrease of about 14 per cent. Fancy yearling steers were absent yesterday and $10 steers topped the market at $9.25.

Sheep Receipts Small.

Buyers held the upper hand in the lamb market yesterday in spite of scant supplies and losses of 50c were recorded after considerable bucking over prices during the first half of the session. Receipts at 10,000 were the smallest for Thursday since Dec. 5. A large shipment of California spring lambs sold at $10.50 against $11.00 Wednesday. A scattering of choice 90@75 lb native springers were steady at $11.50@12.00, but some of the poorer grades ranged down to $8@10.00. Aged wool lambs of quality had to go at $9.00@9.25, and best 75 lb shorn lambs topped at $7.75. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 1,605 cattle, 9,000 hogs, and 11,084 sheep, the previous Friday, and 1,830 cattle, 12,807 hogs, and 6,774 sheep, a year ago.

Columbia Gas & Electric Reports Quarterly Net

Columbia Gas and Electric corporation yesterday reported first quarter earnings of $6,940,011, compared with $10,551,961 in the same period of 1930. Gross revenues amounted to $31,987,800, against $30,768,047. The company, said Philip G. Gossler, president, was largely due to industrial conditions and the depressed prices for gasoline and oil. In the twelve months ended March 31 net income totaled $33,018,896, or $1.89 a common share, against $34,855,549, or $2.13, in the period ended March 31, 1930.

HEAR GRAIN CORP. SEEKS STORAGE ROOM ON BOATS

Wheat and Corn Prices Close Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered liquidation developed in the grain markets yesterday and with a lack of aggressive support prices dropped 1¼@2c on wheat and 1¼@2¼c on corn with the finish about the bottom, with the July leading. Rumors that the Stabilization Corporation was attempting to charter boats to be used for the storage of grain which would relieve the local public elevator situation had some effect on the July futures, as the only grain in public houses can be delivered during that month except during the last three business days when country run grain is a valid tender in carlots.

Weakness in the stock market in Wall Street with a forecast for showers in northern Alberta and Saskatchewan, and a decline of ⅝@1¼d in Liverpool furnished the bearish influences in wheat, and while there was fair support at times from holders of bids the finish was at the bottom with net losses of 1¼@1⅜c on the deferred futures with July, 61⅞@62c; September, 61½@61¾c, and December, 65@65¼c, while old May was ¾c lower at 82½@82¾c.

Bullish News Ignored.

Wheat traders paid little attention to routine news throughout the day, and the prospect of some rain being received in the Canadian northwest, which has been suffering from drought the greater part of the spring was sufficient to start a selling movement which disclosed a somewhat overbought condition. July at the inside touched 61⅞c, or 2¾c under the high of the previous day, and was within ⅛c of the low point of the previous week.

Dry weather reports with claims of high temperatures came from the Canadian northwest, and high winds were said to be causing soil drifting in some sections. The first damage reports of the season were also received during the day, coming from the Regina territory, where newly seeded grain has been blown out of the soil and reseeding is regarded as impossible urtil rain is received.

Early reports suggested a lack of foreign demand for cash wheat but the break resulted in a liberal business, sales of Canadian grain in all positions being finally estimated at 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bu. Winnipeg closed 1¼c lower with July at 62¼c, while Liverpool was off ⅝@1¼d with July at 67⅛c.

Seeding in Russia while making progress is materially less advanced than last year. An official report showed 37 per cent of the contemplated spring wheat area had been seeded by May, while on May 10 last year 67 per cent had been completed. Baltimore cleared 392,000 bu hard winter for export.

Farmers in Texas have started to sell new winter wheat, and according to reports received from that state the price is around 40c per bu at country loading points.

Corn Market Weak.

A weak undertone prevailed in corn, and reports that outside markets were offering cash grain to come here while purchases to arrive of 28,000 bu were 6,000 bu in excess of the amounts sold for shipment during the day. Fair and warmer weather over the west also relieved apprehension of delayed planting.

Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, and there was some selling of corn against purchases of wheat. The finish was at net losses of 1@2¼c with May, 57⅝@57½c; July, 58⅛@58¾c; September, 57½c, and December, 59¼c. At no time did the market show a pronounced disposition to rally, and there was also a lack of support from a leading local operator who has been on the bull side of late.

Longs Sell May, Oats.

Scattered commission house liquidation was on in May oats, and while cash interests were fair buyers. Weakness in corn offset all other influences and the finish was ⅝@⅞c lower with May, 27¾c; July, 28⅛c; September, 28¼c, and December, 30⅝c.

Cash and elevator interests were on the buying side of the nearby deliveries of rye and they held up well in the face of the break in other grains, although the finish was at net losses of ⅞@1¼c with May, 37⅞c; July, 39c; September, 38⅞c, and December, 42¼c.

HEAVY TONE IN COTTON

Cotton prices were on the downgrade most of yesterday and closed at practically the bottom. Weak cables, good weather, break in stocks and grain combined with foreign selling, all contributed to make a weak and lower market for cotton. Offerings were absorbed by shorts and the trade. April consumptive figures were a little less than expected, 508,744 bales, against 531,911 bales last year. Futures in Chicago closed 11@16 points lower. New Orleans off 11@14 and New York lost 11@14 points. In the latter market spots dropped 15 points to 9.60c, with New Orleans off 5 points to 9.35c, while Galveston was 9.50c and Houston 9.40c. Liverpool closed 3@4 points net lower with spot sales of 7,000 bales, one-half being American. Prices follow:

To the Holders of 5% Gold Debentures, Series A, due September 1, 1953, and 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock of

Rochester Central Power Corporation:

We wish to remind you that the period for depositing your securities for exchange for the Convertible 5% Gold Debentures and $6 Dividend Series Preferred Stock, respectively, pursuant to our offers of January 16, 1931, will expire at the close of business on May 18th, and to advise you that such period will not be further extended. The total amount of Debentures not yet deposited is less than 33%, and the corresponding figure for the preferred stock less than 15%, of the entire amount of such securities originally outstanding.

Any holder who wishes to make the exchange and deposit his securities with The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, Depositary, but is unable to make such deposit before the offer so expires, should notify Associated Gas & Electric Securities Co., 61 Broadway, New York City, to that effect on or before May 18, since the exact amount of our securities to be delivered on the exchange must be ascertained not later than such date.

As you have previously been advised, the above mentioned offers have been approved by the bankers who originally offered such securities of Rochester Central Power Corporation, namely, Manufacturers Trust Company, W. C. Langley & Co. and Bonbright & Company, Incorporated.

Very truly yours,

ASSOCIATED GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY,

Secretary.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Bearishness featured the gossip at the close of the grain markets yesterday, reflecting the uneasiness in the stock and financial situation. Traders said the wheat market had been oversold of late and that liquidation had been heavy and thorough. Crop conditions in the southwest are regarded as near perfect as possible and promise to be a big factor in offsetting any average loss in the northwest. Buyers of Wednesday were the principal sellers Thursday. In some quarters there was a disposition to look for a rally unless cables come lower today and the northwest gets rain.

Grain traders were interested in the report that the farm board had made large charters for boats to load wheat out of public storage in Chicago to make room for corn that might come in to fill May and July sales.

It started a selling movement in wheat and corn futures and was largely responsible for a break of almost 2c. It was assumed by traders that with additional room for corn there was not likely to be any squeeze this month or in July and many holders unloaded. George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, denied that any charters have been made to load out wheat, except for one boat of 240,000 bu, which is to load today for the east. As regards boats for storage, there was no movement in that direction. Elevator men said it would cost as much to store wheat in boats and hold in the harbor until December as it would to hold the grain in store, adding that the wheat would be in better shape were it kept in elevators.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally advertised Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

STUDEBAKER SALES CO. OF CHICAGO HAS THE CAR YOU WANT AT THE PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD

CONSIDER THIS

In our big building at 26th and Michigan we have over 150 late model used cars, including all popular makes and models. Every one of these cars has been carefully checked over and is ready to please the most exacting buyer.

PRICES CUT!

Our prices are unusually way below competitive figures, but now we have cut them drastically again, and that means you can purchase from us now at the lowest prices in our history. Only a small down payment is necessary. Balance can be paid off on our liberal budget installment plan. An attractive allowance will be given you on your old car in trade.

PRICES RANGE FROM $50 TO $1,500

Whether you wish to pay $50 or $1,500, we have the car for you in the exact model you desire. Here are some of our selections:

4 Recent Fords.
10 Recent Nashes.
12 Buicks.
4 Dodges.
7 Chryslers.
8 Packards.
3 Essexes.
50 Other Assorted Makes.

FIREWORKS, LIGHTING UP THE BUCKINGHAM FOUNTAIN, MAKE FAIRYLAND OF GRANT PARK FOR THOUSANDS GATHERED THERE. The fireworks were set off north of the fountain and, as the skyrocket: burst, sending colored sparks flying in all directions, they lit up the waters of the fountain, as shown in this picture, giving an effect which enhanced the beauty of the scene witnessed by the great crowd assembled. (Story on page 1.)
